

Weaver Injures Hand In Practice For NYU Battle

Backfield plans for the Nittany Lion tilt with New York University at the Polo Grounds Friday night were disrupted when Paul Weaver, first string quarterback, injured his hand in practice yesterday. It is feared that he may have broken a bone. X-rays will be taken today to make certain.

For the first time since the Bucknell game two weeks ago, John Jaffurs, guard, reported in uniform at practice yesterday. His shoulder has healed and he will be ready for the Violet encounter. Chuck Raysor, center, out with an ankle injury, turned up but took part in light practice only.

Aldo Cenci, quarterback, and Kratzke, guard, were slightly injured in the Lehigh clash. Cenci chipped a rib and Kratzke developed a charley-horse.

The Violet line will have no edge on Penn State's in experience. While Coach Mal Stevens has a pair of durable ends in Alverne Chalek and Paul Boroff, he has been forced to experiment at the other posts, a process which may continue to the last game of the season. However, Stevens has a wealth of backfield material.

NYU THREAT — Jack Barmak, NYU back, has been having a good season for the Violets and may give the Nittany, eleven or little trouble on Friday night.

'45 Gridmen Stop Syracuse, 20-12

With Dave Alston, freshman left halfback, chalking up all the Lion cub touchdowns and dropping two extra points, the Nittany yearling gridmen fought from behind to snatch victory from the Syracuse freshmen Saturday, 20-12, and looked optimistically toward the game with Cornell at Ithaca Saturday.

After Syracuse had taken the lead with a touchdown early in the second quarter, Lion cub gridmen scored on one-yard and five-yard plunges by Dave Alston for two six-pointers. Alston again shook himself loose in the fourth quarter to gallop 18 yards for a score.

Surprised by Syracuse's powerful drive in the second quarter, the yearlings were scored on for the first time this season. However, Nittany reserves helped Penn State to win over a tough Orange team. Reserve tailback Allen Davis turned in several long dashes.

Coach Marty McAndrews was particularly pleased with the work of Bob Weitzel at fullback and Ray Ulinski, quarterback. Weitzel tore his way repeatedly into the Orange secondary defense and was hard to stop. Ulinski did a first-class job of quarterbacking. His blocking was nearly perfect, according to Coach McAndrews.

Work at the center post by Joe Cackovic and John Wolosky, reserve, was effective for the ball carriers. Leo Nobile also played brilliantly at his guard position. His charging was credited with the advance of much of the Lion attack.

Cornell will be the next objective for the Lion cubs who will journey to Ithaca for the encounter on Saturday. Cornell's record, like that of the Nittany-men, is unblemished by defeat.

Booters Whip Syracuse 4-0 For 64th Straight

Tough Foes Remain On Nittany Schedule

After concluding the "warmup" part of its schedule by defeating Syracuse, 4-0, in a tough game Saturday, the mighty Nittany Lion soccer team is sharpening its claws for four fearsome opponents—Navy, Army, Temple, and Penn—who threaten to thwart its bid for a ninth consecutive undefeated season.

Paced by Don Megrail, senior center forward who scored all four of the goals to bring his season's total to 10, the Jeffrey men outclassed and outfought the rugged Orange booters in every quarter to register their 64th straight game without defeat. The easy victory marked the fifth consecutive year the Syracusans have failed to score against the Lions.

Beautiful team play, clever footwork, and monopoly of the ball by the Nittanymen kept the Orangemen befuddled all afternoon and set up a Megrail score in each quarter. The visitors threatened to tally on two occasions, but spectacular defensive play by Sammy Schnure, sophomore halfback, prevented each goal.

High spot of the game was the Lions' first goal midway in the opening period. Smiley Williams, sparkling outside forward, booted a perfect setup, head high, to Megrail, who neatly headed it past the bewildered Orange goalie.

The Williams to Megrail passing team clicked again in each of the next two quarters. Megrail booted the final goal in the last period after taking a short pass from Gringo Galindo.
