

Dance Reflects Medieval Theme

Against a medieval background of crown, sceptre and shield, the year's first formal will get underway with the Cwen dance in White Hall from 9 p. m. to midnight to-night.

Coeds and other dates surrounded by pine and hemlock trees, will dance to the music of the Nittany Lion orchestra.

A 50-foot mural depicting the crown and sceptre, Cwen symbol, and medieval castles was painted by Lucille D. Weinstein '44. Red bunting and crepe paper drapes offsetting Cwen shields done in black, red, and gold paint complete the decorations.

Coeds may purchase tickets priced at $1.10 from any Cwen or Student Union. Proceeds will be given to the Cwen scholarships presented at the annual WSGA Christmas dinner in McAllister Hall.

Attend Conference

Mrs. Marion S. McDowell, associate professor of home economics, and Miss Della J. Avery, assistant professor, are attending meetings of the National Association for Nursery Education in Detroit, Mich.

We, The Women Dad Wants To See The Dividends

Imports — mostly male — will swarm in for a weekend at the College. It is not the same sort of weekend that is planned for dates; nevertheless, it is one that will be packed with activity.

The paramount factor is that the College will undergo a minute examination. Dad will want proof that his money and interests are wisely invested.

We can show him they are. We prejudiced students take for granted that Dad has not bought on the margin and it will be our job to show him he has not.

Perhaps this will be the one time this year that Dad will see what we see every day. How he remembers these things and the impression he gets of the College will depend on this visit. Next week it will be too late to correct his impressions.

This is not a plea for saccharine behavior. Dad wants to see the College as it normally is—a large institution with a spirited student body.

We all think this is a great place or we would not be here. What we have to do is show our dads just what makes us proud of Penn State.

Did You Honestly Pull Such Playful Pranks, Pa?

Daddy Really Cut Campus Capers, Too

That's all right, kids, maybe we aren't so bad after all. And when Dad writes for information regarding a letter received from the College, perhaps it would be wise to remind him of some things that happened when he was in school.

There's the tale of 20 year's standing of the boys who would "fix-up" blind dates for bashful classmates with a lovely but misunderstood woman whose husband was out of town. Helping a classmate in his social life is well and good—but what about hiding in the bushes surrounding the supposed date's home, pretending to be her husband, and then giving the thwarted romeo a good beating?

Class parties are another story. In the "good old days" these affairs lasted a week. One time, we are told, freshmen evading upperclassmen hid in a deserted box-car—and were locked in for several days.

No class scrap would have been complete without several broken bones. Biggest reason for their abolishment was that one participant was fatally wounded.

No story on what College used to be would be complete without the traditional tale of the cow which reposed in Old Main tower.

Such information is not a bad thing to know. Even houseparties are Sunday School picnics compared to the parties that Dad's gang used to throw.

Frosh Council Elects Champlin To Judicial

Carolyn K. Champlin '45, new sub-chairman of WSGA Freshman Council, will automatically be one of two freshman representatives to WSGA Judicial Committee. The second will be appointed by WSGA Senate.

At the same Council elections yesterday, Eleanor L. Lathrop '45 was named secretary.

The recently inaugurated method of naming women to WSGA committees was explained by Dorothy L. Jones '44, chairman. It calls for women who are interested in doing committee work to submit their names and preferences to hall presidents. In naming workers, WSGA Senate will consult application lists.

Nancy E. Gosser '43, Christmas Dinner chairman, has revealed that this plan will be used in planning committees.

Alpha Epsilon Phi will give a Founder's Day banquet at the State College Hotel after the football game Saturday.

CLASSIFIED SECTION

FOR SALE—Two tuxedo suits. Complete. Good condition. Sizes 38 and 40 Call 2359 or 363 Ridge Ave. 3tch 16, 20, 24 S.

WANTED—Furnace to fire by the week. Call James Ziegler, 2289. 1tch 24 J. M.

Rides Wanted

R.W.—New York. L. next Friday morning or Thursday afternoon. C. Bob Finger, 4078. 2tpd 24 25.

P.W.—Pittsburgh. L. 4 p. m. Friday. C. Wally, 2391.

P.W.—Pittsburgh L. Friday at 4. Call Wally between 7 to 9 p. m. P.W.—Kane, Warren, or Union City. L. Saturday. C. Weed, 4693.

