

Kappas Capture Bridge Title

Kappa Kappa Gamma came up from second place in last week's bridge eliminations to defeat Kappa Alpha Theta by 1170 points and win the Panhellenic Bridge Tournament at the Nitony Lion Inn Sunday.

An unofficial game with the winning fraternity team will be scheduled this week to determine the All-College champion, Chairman Robert L. Elmore '41 has announced.

A cup, won last year by Delta Gamma, will be presented to the champions by Panhellenic Council. Members of the winning team were Margaret L. Embury '42, Joyce S. Goodale '41, Beatrice J. McKechmie '41, and Mina A. Smith '41.

Seven teams representing five fraternities entered the tourney last Thursday night and were eliminated to two. Other houses were Alpha Chi Omega, Delta Gamma with two teams, Gamma Phi Delta, and a second team for Kappa Alpha Theta.

We, The Women Too Much Of A Good Thing Is Bad . . .

Rumors that downtown apartments will be watched over IFC weekend and coeds who enter reported . . . Gossip circulating about how easy it is to get in and out of dormitories and bragging by the persons who take advantage of the loop holes in coed regulations . . . Gripping about action taken by WSGA Judicial Committee and Senate.

It all adds up to put all Penn State coeds in an unfavorable light.

Yet we all know that the actions of a few are responsible for the comments which cast all women here in an unfavorable mold. Judicial committee knows it. Senate recognizes it.

But to catch up to the violators, Senate, acting on the suggestion of Judicial Committee, has tightened up coed rules—raising the penalty for not signing in and out of dormitories, requesting women to go directly to their rooms over IFC weekend, and to be "critical of their conduct" over the next big weekend.

Senate, true to democratic principles, has always refused to "police" the dormitories, and for this they deserve a hearty pat on the back.

But how else can the guilty few be brought back in line?

We recognize that freedom of speech, an essential of democratic government, is also a powerful weapon to be used against democracy.

A good thing can be carried too far.

Judicial should be given the go ahead signal to check on coeds being penalized for breaking rules. Judicial should also be able to hunt out the few rule breakers who habitually disregard regulations to the detriment of the reputation of all women here.

Only by policing, to a certain degree, can the violators be weeded out. Only by policing can regulations be properly enforced. And only by a check-up on those who break rules can our women's student government run smoothly and eliminate tightening of regulations which effect the entire women's student body — guilty and innocent alike.

Senior Women Will Meet To Re-elect Honor Posts

A meeting of all second semester senior women has been called by Elinor L. Weaver '41, ex-WSGA president, to act upon the recent petition to reconsider voting for the six Class Day honor women.

The coeds will meet in the southeast lounge of Atherton at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow.

If they decide to re-elect honor women, temporary by-laws governing voting procedure will be drawn up to cover tomorrow's elections.

Women In Sports

Chi O's and DG's fought to a 23-23 tie on White Halls' basketball court in the semi-final match of intramurals last night and will play again Wednesday at 4 p. m. to decide the championship.

Victory in the finals would cinch the intramural cup for Chi O's, last year's winner. Pat Patton '42, led the scoring with 14 points for Chi O's and Jan Hartz '42, scored 12 points for the DG's. Half-time score was 16-13, in favor of the DG's.
