

Baird, Doherty Installed In All-College Posts Despite Draft Threat

COLLEGE WILL START LODGING HOUSE INSPECTION, RATING SOON

Managers, Graft Hit; Hetzel Lauds British Morale

International events made a heavy mark on the All-College inauguration ceremonies yesterday as two students, who will probably never complete their terms of office because of the Selective Service Act, were inducted as All-College president and vice-president.

Despite the fact he will probably hold office only a month, Robert D. Baird '42, new president, in a vigorous speech called for the new All-College Cabinet "to limit increases in student fees, and investigate athletic managerships to find if they are being used as political footballs."

Baird, in addition to asking for expansion of the co-operative movement, urged all students "to keep an eagle-eye open for graft."

Following the inaugural last night, Baird put additional stress on one of the topics in his inaugural speech when he said that he would ask Cabinet to take immediate and forceful action on the managership problem.

President Ralph D. Hetzel, in a brief talk before the inaugural, held up the spirit of the British people as the strength of that nation.

Cabinet Accepts Tribunal Change

The amendment limiting senior Tribunal membership to five students was unanimously passed at Cabinet meeting last night, despite the recent appointment of six seniors to the same body by Robert D. Baird '42, newly inaugurated All-College president.

Introduced by William B. Bartholomew '41, the approved amendment provides for the following changes in the personnel of Student Tribunal:

1. Senior membership will be cut from six to five.

2. Two juniors will be appointed, instead of the single appointment of previous years.

3. Senior members will elect one of the two juniors as chairman for the following year. The other junior will become a senior member. In previous years the single junior member automatically became Tribunal chairman in his senior year.

Baird's additional senior appointment may or may not stand, depending on the action that will be taken by next year's Cabinet when it meets to approve the All-College president's appointments.

Cabinet also endorsed Bartholomew's plan to provide closer relations between Mont Alto Forestry School and the College. Under the plan, a committee of three chosen by Cabinet will serve as a medium to administer a constitution and set up student government at Mont Alto, pending approval of the plan by Forestry School heads.

Following approval by the Interclass Finance Board, $72 will be allotted by Cabinet to the student exam file committee. The money will be used to hire workers to conduct the files from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. each day from May 17 to June 2.

Bill In House To Give College $321,000 Ag Work

HARRISBURG, May 6.—Rep. Clayton Moul (D., York) introduced a bill into the House today which would appropriate $321,000 to the Agriculture School of the Pennsylvania State College for "research and experiment."

Representative Moul gave vague, indefinite answers when questioned about the purpose of the bill, saying that it would be "just for general agriculture work."

He was also the sponsor of a resolution to investigate the College agricultural extension and the Soil Conservation Board on charges they have not cooperated with the federal government in soil erosion work. All appropriations to the College are being held up until completion of the investigation.

The House committee which is conducting the investigation has not yet finished its hearings. At its most recent session, held a week ago, Milton S. McDowell, director of the College agricultural extension, testified that there is no legal connection between the College and the Soil Conservation Board.

No new steps were taken to advance the College maintenance appropriation bill of $5,509,046 which is still in committee in the Senate, though there was a report that the bill might be brought out on the floor sometime during the next few days.

Health Service Plans To Issue Approved List

Inspection and rating of lodging houses to begin at once has been approved by the Board of Trustees, President Ralph D. Hetzel announced last night. This action culminates a two-year crusade for better housing promoted by eight student organizations and prompted by the results of a Collegian housing survey.

The inspection and rating will be voluntary and will follow the request of individual house owners. Health Service employees will act as inspectors and will draw up an approved list of lodging houses from their own data and information supplied by reliable sources.

Individual surveys will include not more than two visits a year and will be confined to certain set conditions. Standards will be determined by Joseph P. Ritenour, director of the Health Service in collaboration with the Advisory Committee.

Mimeographed or printed copies of the approved list will be supplied to students and prospective students in interviews or by mail. This service will be handled by the Christian Association. It is expected that the Daily Collegian will also carry the listing in its initial pre-College edition next year.

Individual difficulties arising between students and landlords of approved houses will be handled by either the Dean of Men or the Student Housing Board. Room contracts will not be guaranteed by the College, but efforts will be made to assist both parties to the contract in the acceptance of contract conditions.

The Administrative Committee is composed of A. R. Warnock, dean of men; Joseph P. Ritenour, director of the Health Service; and Harry W. Seamans, secretary of the PSCA.

Student members on the Advisory Committee are Robert D. Baird, president of Student Cabinet; Ray F. Leffler, chairman of Student Tribunal; John M. Byerly, chairman of the Student Housing Board; Elden T. Shaut, president of the IMA; and Ross B. Lehman, editor of the Daily Collegian.

Faculty representation on the Advisory Committee consists of S. K. Hostetter, assistant to the president in charge of business and finance; A. R. Warnock, dean of men; Joseph P. Ritenour, director of the Health Service; Harry W. Seamans, secretary of the PSCA; and Warren B. Mack, chairman of the Senate Committee on Student Welfare.

Educators Hold Confab Today

The annual spring meeting of the Central Pennsylvania Educators' Conference will be held in Burrowes and the Home Economics Buildings at 4 o'clock today. The School of Education will act as host.

