

Between The Lions

With PAT NAGELBERG

's Still Danny

Officially it's Assistant Dean of Penn Daniel A. DeMarino now, but it's still Danny and always will be to all those who have come in contact with the big, modest Greensburg boy who came here as a freshman seven years ago and decided to make Penn State his home.

If the true index to a man's personality is his popularity with the persons under him and the respect they have for him and his ability, Danny is already even greater than he was on Bob Higgins' team for three years. And in case you don't know it, he played a whale of a game at tackle, good enough to be claimed by the professional Cleveland Rams.

It happened, though, that while DeMarino loved to play football, he liked Penn State and everything connected with it even more. In his spare time, he studied for his master's degree and helped coach either the freshman or junior varsity football team.

One Of The Boys

We say spare time, because evidently a man had to spend most of his hours being with people to make as many friends in such a short time as Danny did. Perhaps he is so much accepted by the boys because he is still one of them and they feel they can confide in him.

Or maybe his official superiors like him because he is always ready to listen to sound advice and is never above taking time out whenever necessary to do that little extra when needed.

Most probably, it's because Danny is a tireless worker for somebody else's, and not his own, cause. And above all, it's because he likes young men and wants to be among them for genuine and unselfish reasons.

When Dean Warnock announced yesterday that he was glad of this new opportunity to make Danny useful to the student body, he was speaking for every one of us.

ALL SET — Red Yoho, hard-playing guard, will probably see action in Saturday's game. He has been suffering from several bruising shake-ups received in the Bucknell tilt and practice sessions.

'Unsung Heroes' Spark Booters

Reserve players of extremely high calibre supply one of the chief secrets of Penn State soccer teams' phenomenal success in the past eight years, according to Coach Bill Jeffrey.

Each season a sizeable group of those unsung heroes, not quite good enough to crash the perennially mighty Nittany lineup, report to practice every afternoon out of sheer love for the sport.

"Our second stringers," Jeffrey said, "are usually as good as, if not better than, most of the opponents on our schedule. They bring out the very best in our regulars in scrimmage and force them to keep on their toes to retain their positions."

At least three of this year's reserves, Boyd Eppers, Bill Prichard, and Ramzi Gurcay, would probably be certain starters on any other collegiate eleven in the nation, but at Penn State terrific competition forces them to take a back seat.

The entire reserve squad, in fact, is composed of superlative players who must be content to spur the regulars on to their glory.

Lion Eleven Stops Yearling Gridmen In Practice, 30-0

Choosing to dust off the Nittany squad's offensive reserve strength to wither the defense of Lehigh's Engineers on Saturday, Coach Bob Higgins turned the varsity loose on the freshman gridlers yesterday to trounce them, 30-0.

Opening a concentrated attack at the kickoff, the varsity marched relentlessly down the field. Jack Banbury, fullback, drove his legs high and crashed over for the first score from the 15-yard line. Receiving a freshman kick later on the varsity 32, Banbury sped inside left tackle and whirled to the frosh 11-yard line. A Banbury to Johnny Day pass clicked for the second touchdown.

Bill Debler shouldered most of the ball carrying at this point and whisked at will through the yearling line. Starting on the varsity 22, the Lions gained five first downs and brought the ball to the freshman 26-yard marker. Banbury hurled over left guard and was tackled on the six-yard line. Debler skirted right end for the third six-pointer.

Charlie McFarland, fullback, and George McWilliams, wingback, entered the game and added bits of brilliant running. It was their combined efforts that advanced the ball from the varsity 45 to the frosh five-yard line. To score again, McFarland rifled a pass to Bob Davis, end, who leaped high to pull it down.

The last varsity score was chalked up when Day turned on his speed to streak inside right tackle from the five-yard line.

For the yearlings all was not dull. Several times they harassed the varsity defense. The shifty ball carrying of Bob Weitzell, fullback, slashed deeply into the secondary. Dave Alston did yeam service, slicing off short gains, but the frosh attack bogged down almost as quickly as it started.

CENTER RETURNS — When Bob Wear, center, turned his ankle in the Temple game and was forced to retire, the center problem became acute. But Wear recovered quickly and will take up his duties against Lehigh.

X-Country Team Has Long Layoff

With nine days remaining until the next meet, Cross-country Coach Chick Werner has his harriers slowing down the pace of their workouts.

Boasting a record of two victories and no defeats the Nittany Lions will run up against New York University on October 31. Mainstay of the Violet team is Captain Les MacMitchell, winner of the IC4-A's for the past two years.

The New Yorkers latest victim were the Yale Bulldogs last Friday. In finishing first, MacMitchell clipped 32 seconds off the course record at New Haven.

The freshman harriers, who also have until November 1 for their next meet, ran informal time trials with the Altoona High School cross-country team yesterday afternoon.

