We, The Women Coeds Answer Call To Arms

Call to arms has been answered by Penn State coeds!

Showing our interest is not passive in the inclusive national defense program, WSGA Senate is organizing plans to train college women for defense next year.

No longer will women sit idly by and watch men leave for military camps. Inclusion of first aid, simple mechanics, and office training courses indicates trend of the program.

More direct help to the country will be made by women taking such an active part. This year coeds helped by contributing to drives and knitting over 100 articles in connection with town groups.

Such a program will bring greater realization to women of the needs of the nation. They will feel more a part of the program.

Men will realize that women have felt necessity of such training and appreciate that they are not alone in answering the nation's call.
