

Karver Captures Freshman Title In IC4A Meet

Special to The Daily Collegian
NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Jerry Karver, outstanding Penn State freshman harrier, took yearling honors in the Intercollegiate AAAA at Van Cortlandt Park this afternoon.

More than 250 runners representing 24 colleges started the race, the 33rd in the IC4A annals.

Despite Karver's victory the Nittany Lion frosh came in second in the team scoring, trailing Manhattan by seven points. The Kelly Greens retain their crown captured last year.

In the varsity run the Blue and White took fourth place. Rhode Island State, last year's winner, repeated the act this year to win the team title, placing their five men inside the first 25 to finish.

Herm Goffberg was the first Lion to cross the finish line, placing 13th. Curt Stone followed Goffberg in 17th place. Mac Smith placed 41st, Pop Thiel 46th, and Norm Gordon 57th to give the Penn. State team its total of 164.

Leslie MacMitchell, captain of the NYU team, took individual honors in the varsity race for the third straight year, equaling the feat set by John Paul Jones of Cornell in 1912. MacMitchell's time of 26:40 was 38 seconds slower than his winning mark of last year.

Bob Nichols, Rhode Island State, was runner up for the second consecutive year. Nichols finished a shade ahead of Glen Masten, Colgate star.

A partial summary:

Varsity Team Scores: Rhode Island State, first, 31; NYU, second, 112; Manhattan, third, 130; Penn State, fourth, 164; Cornell, fifth, 175; (Continued on Page Three)

Hutchinson To Speak On War Price Control In First LA Lecture

Kenneth D. Hutchinson, assistant professor of economics, speaking on "War Time Price Control," will open the Liberal Arts Lecture Series in 121 Sparks Building at 7:30 p. m. today.

The Liberal Arts Lecture Committee, headed by J. Paul Seisam, associate professor of history, announces that it has chosen this topic because of the work Doctor Hutchinson has done in the fields of marketing, economics of pricing, and inflation control.

Learning much of the practical side of economics by a varied business experience, Doctor Hutchinson served as manager of the Boston sales room of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, and conducted an industrial survey of Kanawah Valley for the Federal Subsistence Homestead Corporation.

'Beat Pitt' Tags Ready For Upperclassmen

Upperclassmen will wear "Beat Pitt" tags this week in preparation for the pep rally Thursday night, James W. Ritter '42, co-chairman of the rally committee, announced last night. Tags are available at Student Union, the Athletic Store, and the Corner Room today.

The rally, to be held on the Jordan Fertility Plots, will include talks by Robert D. Baird '42, Coach Robert A. Higgins, F. Joseph Bedenk, and H. Leonard Krouse '42, team captain.

Last Call Issued For Players' Tryouts

Students wishing to try out for Players' second production, Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," must make appointments at the Student Union today between 8:00 a. m. and 5:00 p. m. according to Frank S. Neusbaum, professor of dramatics.

Students unable to sign up at the announced time should make appointments at the Players' office in 413 Old Main. Graduate and special students are eligible.

Immediately following Thanksgiving vacation, Professor Neusbaum will begin rehearsals. This will be the first Shakespearean play given on the campus in three years.

Kriss Funeral Services Held

Funeral services for Dr. Max Kriss, professor of animal nutrition and a member of the College faculty for the past 23 years, were held yesterday in Philadelphia. Interment followed at Roosevelt Cemetery.

His death at his home Sunday morning, caused by coronary embolism, came after an illness of two weeks.

Doctor Kriss was born May 15, 1894, at Ostropol, Russia. He came to the United States in 1910 and earned his way through the College largely by teaching Russian and Hebrew. Following graduation in 1918, he received his M. S. degree at the College in 1920. He obtained his Ph. D. degree at Yale University in 1936.

The deceased was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Institute of Nutrition, American Chemical Society, Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, and American Society of Animal Production. He was also active in the affairs of his fraternity, Gamma Sigma Phi.

Author and co-author of more than 50 scientific papers dealing with animal nutrition, Dr. Kriss, who was engaged in the research department of the College's Institute of Animal Nutrition, was considered one of the world's leading authorities in his field.

He is survived by his wife and one son, Joseph, an honor student at the Yale University School of Medicine.

New Method Announced For Selling 1941-42 Artists' Course Series Tickets

December 3, 4 Set As Ticket Sale Dates

Priority numbers will be distributed to patrons a day in advance of the regular Artists' Course ticket sale, according to the new procedure for seat distribution announced last night by Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, chairman.

Numbers for students will be available at the Athletic Association ticket windows at 4 p. m. Tuesday, December 2, and for faculty members and townspeople at 4 p. m. Wednesday, December 3. The card bearing the number will also include a schedule showing the time its holder should return the next day to secure tickets.

