We, The Women  Let's Come Out  Of The Dark . . .

Inauguration of Daylight Saving Time did much to bring State College more up-to-the-minute that of neighboring counties and states.
One thing, however, it could never do. That is bring students contact with life outside Nittany Valley. Only students themselves can accomplish this.
All of us accept our "isolation" as a natural thing. What happens daily doesn't concern us as long as we have a nickel or two for cokes and a sandwich hour to join the Spring parade around campus.
While we enjoy the security of our surroundings, we forget events that make the world tick. And we forget that someday
For part of that world.
come within a month
We'll be in a dither about applying advantageously the techacquired here simply because we have forgotten to observe how similar knowledge has been applied in the four years we rein comfort.
Keeping abreast of world events requires only a few minutes of the time we preciously hoard for socializing. Reading one daily paper and listening to 15 or 30 minutes of news broadcasts, would remedy the situation. For a month, until vacation jolts us to disregard the could we have accepted and strive toward comprehension of our fu tures.

Anchorage Coeds 'At Home' Today Following Second Evacuation

First they're in, then they're

 ut! Such is the life of an Anhorage coedThese 21 women will move into their second quarters a second time today after evacuating of Mrs. Hughes, proprietress, who stated that the floors would be refinished.
On the door, a sign reads "Warning! Dangerous Fumigation Within."
Their first removal to new quarters was immediately following the fire during Easter va cation in which most of their lothing and books were destroy ed.
The second time, coeds were requested to leave all their possessions in the dormitory. Since then they have been eating in McAllister Hall and residing in another dormitory.
No compensation has been made for the belongings lost in were those the coeds had removed over vacation and articles firemen rescued.
Following the fire, it was discovered that the only insurance students have on their posses sions is that which they themselves take out.

Krimcon will join with the southwest unit; Delta Gamma, nit. Chi pa Gamma, southeast; and Zap Tau Alpha and Theta Phi Alpha southwest.
