'Merchant Of Yonkers' Makes Successful Debut

Thornton Wilder's farce, "The -Merchant of Yonkers," was attempted at the Auditorium last night by the Penn State Players with a commendable amount of effort, and some uneven success.

Farce is always difficult, but when loaded down with slapstick devices such as women hiding men in closets, men trying on women's hats, and cases of confused identity, it presents a challenge to the most seasoned talent. On the whole, the Players bore up well, particularly for a first night, and the audience rewarded them with a fair amount of laughs.

James Ambandos, as Cornelius, made good use of his excellent comedy, was not far behind. A certain impish quality in the two saved some of the more "corny" slapstick episodes.

Most important and most difoccasional weakness with her may be well rewarded.

diction in the chatterbox characterization detracted from her performance.

Norman Shandleman was Horace Vandergelder, "The Merchant of Yonkers." In spots he seemed to show some strength, but his job as a whole fell short of the pace set by the other leading Elinor Herrman, as Mrs. Irene Molloy, did a fine, well-rounded piece of work. Patricia Dougherty was quite charming as Minnie Fay, and Eugene Scheftel as Melchoir filled his assignment with assurance.

If it seems that this reviewer has been lukewarm about the performance of the Players in "The Merchant of Yonkers," it sense of comedy, and came off should be remembered that the best of the well-balanced cast. play was hardly a rousing suc-William Vanderlin, as Barnaby cess in New York. It is quite Tucker, Ambandos' partner in possible, in fact, that some parts of the production, particularly the rowdy second act, were somewhat better handled here than on Broadway.

The play was only reasonably ficult part in the play is Mrs. successful last night, but it is one Dolly Gallagher Levi, handled by of those productions which may Joanne Palmer. Miss Palmer is suddenly catch on fire. If you confident and well poised, but didn't see it, take a chance. You

May Day Schedule

TODAY

5:30 a.m.-Mortar Board tapping.

7:15 a.m.—Cwen Bréakfast. 8 a. m.—Committee members on front campus to set up.

9 a. m.—May Day participants on front campus for practice.

2 p.m.-Golf and lacrosse with Penn, tennis with Cornell.

2:30 to 3:30 p. m.-Mother's Day Teas, Women's dormitories. 3:30 p. m.-New Cwens and Blue Keys report to usher on front campus. May Day participants report to front campus for preparation.

4:30 p.m.-May Day ceremonies, front campus.

In case of rain: 3 p.m.—May Day participants report to Rec Hall.

4:30 p.m.-May Day ceremonies, Rec Hall.

8:30 p.m.—"The Merchant of Yonkers," Schwab Auditorium. TOMORROW

10:30 a. m. — Mother's Day chapel, Rec Hall, Dr. Albert W. and the Days Ahead.'

3 p. m.—Blue Band concert, front campus.

Only 50 coeds participated in the College's first May Day in 1914. Today, about 300 will take

Women In Sports

New Board Organizes

Publicity Board, planned to strengthen and publicize clubs, will hold its first meeting with WRA Club Presidents Board in White Hall at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Consisting of a publicity manager from each club, the board will become an official part of WRA government organization.

White Hall bulletin boards will be used next year for club anmouncements, social events, and business meetings. Club notices will be tentatively posted on the locker room bulletin board.

Revised and new club constitutions, requirements for an active member, and program plans will be published in the annual WRA Handbooks.

Tennis, golf, and archery clubs Eeaven, "The Home, Religion, college intramurals in their sports, including supervising of scheduling, playing, and scoring of games.

> About 100 faculty members will be guests at a coffee hour at the Kappa Alpha Theta house from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

May Day

(Continued from Page One)

ley will be flower girls and Jim Marker and Charles Myers will be train bearers.

Following the crowning Louise Newly organized WRA Club Homer Club, music honorary, will present two selections, and physical education majors, under the direction of Miss Jessie Cameron, assistant professor of physical education, will folk dance and wind the May Pole. Phi Mu Alpha, honorary orchestra, will furnish music.

Both men and women students are reminded of Mother's Day teas in all women's dormitories from 2:30 to 3:30 this afternoon.

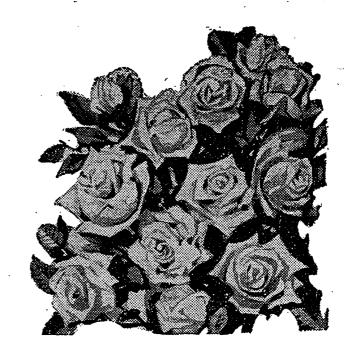

Newest feature of entertainment plans is the Blue Band concert under the direction of Hummel Fishburn, associate professor of music, on front campus at 3 p. m. Sunday. In case of rain, the concert-will be held in Schwab Auditorium.

Farber Heads Emanon

Cecilia Farber '43 was elected president of Emanon Wednesday; Muriel R. Meisselman '43, vicepresident, C. Betty Friedman '44, secretary; H. Judith Gordon '42, treasurer; and Bette M. Davis '42, social chairman. Plans were discussed for the formal dinner dance to be held at the Nittany Lion Inn, 6:30 p.m. May 16.

ELCOME, MOTHERS

Shop At Fromm's

OPP. OLD MAIN

Moore's Dress Shop 124 E. COLLEGE

Rea and Derick AIR CONDITIONED

Nittany News

All Sunday Papers, Magazines, Smokers Supplies

Storch Motor Co.

PLYMOUTH & DESOTO SALES

Home-Cooked Food New Fenway Tearoom 210 W. COLLEGE

Paterson Hosiery Shop

DRESSES & ACCESSORIES 136 E. COLLEGE AVE.

WELCOME MOTHERS tugene H. Lederer REAL ESTATE

Jack Harper - HABERDASHER TAILOR

HATTER

Cliff's

Ice Cream—Delicious Meals CHAMPION MILK SHAKES

"Watch Them Being Made" H. & W. Do-Nut Shop 117 S. PUGH ST.

COMPLIMENTS OF The Daily Collegian

The student body and the above local merchants take this opportunity to again welcome all the Mothers who have come to Penn State to help us celebrate Mother's Day. We hope you will be able to witness some of the events planned for this week-end, which have become a tradition at Penn State. The annual May Day festival will take place this afternoon on the lawn in front of Old Main, with beautiful Jo Condrin reigning as May Queen. This festival, along with a special Chapel service Sunday morning, will highlight the Mother's Day week-end at Penn State. We hope you enjoy it!