

Nittany Eleven Stresses Defense For Temple Tilt

Temple Polishes Plays In Secret Practices

With the cry "Stop Andy Tomic" ringing in their ears, the Nittany Lion eleven practiced intensively yesterday defense against aerial and ground attacks which the Temple Owls might use in Saturday's game.

Coach Bob Higgins especially stressed pass defense because the Owls are expected to unleash aerial power often during the game, with talented Andy Tomic tossing bulls-eye passes. Temple has a wealth of ends who are capable pass-receivers and may cause Penn State considerable trouble.

Temple is preparing, however, for a tough tussle with the Lions. Having underrated Penn State last year, the Owls are looking for vengeance for the 18-0 drubbing given them by the 1940 Lions. Coach Ray Morrison sent his gridders through secret practice sessions this week, possibly perfecting a double-flanker play or another pass play to throw against the Lions' defense.

In yesterday's practice, Line Coach Joe Bedenk spent a lot of his time polishing up a defense against the running plays that Temple used against Kansas, V. M. I., and Georgetown. Bedenk scouted the Temple-Georgetown game last week.

Fortunes of the Nittany forward wall were generally bright as Bernie Brosky, husky tackle, returned to heavy duty with his knee injury healed. Brosky and Mike Kerns, another tackle who has been favoring a knee injury, will be available for service in the Temple game.

The only seriously injured player on the line is John Jaffurs who sprained his shoulder in the Bucknell game. With Jaffurs out, the reserve power at the guard post has dwindled. Jim Bonham will probably fill in at one guard post, the other guard will be either Bob Perugini or Ted Kratzke. Red Yoho, regular guard, has been badly shaken up several times in scrimmage and probably will not start.

Ralph Ventresco, tailback, was sent to the infirmary with the sudden recurrence of a knee injury yesterday morning. He probably injured his leg slightly in Tuesday's scrimmage. It is yet indefinite whether he will enter the Temple fray.

Bob Davis, end, returned to practice yesterday with his bruised shoulder improved. Coach Higgins is undecided whether to use him for heavy duty in his uncertain condition.

UNCERTAIN END—Bob Davis, end, may be kept out of the Temple scrap with a bruised shoulder. His condition at game time will determine whether he will see service.

Lions To Meet Orange Harriers

A 17-year-old feud will be renewed on Saturday when Penn State's cross-country team locks horns with the Syracuse harriers at Syracuse, N. Y.

The Orange have come off with the bacon six times in the series, twice in the past two years, while the Nittany Lions won the other 11 contests since 1924.

Seven varsity harriers will make the trip, Coach Chick Werner announced last night. The starters in Saturday's meet will be Captain Alex Bourgerie, Norm Gordon, Herm Goffberg, Pop Thiel, Mac Smith, Curt Stone, and Bob Faloon.

Leading the Orange harrier contingent will be a pair of seniors who have been running together since their high school days. The duo, Lynn Radcliffe and Les Stansbury, were teammates on Syracuse's Central High School team before their college days.

Frank Coffin, Clyde Johnson, and Dick Arrighi, who placed along with Radcliffe and Stansbury in the Orange victory over State last year, are all back this season.

The Blue and White cross-country squad moved to the Centre Hills Country Club yesterday afternoon to practice hill-climbing on the steep golf course grades.

Nittany Booters To Face Bisons

LEWISBURG, Pa. Oct. 15—Strengthened by the return of eight veterans from last year's soccer wars, Coach Merle Edwards' Bucknell booters are going through rigorous training in preparation for their opening encounter of the 1941 season with Penn State here on Saturday.

The veterans, reported to be rounding into good shape and raring to go in actual combat, include Captain Warren Lewis, Dan Reinhardson, Alfred Egly, John Yost, Herb Heaney, Bob Snyder, James Whyte and Dick Eldridge.

Two sophomores, Bill Heim and Bill Sanns, have shown promise in practice scrimmages and look like the answers to the club's half-answered fullback and wing problems.

Although they will enter Saturday's contest as the underdog, Bucknell's chances of victory will not be hopeless. The experienced Bison eleven is determined to avenge last year's 8-0 drubbing.

If the Thundering Herd upsets the high-flying Nittany Lions, it will accomplish something no other Bucknell team has ever done. Penn State has copped all six games of the soccer rivalry which began in 1930, scoring a total of 26 points and holding the Bisons without a single goal.

Games of past years:

Year	Penn State	Bucknell
1936	6	0
1940	8	0
