

Two Harriers Injured On Eve Of NYU Meet

The high-flying undefeated cross-country team will meet an equally strong NYU team tomorrow—with two of the first stringers limping.

Herm Goffberg and Mac Smith turned out for yesterday's practice, a light tuneup, with bad ankles.

NYU BACK—Johnny Tigie, Violet back, has been seeing service often in the NYU backfield. Coach Mal Stevens expects big things from the back against the Lions tomorrow night.

Gridmen Prepare Passes For NYU

The Lion gridgers took to the air in yesterday's practice to sharpen their offensive weapons against the Violets from New York University who will probably unleash a strong running attack on Penn State at the Polo Grounds tomorrow night.

Quarterback Paul Weaver returned to practice yesterday with his injured hand in a cast, but it is uncertain whether he will be able to use his hand well enough to play against NYU.

Though NYU's greatest strength lies in a running attack, Coach Bob Higgins has also been stressing the Lion offensive tactics. However, he has taken the precaution to prepare against any surprise aerial attacks. The Nittanymen were weak in the pass defense department last week. They allowed Lehigh to complete 16 out of 32 tosses.

"NYU has a tricky offense when they use the backfield shift," Coach Higgins revealed. "They add deception to their offense by over-shifting and under-shifting their positions. Therefore, our defense will have to be on its toes."

Injuries have not plagued the Nittany Lions as seriously as in past year. The only player not in shape for NYU, barring Weaver, will be Chuck Raysor, center. Raysor injured his right ankle in the Temple fray and it has not responded quickly to treatment.

John Jaffurs, guard who returned to practice this week after nursing a separated shoulder since the Bucknell game, will make the trip to New York City, but will probably not do much heavy work for the game.

University of Michigan first undertook inspection of high schools in the state in 1870.

First Night Game

Just as we were getting ready last night to join the Penn State vanguard on its trek to the Big City, we glanced at the record of the NYU team and were convinced more than ever that the only excitement tomorrow's game promised was the novelty of seeing our first intercollegiate football spectacle under arc lights.

A bit of research revealed that both the Nittany Lions and the Violets will be playing the first nocturnal tilt in the history of either institution. Another interesting item concerning the oncoming clash is that the Lions will attempt to obtain the upper hand in the series with NYU, each side claiming a victory and tie in the three meetings to date.

While the Nittanymen's Saturday afternoon performances haven't been anything to write home about, a comparison of the records shows that they should experience little difficulty in notching their third victory before buckling down to the serious task of stopping the Orangemen of Syracuse.

The New York team, after downing their first two opponents, has failed to show much in the way of an offensive. In their last two times out against Syracuse and Holy Cross, the Violets failed to score. We hope their ineffectiveness continues tomorrow night, or better still, the Lions plug up the holes in their pass defense.

MacMitchell Tops

Sharing the limelight with the gridgers will be the undefeated cross country team which will attempt to match the equally unbeaten NYU harriers over their difficult Van Cortlandt Park course.

The very mention of Leslie MacMitchell's presence in the Violets' lineup makes the Lions' chances of winning appear dim at first glance. Unquestionably the outstanding intercollegiate cross country runner and miler, the NYU flash is assured of first place unless misfortune befalls him on the course.

Chick Werner has a better balanced squad, however, one which should gather enough places to pull through to a close victory.

Saturday Predictions

Predictions for Saturday's gridiron clashes are premature but our expense account doesn't permit wiring them from New York. So here we go again: West Virginia and Columbia failed us last week, giving us eight out of ten for the day and a batting average for the year of .734.

In this weekend's games, we pick State to pluck the Violets; West Virginia to down W & L; South Carolina to beat Citadel; Syracuse to bow to Wisconsin; Colgate to rebound against Holy Cross; Ohio State to beat Pitt; Temple to continue unbeaten against Boston College; Navy to snap Penn's streak; Notre Dame to stop Army; and the upset of the week, Northwestern to defeat Minnesota.

Navy Soccermen Tough In 16-Year Lion Series

That the Penn State booters will have to be on their toes in order to preserve their winning streak in the face of Navy's challenge here Saturday is indicated by a glance at the series record of the two teams.

Although the Nittany Lions have won 14 of the 16 games played since 1922, bowing to the Midshipmen only in 1925 and 1927, most of the matches have been evenly contested.

The Jeffrey men rolled up a lopsided 7-1 score over Navy in 1934, but in the past three years have won by mere 2-1, 3-2, and 1-0 scores.

FOOTBALL

Independent contests in the Intramural Football League last night resulted in Watts Hall Blues defeating Atherton Hall Waiters, 6-0; McAllister Hall Waiters falling to Jordan Hall, 12-0; Irvin Hall winning over Watts Hall Whites, 19-0; and Independents trimming an IMA unit, 20-0.

Four tilts are scheduled tonight with Nittany Co-op facing Billett Roomers at 7 p. m. in the first battle. Other games pit Jordan Hall vs. Irvin Hall at 7:40; Lions Club vs. Penn Haven at 8:20; and Watts Hall Blues vs. Fairmount Hall at 9.

A protested game between Kappa Sigma and the Delts will be replayed, according to a ruling by the Intramural Board. The Delts won the game on an illegal penalty.

SWIMMING

Last night's swimming intramurals resulted in two forfeits. Alpha Tau Omega forfeited to Sigma Chi and Alpha Chi Rho forfeited to Delta Chi.

Two contests are scheduled for tonight at the Glennland pool. Alpha Chi Sigma will meet Kappa Sigma in the first clash of the evening, with the mermen of Theta Chi opposing those of Phi Delta Theta later on in the program.

HORSESHOES

Fraternity competition swings into the third round while independent contests just begin in the current intramural horse-shoes tournament which gets back into action this afternoon.

Three first round independent meets scheduled are Atherton Hall Waiters No. 1 vs. McAllister Hall Waiters, Forestry Society vs. Atherton Hall Waiters No. 2, and Nittany Co-op vs. Independent.

Fraternity second round competition includes Delta Upsilon No. 5 vs. Phi Delta Theta No. 3, Phi Delta Theta No. 4 vs. Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Delta Tau Delta No. 1 vs. Alpha Zeta No. 4.

Third round matches scheduled are Delta Tau Delta No. 3 vs. Delta Chi No. 3, Delta Upsilon No. 1 vs. Kappa Delta Rho, Alpha Zeta No. 2 vs. Phi Sigma Kappa No. 2, and Phi Sigma Kappa No. 1 vs. Sigma Chi No. 1.
