

Irvin Hall Captures M Swimming Crown From Ath Hall Waiters

Irvin Hall completely outswam the Atherton Hall Waiters last night in the final meet of the independent intramurals winning by the lopsided score of 43-14.

Irvin Hall's Dick Wesner and Frank Honegger were outstanding in the meet with two first places. Wesner won the 60-yard breast stroke with Fisher of Ath Hall taking second. Wesner also took the 120-yard free style while his teammate, Dick Schuetz, placed second.

Honegger jumped ahead at the gun and finished first in the 60-yard free style, beating his teammate, Schuetz, who won his second three points, and then beat another teammate, John Gaus, by one point in the diving event.

In the 120-yard free style four man relay the waiters from Ath Hall, although they could not possibly win the meet even if they won the relay, put up a good fight but were nosed out by the Irvin Hall quartet composed of Fruchter, Weiner, Bennett, and Gaus, swimming in that order.

Summary:

60-yard free style—Honegger, Irvin Hall, first; Schuetz, Irvin Hall, second; Taylor, Ath Hall, third; time 35.2.

Between The Lions

Fifth Column

An amusing incident took place during the West Virginia game which came to our attention just now.

Bill Kern, the Mountaineer's coach who is noted among his colleagues as a hard loser, was apparently dissatisfied with his quarterback's signal-calling and hit upon an ingenious method (or so he thought) of assisting him. He stationed a player on the sidelines with instructions to follow the play up and down the field and relay messages to his teammates.

Much to Kern's chagrin, occupants of the press box spotted the dirty work of the opposition and informed Bob Higgins. Needless to say, the referee put an immediate stop to this fifth columning.

Wins, But Pays

Still digging into the past, the Pittsburgh Press recalled to us another Bob Higgins tale. It happened when the Lions were pushing the NYU Violets all over the field. Back in Pittsburgh's Hotel Schenley, alumnus Harry Brainerd, assistant manager of the inn, Chet Smith, Press sports editor, and Pitt's sports publicist, Frank Carver, listened to the fray over the airwaves.

The loyal alumnus proposed they all drink to the Nittany eleven and send the check to the Hig. They did and within a week came Bob's check for the round with an appended note thanking the three rogues and promising to pay for more drinks should the Lions beat Syracuse, West Virginia, or Pitt.

Not to be outdone as a good sport, Brainerd has promised to refund the money to Higgins if the Lions beat Pitt tomorrow. Hope we're there to see you collect, Bob.

Apology To The J. V.

A remark we made some time ago here concerning the Junior Varsity game at Annapolis hit some of the players the wrong way. If it did, we're very sorry because it wasn't intended that way.

The J.V.'s felt they had a legitimate gripe over the treatment they received on the trip. While we don't know much about the case, we believe that if the authorities decided to have a J.V. schedule, they should have gone all the way and given the boys a square deal.

3 Backs From Pitt

Penn State has three Pitt players in their backfield. No, they're not actually Panther spies, but they came into Coach Bob Higgins' grid fold from towns near Pittsburgh. Bill Smaltz, veteran fullback comes from Aliquippa; Jack Banbury, reserve fullback, Wilkinsburg; and Ralph Ventresco, reserve left halfback, Pitcairn.

Morse Reviews History Of Lion Shrine Site

"On June 7, 1941, the Trustee Committee on Architecture reported to the Board that there was a general agreement as to sculptor, model and location and that the committee acting under the authority given to it had approved the project as recommended. This report was approved by the Board of Trustees.

"In October, Warneke brought to the College the full size plaster model and he and the Landscape Architect set it up at the chosen location and moved it about until they had determined the best site. This is roughly between the ticket booth and the steps in front of the water tower. The Lion would be in front of the trees, not hidden among them as has been mistakenly imagined by some.

"Mr. Warneke plans to have the block of stone put in place early in the spring and to begin carving as soon as the weather will permit."

Unbeaten Temple Owls Hope For First Victory Over Lions Tomorrow

The Nittany Lion booters' home finale against Temple tomorrow will be the tenth game in one of the East's most bitterly-contested soccer rivalries.

Although the Owls so far have never been able to stop the mighty Jeffrey men, they annually come up with one of the finest eleven in the East and in recent years have extended Penn State to the limit. Not since 1936 have the Philadelphians lost to the Lions by more than one goal.

Two years ago the Owls battled the Blue and White to a scoreless deadlock, and last year jumped to a 2-0 lead before being overtaken by a sensational Nittany second-half rally.

This year's undefeated Cherry and White team vows it will tie knots in the Lion's tail. The Nittany men, however, are equally confident of victory.