Scads Of Dads Will Compete For Coeds' Book Of Who's Who

He might be a banker; he could be an ice man; but that's my pop.

Since everyone has a papa, mere ownership is not unique, but possessing a famous dad is.

A who's who poll conducted among coeds would include Winny Renner's father who is a Colonel in the army, and Peg Wharton's dad, also a contribution to the military phase of national defense.

"Woody" Wolf, Lynn Wolf's father, was recently voted the most popular sports announcer in minor leagues. He will have a grandstand seat for the football game to relay scrimmages on New Beaver Field tomorrow via broadcasting networks.

Rhoda Ruth's sire is State Senator Ruth. Beverly Miller claims filiality to Shorty Miller of 1912 gridiron fame, and patriarch of Betty Griffith's household is a former All-American.

Dotty Field's dad, inventor and lecturer, will speak to a group of engineers here next week.

Jessie Jones, Jr., is following in her father's footsteps. Jones, Sr., manager of the Lancaster airport, is inventor of the single propeller for airplanes.

Though the lineage goes back a generation, Marge Sykes' grandfather is Pittsburgh's oldest newspaper reporter and columnist.

Dads' success stories could go on and on. But to coeds, dad's an ace just because he's dad.

WOMEN IN SPORTS

Juniors Are Tops

Junior hockey players were declared intramural champions at the close of the season yesterday having defeated freshman five times and sophomores three. Freshmen have won only three times and sophomores not at all.

As a final blow, juniors defeated freshmen, 8-1 yesterday. Making goals were Sis Fitting, 4; Polly Rugh, 3; Janet Holmes, 1; and frosh Betsy McGee, 1.

The line-up:

Juniors: L. Whoolery, r.w.; P. Crossman, r.l.; S. Fitting, c.f.; P. Rugh, l. i.; C. Hughes, l. w.; S. Jackson, r.h.; P. Insley, c.h.; M. Devling, l.h.; A. Drivas, r.b.; J. Holmes, l.b.; S. Scrivanich, g.

Freshmen: A. Radle, c. f.; B. McGee, l.i.; G. Longnecker, r.h.; P. Gregory, c.h.; R. Kauffman, l.h.; E. Brown, r.b.; A. Keefer, l.b.; S. Hostetter, g.

Substitutions: M. Haverstick '43.

WRA Board named Dorothy J. Jennings '44 general chairman of the annual Fall Camp Conference to be held at the WRA cabin November 1 and 2.

Cheryl Charleson '43 will replace Marge Chambers '43 as publicity manager for the Tennis Club.

READ THE COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS

ATTENTION — SOCIAL CHAIRMEN

Are you interested in a guaranteed 12 piece dance band for your houseparty November 7 and 8—or your next social function? For terms write or phone 181-X. R. M. Spangler, Selinsgrove, Pa.

ISP Officer Replaced

ISP OFFICERS Helen M. Borton, graduate, has replaced Mrs. Ralph V. McGrew as vice-president of Iota Sigma Pi, national women's chemistry honorary, not president, as previously announced.

Cathaum

Shows at 1:30, 3:00, 6:30, 8:30

TODAY - SAT - MON

A Dare-devil Yank Hunts for Thrills... and Finds A-plenty

TYRONE POWER

with BETTY GRABLE and John Sutton

Comedy! Drama! Songs! Adventure!

State

TODAY - SAT - MON

Shows at 1:30, 3:00, 6:30, 8:30

A Story So Beautiful... It Had to be Set to Music!

Gene MACDONALD & IAN HUNTER

"SMILIN' THROUGH"

Photographed in TECHNICOLOR

Gene RAYMOND • Ian HUNTER

THE MALE ANIMAL

Who Is He?
What Is He?
Why Is He?
FIND OUT!

See Players' Repeat Performance

Oct. 25—8:30
Auditorium, 75c plus tax

It's a Players' Production

LEARN TO DANCE

at the

Annual All-College Dancing Class

Sponsored by Penn State Club

10 LESSONS — $2.50

Monday and Friday Evenings—Starting, Oct. 27
Mondays 8:30-9:30 p.m. - Friday 7:00-8:00 p.m.

AT THE ARMORY

Tickets on sale at Student Union