The frosh jogged two and one-eight miles, regulation for high schools, with the Altoona boys. Joe Beach, Newman Draper, and Jerry Carver showed up well for the Nittany Lion Cubs.

Cub Soccermen, Navy Play To 1-1 Deadlock

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 22 — Jerry McKenna booted a goal for Penn State's freshman soccer team as the Lion cubs were tied, 1-1, by the Navy plebes here today in their opening game of the season.

The Nittany yearlings' lineup was composed of Jim Edson, goalie; Pete Snedecar and Bill Dietrich, fullbacks Tad Salon, Jim Atherton, and Dean Hartman, halfbacks; Frank McGuire, and Bob Gehrett, wingmen; Jim DiSalvo and McKenna, inside forwards; and Frank Klase, center forward.

Cross-Country IC4A's Set For November 17 In New York City

The 33rd annual varsity cross-country championships of the Interscholastic AAAA will be held at Van Cortland Park in New York City at 3 p. m. November 17, it was announced today by Asa S. Bushnell, secretary-treasurer of the IC4A.

One half hour earlier, the freshmen will participate in their 22nd annual harrier event.

Penn State's chances in the classic are still pretty much of a question mark. The Nittany Lions can boast of no individual star, but show plenty of balance, as was evidenced by the five-man finish in the Syracuse meet.

Rhode Island State, winner of last fall's race for the first time since the varsity race was inaugurated at Princeton in 1908, will defend team laurels. The Rams will be favored to retain their crown, since they have the same team that won last year.

Michigan State, runner-up last year, is still an unknown quantity. Manhattan, third last year, was beaten decisively by the Blue and White earlier in the season.

Les MacMitchell, NYU flash, will be out to win the individual title for the third successive year. Bob Nichols of Rhode Island State was runner-up last year.

Henry Hart of Temple won the freshman event last fall, while the Manhattan frosh took the team honors.

Wrestlers Called

All varsity and freshman wrestling squad candidates are asked to report to Rec Hall at 4:30 p. m. Movies will be shown.

FOOTBALL

Scoring in every quarter of the game, the Delta Upsilon nine soundly trounced Chi Phi to the tune of 25 to 0 in last night's continuation of the first round play of intramural football.

An intercepted pass spelled defeat for Delta Sigma Phi at the hands of Beta Theta Phi by a close 7 to 0 score. Allen Brown, Beta Theta Phi back, raced fifty yards to a tally after an interception in the last three minutes of play for the only score of the game.

By virtue of three long passes in the closing two minutes of the game, Sigma Phi Epsilon eked out a close 7 to 0 victory over Alpha Chi Sigma. The scoring play was an eight-yard pass from Winters to Chivers. A pass from Winters to Blackburn accounted for the extra point.

Lead by "Chuck" Wedge, Phi Kappa Sigma downed the Beaver House in the final contest of the evening by a 12 to 0 count. Wedge intercepted a pass early in the second period, and after racing half the distance to the goal line, he passed to McMillan who romped over the line for the score. A "razzle-dazzle" play in which five men handled the ball, accounted for the last score with Borland crossing the line.

Thirty-eight fraternities have entered teams in the touch football tournament. Of these, twelve have been eliminated and another seven will be dropped before play in the second round begins sometime next week. In the independent league, there are 17 teams entered. The first round for them will get under way when the fraternity's first round is disposed of.

The twelve fraternities that have already entered the second round play are: Delta Chi, Phi Kappa Sigma, Gamma Sigma Phi, Phi Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Tau, Alpha Phi Delta, Pi Kappa Phi, Beta Theta Phi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Upsilon, and Phi Kappa Sigma. Play will be resumed at 7 p. m. tonight.

SWIMMING

Phi Sigma Delta nosed out the Tau Phi Delta by a close margin of 36 to 33 in the first meet of the evening. Delta Upsilon and Sigma Nu deadlocked at 28 to 28. In an effort to determine a winner, Ed Fairchild, Delta Upsilon, and Charles Evans, Sigma Nu, swam a 30-yard free style playoff. Evans won and thereby enabled his team to advance in the tournament.

Seebold Leads In Tourney Play

The only remaining quarter-final match in the first flight All-College Golf Tournament is still undetermined, as Chuck Seebold led Jim Noble 3 up at the end of nine holes.

In the second flight, Howard Snowden became the first finalist of the tournament when he beat Jack Dorrance one up on the 19th green.

Playford Boyle defeated Ralph D'Iorio 4 and 3 in the quarter-finals in another second flight match.

Should Seebold defeat Noble in their present match, he will run up against Bob Wallace in what will prove the most interesting contest of the tournament. Seebold, who is captain of the golf team, has been teamed with Wallace for the past four years.

The other semifinalists in the first flight are Allen Hack and Scotty Maxwell, who was last year's winner. Hack and Maxwell will play to meet the winner of the upper bracket.

The deadline for semifinal play has been set at Sunday, Coach Bob Rutherford announced yesterday.
