Hetzel Urges Support Of Civilian Defense Program Aims

In accord with campus recognition of Civilian Defense Week, President Ralph D. Hetzel last night urged the voluntary support and understanding of the civilian defense program by all student and faculty members of Penn State.

President Hetzel, as head of the College and a member of the national advisory committee of the School and College Civilian Moral Service in the U. S. Office of Education, made the following statement:

"The President of the United States and the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have proclaimed the week beginning November 11 as a time for all of us to give solemn thought to our responsibilities in the defense of our nation and our ideals. I urgently invite the participation of this college community."

At a recent meeting of educational leaders at Washington it was determined that the first obligation of education was to aid in the development of national morale. President Hetzel applies their findings to this campus and PREPARES CAMPUS DEFENSE—Dean A. R. Warnock last night announced the names of volunteers who will serve on defense sub-committees.

Naval Flight Unit To Meet Tonight

Penn State's Naval flight unit, the "Nittany Lions," will meet in 405 Old Main at 7 o'clock tonight to make final arrangements for physical examinations, which are scheduled to begin next Wednesday, according to Thomas W. Allison '42, seaman, second class, V5.

At the last meeting at which 67 students filed preliminary applications, it was decided that the unit would begin naval flight training at the Philadelphia Navy Yards on June 15, 1942.

Upon completion of a month's training at the Navy Yards, the successful candidates will be transferred to Corpus Christi, Pensacola, or Jacksonville, where they will finish the eight month course that qualifies them for commissions as Naval ensigns.

Allison emphasized that it is not too late for interested students to file preliminary applications at tonight's meeting. Applicants must be between the ages of 20 and 27 and must have completed at least 2 years of College work.

Blue Key Meets

Members of the Blue Key, junior hat society, will hold their third monthly meeting of the year at Beta Theta Pi tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

College Will Exhibit 49 Animals At International Livestock Show

A total of 49 animals, 32 hogs and 17 lambs, will be exhibited at the International Livestock Show in Chicago from November 29 to December 6 by the College, the animal husbandry department announced yesterday.

Substantial winnings have been made in recent years, an indication that some of the best swine and sheep in the country are to be found in the College flocks and herds.

For the past four consecutive years, the College won grand champion award for pens of three Southdown wether lambs at the show. Earnings from last year's show for the College were $245 for swine and $223 for sheep.

Three breeds of swine will be shown. In Duroc-Jerseys, three light and one medium weight barrows are entered, and in Chester Whites, three barrows will be shown in each class, light medium and heavyweight. Similarly in Berkshires, three barrows are entered in each class besides a pen

Krouse Presents Class Mural Plan; Cabinet Seeks Opinion On Drinking

Committee To Revise Present Regulations

All students and campus organizations are urged to submit suggestions and opinions regarding the unchaperoned mixed drinking code, according to a recommendation passed by All-College Cabinet last night.

When Cabinet passed restrictions concerning the drinking problem at last week's meeting, it realized that certain revisions and clarifications would be necessary to facilitate efficient operation of the code. These changes will be made by a Cabinet committee, which will not begin functioning until after a campus consensus is studied.

The committee appointed by Robert D. Baird '42, All-College president, to study the mixed drinking code includes Ross B. Lehman '42, Baird, Jerome H. Blakeslee '43, Gerald F. Doherty '42, Thomas J. L. Henson '42, William O. Meyers '42, James W. Ritter '42, and Charles Smith '42.

Baird also appointed A. John Currier '42 and Lehman to contact A. R. Warnock, dean of men, and Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women, to determine what jurisdiction Cabinet may have concerning the mixed drinking problem. Currier and Lehman will also meet with IFC and WSGA representatives to discuss the new code with regard to the present IFC and WSGA rulings regarding mixed drinking.

Beginning Monday, the south entrance of the Sparks Building will be used as only an exit, according to Meyers, president of the Liberal Arts student council. He pointed out that this will be an attempt to curb the congestion while changing classes.

National Defense Will Be Topic Of Conference

National defense will be the prevailing theme when the seventh annual meeting of the Allegheny section of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education gets underway this weekend.

Inspections of some of the new buildings on campus and discussions on the various engineering fields will be two of the features of the two-day conference.

MURAL CHAMPION—Proposal of a three-class mural project by Henry Varnum Poor was presented by H. Leonard Krouse '42, president of the senior class, at All-College Cabinet last night.

IFC Dating Code May Be Revised

A five-man dating code revision committee was appointed by Thomas J. L. Henson, Interfraternity Council president, last night when the IFC met at the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

The group will convene before the next IFC meeting to discuss any changes they believe desirable or which have been suggested by fraternity presidents. Chairman of the committee is Robert F. Wilson '42. Aiding Wilson are Charles C. Baldi '43, Charles F. Bowman '42, Robert B. Gammon '43, and James J. Rattigan '43.

Herbert C. Jennings '43, president of the Interfraternity Council Caterers Association, outlined the progress the group had attained since their organization last month. Jennings stressed the need of such an association among the fraternities in view of the rising food prices, and stressed the importance of large attendance at meetings.

Lists of last year's donations and distributions of Mrs. Hetzel's Fund for Emergencies were passed out and Charles F. Mattern '42, president of Skull and Bones, asked the presidents to explain the importance of the organization to their fraternities.

It was decided that H. Ridge Riley would be paid a salary for the editing of the freshman week rushing booklet and the mailing of lists of the incoming freshmen to fraternity presidents.

'43 Independents Hold Nominations

Nominations were held last night in 318 Old Main for chairman and secretary of the '43 Independent party. J. Hilary Kelley, in charge of the nominations, announced that Gilbert D. Zuccarini and Frank R. Flynn will vie for the chairmanship of the clique.

Those nominated for secretary are: Helen S. Zable, Dorothy J. Frank, Day Young, Joyce R. Brown, and Mary R. Koczansky.

Voting will take place next Wednesday, November 19, at a place to be announced. All party members are urged to give their full support.

Cabinet Okays Election For December 11, 12, 13

Completion of the Henry Varnum Poor murals in the lobby of Old Main was proposed as a three-class gift by H. Leonard Krouse '42, president of the senior class, in All-College Cabinet last night.

Sponsored by the presidents of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes, Jack R. Grey '44, Jerome H. Blakeslee '43, and Krouse, the plan states that the murals would be finished by Poor in an estimated $13,600 project.

"As long as Old Main stands, this three-way memorial would remain as a lasting tribute to the College and a pictorial presentation of its history," Krouse said. He also outlined the amount of favorable publicity which the College would receive.

Because the time for procuring Poor's services is limited, Krouse asked for permission to hold class elections on December 11, 12, and 13, which follows the freshman elections on December 10. All-College Cabinet approved these dates which fall on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and designated the All-College Elections Committee to take charge of the balloting.

According to Krouse, the administration would establish Poor as an artist-in-residence. Poor also notified Krouse that he would be willing to undertake the project and, in addition, would conduct a class in conjunction with his daughter, Ann Poor.

It would take approximately three years to complete the murals, according to an estimate from Poor and he stated that students would again be invited to observe his work.

All three classes must accept the plan individually, Krouse advised. He also asked that students present comments to their class presidents in order that the presidents may get a cross-section of class opinion upon the matter.
