Baseballers Hold First Practice On Diamond

With only a little more than two weeks of practice left before their first game on April 11, the Nittany baseballers worked out on the still muddy Beaver Field diamond for the first time yesterday afternoon.

Pitchers and catchers continued their limbering up work while fielders who have already reported took part in a little batting and pepper practice.

The team will face a 19 game schedule this spring, playing 12 games at the home field and 7 away. Only three opponents—Pitt, Syracuse, and Long Island—will be met twice during the season.