This conference, composed of secondary professors of education in this section of the state, will discuss problems of interest to those preparing secondary school teachers and those active in the field of secondary school teaching.

A tea, given in the Burrowes Building, will open the program at 4 p.m. and will be followed by a tour of Burrowes and the Home Economics buildings and demonstration houses. Members of Kappa Phi Kappa and Pi Lambda Theta, undergraduate honorary education fraternities, will act as guides for the tour.

A combination discussion meeting and dinner will be held in the Maple Room of the Home Economics building at 6 p.m.

Dr. Levi Gilbert, president of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association and superintendent of Altoona Schools, Dr. F. H. Koos, professor of educational administrations, and Hon. D. Raymond Sollenburger, Blair county representative, will be the principal speakers at the dinner meeting.

Cap And Gown Deadline

All seniors are asked to order their caps and gowns at Student Union from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. any day this week, co-chairman of the committee Peter G. Fettko '41 announced yesterday. Saturday noon is the deadline.

Mother's Day Chapel In Rec Hall

Dr. Albert W. Beaven, president of the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, Rochester, will be the speaker at the Mother's Day Chapel services and scholarship day program in Rec Hall Sunday. His subject will be "The Home, Religion and the Days Ahead."

As in former years, the services will be held in Rec Hall to accommodate an expected large Mother's Day attendance, and begin at 10:30 a. m. instead of 11:00 as is customary.

A graduate of Shurtleff College, Alton, Ill., and of the Rochester Theological Seminary, Dr. Beaven was for twenty years pastor of the Lake Avenue Church of Rochester, N. Y., one of the outstanding churches in the country, and is widely known as a speaker and author.

Alumni Drive Soliciting Disappoints Chairman

With only two solicitors reporting with but 26 new subscriptions in yesterday's Alumni student membership campaigning, the total of new members gained in the drive so far reached 291, nine short of the 300 mark.

"Disappointing," was the way William B. Bartholomew '41, chairman of the drive, described the low returns last night.

"If students understood the full purpose of the Alumni Association and were aware of the savings this plan offers, I'm sure we'd have a 100 per cent return. It's up to the solicitors to get that idea across in these last days," he said.

I F Counselors Elect Officers

Election of officers and the appointment of a committee to work with the Interfraternity Caterers Association on fraternity cooperative buying held the spotlight in a meeting of the Interfraternity Counselors Association Monday night.

Prof. J. L. McCord succeeded Prof. William C. Bramble as president and Prof. Marsh W. White took over the vice-president position formerly held by the new president. Maurice K. Goddard replaced Jesse S. Doolittle as secretary and Charles Schlow was appointed as the representative to the executive committee of the IFC.

Prof. Ernest W. Callenbach, chairman, Robert H. Carey, and Robert Y. Edwards were named to a committee for thorough investigation of cooperative buying and will meet with the Interfraternity Caterers Association next fall to discuss the possible establishment of the system at Penn State.

A lengthy discussion of the merits and pitfalls of cooperative buying was carried on at the meeting and advisors who have had experience with the system brought up several objections and problems that would have to be considered before a fraternity cooperative could be established.

The effect of Selective Service on enrolment and fraternity finances for the coming year, as presented to Interfraternity Council in a speech by Dean A. R. Warnock last Thursday night, was brought up at the meeting to aid the counselors, who will relay the information to their fraternities.

Alumnus One Month Late For IF Ball

By JAMES D. OLKEIN

Alan G. McIntyre '39, former Collegian Feature Editor, arrived in State College this weekend—exactly one month late for his Interfraternity Ball date.

McIntyre, who is an employee of the Eastern Airlines, was flying from Palm Beach, Fla., to Philadelphia on April 2 to come to Penn State for the IF weekend when his plane was forced down near Vero Beach, Fla.

"By the way," the ex-Penn Stater said last night, "I was the 13th passenger to board the plane at Palm Beach."

After it was out an hour, the plane ran into a storm and was forced down.

"We were going about 125 miles an hour when we hit. Water started coming into the plane.

and some of us thought we had landed in the ocean, but there was no hysteria.

"There were about three of us who weren't hurt. I didn't know I had cracked my vertebrae until a week later. We had crashed a little after 9 a. m., but we weren't found until 6:20 in the evening."

McIntyre stayed on until 2 a. m. to help with the injured. "None of this hero stuff, mind you," he added. "It's just that I felt it was my duty to the company, since I was the only employee who was not hurt."

After finally leaving the scene of the wreck 21 hours after crashing, McIntyre made a valiant attempt to make connections by Saturday, so as not to disappoint his date entirely.

"They wouldn't let me go. They wanted to hold me for observation."

As a result of that "observation" the former Feature Editor now wears a cast from his hip to his shoulder over a cracked vertebrae, and will wear it until July 1.

"Ironically, it turned out to be a lucky break. It kept me out of the draft. I was supposed to go May 8," he said.

"All rumors that I sabotaged the ship to stay out of the draft are fallacious."

McIntyre considers himself a "lucky guy," since he is recuperating on a paid vacation, and will not return to work until sometime in July.
