

Alumni Drive Hits 431 Mark; 500 Predicted

William B. Bartholomew '41, general chairman of the alumni membership drive, announced last night that 431 students have joined the Alumni Association and predicted that late returns will pull undergraduate memberships above the 500 mark.

According to Bartholomew, canvassers signed 201 upperclass men and 230 upperclass women. Sixty seniors were included. They will automatically become paid-up members after their graduation on June 9.

Edward K. Hibshman, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, said, "The campaign not only increased our membership but also for the first time fully explained the Alumni Association to the student body. The cumulative effect of such campaigns each year cannot be overestimated."

Mr. Hibshman pointed out that more degrees have been awarded by the College in the last 10 years than in the entire preceding 75 years and prophesied that the new plan will result in a greatly strengthened membership.

A new life membership plan adopted at the same time as the student membership drive has already yielded 56 new life memberships, though no campaign has been conducted. This plan is based on graduated charges of $40, $30, and $20 depending on the number of years since the person's graduation.

Students To Probe Staged Collision

A hit-run driver will crash head-on into another car on a State College street on Monday, according to a "prediction" today by Thomas S. Shaw, of the Accident Investigation Unit, Philadelphia Police Department.

He should know. He is going to stage the collision in connection with a course on accident investigation procedure, a part of the fifth annual Traffic Officers Training School, being conducted at the College by the Institute of Local Government, in cooperation with the Institute of Public Safety of the College's extension services.

Immediately after the accident, Mr. Shaw will turn nearly two score student-traffic officers loose to discover the identity of the hit-run driver from the fragments of evidence that are left at the scene of the crash.

Farewell Dinner Honors Klassen

"When I leave, I'm going to miss greatly the many delightful associations I have had at Penn State, particularly my relations with the students," Peter B. Klassen, instructor of sociology, said last night at the farewell dinner given in his honor by 47 of his faculty friends at the Hotel State College.

At the conclusion of this term Mr. and Mrs. Klassen will leave for Chicago, where the popular instructor will do research work under Dr. W. F. Osborne at the University of Chicago.

In recognition of his work and his teaching during his two-year residence here, Prof. Arthur H. Reede of the economics department presented a leather briefcase to Mr. Klassen on behalf of the group, in which various schools were represented.

Prof. M. Nelson McGeary of the political science department briefly described Mr. Klassen's achievements, particularly his work in connection with criminology and population.

Mrs. J. Paul Selsam lauded the work Mrs. Klassen has done in forming a Girl Scout group primarily for underprivileged girls in and about State College.

Ad Contest Winners Announced Today

Winners of the student advertising contest sponsored by the Interstate Advertising Manager's Association will be announced and awarded cash prizes of $50 at a luncheon which the association is holding at the Nittany Lion Inn today at noon.

Donald W. Davis, associate professor of journalism, has announced that the advertising plans will be on exhibit for local merchants or any interested persons in the Nittany Lion Inn from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. today.

The Luncheon and announcements of winners is part of a two-day confab which was held by the association yesterday and will continue until this afternoon. Representatives are present from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland.

Beaux Arts Ball Has Comic Theme

Comic strips will be the decorative theme of the annual Beaux Arts Ball which will be held in the Armory today from 9 p. m. to midnight. The walls of the building will be decorated with comic strip "flats," student-drawn facsimiles of famous comic strip characters on large-sized poster cards.

Sponsored by Scarab, national honorary architectural fraternity, the dance is Penn State's only costume affair. Deviating from the customary, strict costume rule, an informal "come as you please" regulation has been adopted. Prizes will be awarded for the most unusual, most clever and most original costumes.

The Beaux Arts Queen, chosen by student votes from a group of 13 coed representatives of sororities and dormitories, will be crowned at intermission. She will be attended by the 12 other representatives.

Music by the Campus Owls will feature popular arrangements of the latest hit tunes. Tickets for the ball can be purchased at Student Union and at the door tonight at $1 per couple.

Forms To Be Given

Opportunities for learning Civil Service test procedure will be given by Miss Honora M. Noyes, institutional economist, in Room 2, Sparks Building at 7 o'clock today, tomorrow and Sunday. Both students and College clerical workers may make appointments. Cash prizes will be offered for the best scores.

Late News Flashes

BEIRUT, Syria—Syrian officials admitted last night that RAF bombers had damaged four of the 15 German planes "forced down" at Syrian air bases near Palmyra. This German force in Syria indicates a possible pincer movement on the Suez Canal.

CAIRO—A British military force announced the capture of Sollum, Libyan city on the Egyptian border. This success means the delay of the other arm of the pincer movement, the German mechanized units in Libya.

WASHINGTON—Congress had little criticism yesterday of President Roosevelt's talk on Thursday concerning French capitulation to German demands for

Student, Faculty Marshals Chosen For Graduation

Student and faculty marshals, appointed to arrange for diplomas and details of commencement in each School, were announced yesterday by Clarence E. Bullinger, chief marshal of the College.

Commencement exercises will be held on New Beaver Field at 10:30 a. m., June 9 and not as erroneously reported in The Daily Collegian yesterday. Candidates for all degrees will meet behind the East stands on New Beaver Baseball Field at 10 a. m. In case of rain there will be no academic procession for the ceremonies in Rec Hall. On either site there will be no recessional.

The baccalaureate sermon will be given as originally announced as a chapel service in Rec Hall at 11 a. m., June 8. At this ceremony, however, there will be no academic procession.

Marshals for each School are Agriculture, Prof. Adam L. Beam and Morton E. Jenkins; Chemistry-Physics, Prof. David C. Duncan and Gerald B. Bready; Education, Prof. Frank A. Butler and Mary J. Gillespie; Engineering, Prof. Leland S. Rhodes and Louis N. Grafinger; Liberal Arts, Prof. George L. Leffler and Norman Racusin.

Mineral Industries marshals include Prof. Carl H. Samans and George A. Thompson, Jr.; Physical Education, Prof. Lloyd M. Jones and Lillian E. Benfer; military department, Thomas G. Tousey, Jr.; and the Graduate School, Prof. Donald S. Cryder and Ernest G. Stern.

Stutter, Lisp, Or Talk Baby-Talk? The Speech Clinic Should Help You

The mecca of Penn State stutters, lispers, and infantile perseverators (baby-talkers) is the Speech Clinic on the third floor of Sparks Building.

Speech experts say that a person can't make any real progress in speech correction until he "hears himself as others hear him." For this purpose the clinic has a Soundmirror, which electrically records a person's voice by the rearrangement of molecules on a metal tape. The recording can be played back to the patient hundreds of times, but as soon as the Soundmirror is spoken into, the molecules are once rearranged on the same tape and a new recording is impressed. In one of the laboratories is an extremely delicate recording machine that can make a continuous recording from lectures in Rooms 10 and 121 Sparks as well as from the speech classroom, the testing rooms, and the Clinic studio.

Other apparatus include a phonetic typewriter, a model of the ear and throat, a Kimograph which records body reactions on a paper tape, and a small, gaping skeleton imprisoned in a brown metal locker in the speech classroom.

The Clinic offers its services to the students of the College, to outside patients, and to schools throughout the state by means of a mobile unit which diagnoses and treats speech cases.
