

Connell McGill, Transfer, Dies Of Spinal Meningitis

Non-Epidemic Type Ritenour Stresses

Connell J. McGill, a member of the sophomore class who transferred from Temple University this fall, died of spinal meningitis in a Philadelphia hospital Saturday night.

Enrolled in commerce and finance and a member of Phi Kappa fraternity, McGill reported to the College dispensary last Tuesday morning when Dr. E. S. Krug, of the health department diagnosed his case as grippe or influenza and send him to the infirmary.

While at the infirmary, McGill developed an earache and his case was re-diagnosed as exacerbation of a middle ear infection, and Dr. C. D. Dietherich, of the health department, advised him to consult a Philadelphia ear specialist, who had treated McGill for a mastoid condition which he has had for the last eight years.

He rode to Philadelphia Friday afternoon with fraternity brothers to see the specialist. His death was caused by a type of spinal meningitis which is non-epidemic according to Dr. Joseph P. Ritenour, College health service director.

Born September 9, 1922, McGill graduated from Roman Catholic High School, Philadelphia, in 1939. He then entered Temple University where he stayed for three semesters before transferring to Penn State this fall. He was trying out for assistant wrestling manager here at the College.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McGill, 828 Asbury Terrace, Philadelphia. Funeral services, which several of his fraternity brother will attend, will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Debate Season To Open With Triangular Meet

Penn State's first varsity debate of the 1941-42 season has been scheduled for November 10 when groups from the University of Scranton and Cornell University will vie with the College team in a split team cross examination debate here.

Thomas J. Burke '42, debate manager, announced that the subject will be, Resolved: That every able bodied male citizen of the United States should be required to have one year of full time military training before attaining the present draft age. One student from each of the three schools will make up each of the two teams, negative and affirmative.

Practice sessions for the debaters will start tomorrow night. Varsity Coach J. F. O'Brien, associate professor of speech and freshman coach Harold P. Zelko, instructor in speech, selected their teams after tryouts conducted last week. During the tryout sessions candidates presented original five minute speeches on either side of the question, Resolved: That the federal government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States, constitutionally conceded. Coach O'Brien stated that candidates were chosen on the basis of content of speeches and speech delivery.

Successful students for the varsity team are: Seniors—Robert D. Baird, Coleman Bender, Thomas J. Burke, Gerald V. Doherty, David L. Engelhardt, William E. Harkins, Jack M. Lishan, Norman E. Oakes, Mark A. Richards, William C. Ritzel and Donald S. Williams.

Juniors—Morris Beck, E. Richard Booser, Milton A. Calig, Samuel G. Fredman, John B. McCue, Robert Miller and Bernard M. Weinberg. Sophomores—Milton J. Bergstein, Carroll P. Blackwood, Harold Epstein, Walter Gerson, Robert T. Kimmell, and Francis E. Zabkar.

Those selected for the freshman team are Carl H. Bergey, Eugene Bischoff, Gaylord Greenlee, Letrick Harris, Robert MacNabb, William Pomerantz, Thomas B. Wheatley and Lee J. Wolovsky.

Cabinet Meets Tonight

By-aws to the student government constitution, and the school-council budget problem will be considered at Cabinet meeting in the Alumni office at 9 o'clock tonight, Gerald F. Doherty '42, All-College president disclosed last night.

chapel address on Sunday, October 12.

Sunday chapel is a popular tradition at Penn State. Although attendance is not compulsory, the services are attended each week by an average of nearly 1000 students. All of the leading faiths and denominations are represented by the speakers.

"The list of chapel speakers is a constant amazement to visiting clergymen," Frizzell pointed out. "Our visitors claim that Cornell is the only other college in the East comparable to Penn State as to size, student interest, and the characters of the speakers."

Ten years ago, when compulsory chapel was abolished, he said average attendance was 600. Now attendance has been known to reach 4,000 in the annual Mother's Day services, he stated.

Baird Returns; College Has Two Student Prexies

American Chemical Society Honors Whitmore

Dean Frank C. Whitmore of the School of Chemistry and Physics at the College has been appointed a member of a committee of economic status created by the American Chemical Society to aid in fostering sound relationships between employers and employees in the chemical industry.

The group will give its immediate consideration to the whole question of employment in professional work in the chemistry field, according to the board of directors of the society.

Cornerstone Ceremony Held By Presbyterians

Work among 1,200 Presbyterian students will be expanded in April when an $85,000 religious education building adjoining the State College Presbyterian Church will be completed.

"Jesus Christ, the Cornerstone" was the theme of a special cornerstone laying service at the church yesterday when data from 10 church organizations was placed in the stone. Rev. Donald W. Caruthers, director of the Westminster Foundation which will partly occupy the building, announced that 65 undergraduates were members of church school cabinets, and two students were members of the church board of trustees.

Men's Dancing Classes Scheduled For Monday

Dancing classes, sponsored by the Penn State Club, will begin in the Armory at 8:30 p. m. on Monday. F. Thomas John, instructor of last year's class, has again been secured to take charge of the class. He will be assisted by a group of coeds.

The course, consisting of ten lessons, will run for five weeks, from 8:30 to 9:30 on Mondays and from 7 to 8 on Fridays.

Doherty Recognized As Present Leader

With the return of Robert D. Baird '42 to College, Penn State student government circles are now confronted with the unusual situation of having two All-College presidents.

Baird, who recently received an honorable discharge from the Naval Air Corps, and who has been deferred from immediate army service by the State College Draft Board, registered at the College yesterday and will complete his senior year.

His return to College, however, has brought about a situation which All-College Cabinet has never before faced. Only several weeks after their election last spring, both President Baird and Gerald F. Doherty '42, vice-president elect, revealed that they might not return to College this year because of the draft.

To offset this threat of a presidential vacancy, Cabinet rushed through an amendment to the student government constitution stating that a new election would be held in the event that both the president and vice-president should resign or become disqualified. Under the old provision, the senior class president would have become head of student government as chairman of Cabinet.

During the summer, Baird joined the Naval Air Corps, but Doherty returned to College following a decision by the Scranton Draft Board, which granted him a "temporary release" but not a year's deferment from the draft.

Although nothing definite could be learned as the Daily Collegian went to press last night, it is probable that Cabinet will take action on the presidential problem at tonight's meeting.