"Under this plan the person receiving priority number 21 will return to obtain his tickets between 8 and 9 a. m. the following morning, the person receiving number 47 will appear between 9 and 10 a. m., and so forth," Dr. Marquardt explained.

"From past experience, those in charge of the ticket sales believe they will have no difficulty in handling 30 applications an hour. The schedules will be made up on that basis," Dr. Marquardt stated.

"To receive full benefit from the number given the previous afternoon, the prospective purchaser will have to be on hand when his number comes up. Failing that, he will have to go to the end of the short line which will have formed according to the published schedule for that hour," Marquardt explained.

Those who took advantage of the pre-sale last May will be able to obtain their seat numbers at the ticket window tomorrow from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1:30 to 5 p. m.

Cost of tickets for the current series is the same as last year, except that each ticket is subject to the new federal excise tax of ten per cent. Tax included, the standard prices will be $6.05, $4.95, and $3.85. A limited number. (Continued on page four)

Rolling Stock

Penn. State's "autolab," which last summer travelled 10,000 miles on a demonstration tour, will be placed on exhibit for students, in 119 New Physics, at 8 p. m. Thursday. The exhibit is being sponsored by Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary physics fraternity, and will feature comments by Harry Van Velzer, assistant professor of physics, who will lecture in conjunction with the demonstration. Following this exhibit, the moving laboratory is scheduled to start its second tour which will include approximately 100 towns and cities.

Nittany Soccer Streak Stopped At 65 Straight By Army Booters

By DOM GOLAB
It had to happen sometime. No team, no matter how mighty, can take on the toughest competition in the nation year after year, win games by hair-raising margins, and remain undefeated forever.

In Saturday's dramatic game, a rugged, hard-charging Army soccer team with a purpose, stunned the victory-surfeited Nittany Lions, 1-0, to put an end to the most incredible winning streak in the history of intercollegiate athletics—65 consecutive games without defeat.

On November 5, 1932, Coach Bill Jeffrey saw his booters lose a 2-1 contest to Syracuse. Not until exactly nine years and ten days later did he see them lose again! The record compiled in the interval renders futile even the most carefully prepared stock of superlatives. It will stand, never to be matched, never to be forgotten, as a lengthy—and utterly fantastic—chapter in the annals of great accomplishments.

The story of the game itself can be simply told. It was the old, old case of Penn State finesse pitted against an opponent's ruggedness and power. This time power won out.

The historic tilt was a nip-and-tuck struggle all the way and could have gone to either team. The determined Cadets, paced by Captain Bill Guyckeson, easily the finest center halfback in the East, bottled up the smoothly-functioning Lion attack with their unorthodox hard-rushing style of play.

Brilliant in defeat, the Jeffrey-men fought like true champions to the last man, but the inspired Army booters were not to be denied their first victory over Penn State in the seven-year series.

Late in the third quarter, Cadet center forward Charley Garvin booted the most significant goal in modern intercollegiate soccer to (Continued on Page Three)

White Socks Custom Lifted By Tribunal

White socks that freshmen have had to wear since the beginning of the term, may be substituted for colored leg-wear at noon tomorrow, Raymond F. Leffler '42, Student Tribunal head, announced last night.

He also urged all freshmen that have as yet failed to secure their "Beat Pitt" signs to get them immediately at the Athletic Store. The signs were supposed to appear on all freshmen yesterday afternoon but many students have failed to get them, according to Leffler.

One Killed, Three Hurt In Weekend Auto Crash

Special to The Daily Collegian
JERSEY SHORE — Albert A. Price '42 sustained lacerations and a possible fracture of the skull and a fractured jaw in a two car head-on collision Saturday night that resulted in the death of one person and the injury of others.

The accident, according to police, occurred at a junction on Route 94 about one mile from Salladasburg, when a car driven by Max M. Kline, 25, of Cumberland, Md., made a left hand turn and crashed into the machine operated by Price.

Edwin T. Shield, 34, of Wellsboro, a passenger in the Price car was killed instantly. Kline received a fracture of the left arm, left leg, and lacerations about the face and body. Dorothy Kline, 25, an occupant of his car, received fractures of both legs and severe body bruises.

Price is a varsity track and swimming star and a pledge at Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

IMA Football Movies Scheduled Tonight

Encouraged by increasing attendance at each of their past three programs, the IMA will present their fourth showing of football movies when Saturday's Penn State-West Virginia game will be screened in 121 Sparks Building at 8 o'clock tonight.

To afford better vision for spectators, a larger screen will be used at tonight's showing. Coach Bob Higgins will comment on the pictures. Admission is free to all.
