

House Of Representatives Outlines Defense Courses

First Aid, Nutrition To Be Included

A tentative outline for scheduling defense courses next semester was reported on by committee heads when WSGA House of Representatives met yesterday. Margaret K. Sherman '43, Speaker of the House, urged women to choose courses according to interest and not credit points.

Plans for a practical eight week First Aid course to be given by John W. Hulme, instructor in physical education, were discussed after a report from Nora S. Ames '43.

Home Economics courses designed to help students keep physically fit were explained by Patricia R. McNelis '42.

A Refresher course in Nutrition will be given Saturday mornings and will be open to anyone who has had Home Economics training. Home Economics 309, two credit dietetics course, will be open to women in any school. Home Economics 312, four credit school lunch course, will train students to serve well-balanced meals at minimum costs.

A non-credit Nutrition Aid course for which Red Cross certificates will be awarded is also being planned.

Discussion of Office Methods and Overall courses, which will probably be listed among next semester's defense courses, was held.

Coads were urged to bring left over wool of any color to the Home Economics Building at 7 House representatives were reminded to send substitutes when unable to attend meetings.

We, The Women

Christmas Bells Will Still Peal Merrily

"Peace on earth, good will toward men." That's what the bells will be ringing in exactly 15 days.

And are we going to be a party to this seeming hypocrisy? Are we to continue laughing and joking while our back yards are blown to bits?

Americans shout "Yes." The strength that comes from unity and the morale that rises from good-naturedness are two main stays of any country in any war.

Last week, each of us had our own ideas about situations; today, our ideas are one. At such a time as this, it is neither patriotic nor sensible to do other than support our government. American blood has been shed, American ideas and ideals flouted, American naval and military forces attacked.

What about our democracy, you query, if unified thinking be in order? Through this democracy—government by, for, and of the people—the majority has decided who shall lead. We can be staunch adherents to democratic principles if we do as our leaders deem fit.

Our officials tried to avert the inevitable, but other forces—namely Hitler—prevented peaceful settlement. Now that we are in the mess, our best stand is to act as wisely as we can.

We, the women of this College have not been sitting idly by while time carried us further into the conflict. We have knit for the British, contributed to drives, and worked for the Red Cross. In doing these things while others were at war, we have gleaned a preview of the part we can play.

Last Spring, WSGA called for coeds to sign up for defense courses. During this semester, organization for these courses has been underway.

Next semester, four or five of these courses will be offered. They will include practical things, material that will be of definite use to us. It will soon be time to re-enroll for these courses. Taking as many of these as possible we would be helping both our country and ourselves in this war that demands exact knowledge and concise thinking.

Senate To Clarify Stand On Ruling

Margaret K. Sherman '43, acting WSGA president, stated last night that WSGA would clarify its position on Cabinet's drinking ruling at Senate meeting tonight.

Miss Sherman was one of three dissenting voters on the issue of trying mixed drinking offenders before an All-College Cabinet sub-committee.

Mixed Drinking

It was stressed that groups such as IFC and WSGA will still handle their own particular drinking problems, whereas the Cabinet sub-committee will hear only specific cases of mixed drinking. In cases of mixed drinking in fraternities, IFC would have jurisdiction over the fraternity, and Cabinet over individuals involved.

As stated in the last clause of the resolution, Tribunal will still have jurisdiction over men's drinking charges and WSGA judicial over non-mixed women's drinking.

On presenting the code Lehman pointed out that such a resolution was needed as a blanket regulation to coordinate the various campus judiciary bodies, and to help relieve confusion created by the independent judiciary groups.

It was suggested that mixed drinking violations shall be reported to the assistant deans of men and women.

Senior Honorary To Give Awards

From the proceeds of Mortar Board's Spinster Skip, six scholarships will be given, announced Alice M. Murray, president of the senior women's honorary, yesterday.

AAUW To Give Senior Tea

All senior women are urged to attend a tea given in their honor by the American Association of University Women in southeast Atherton at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow, Ruth L. Bonde, chairman of publicity, announced yesterday.

Mrs. Gertrude Marvin Williams, member of the Luzerne County Council on Defense, will discuss "Opportunities for Young Women Starting Out in Life."

Mrs. Williams, a personal friend of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek of China, is author of several books on India and the social problems of society.

This tea is given annually to acquaint senior women with the national association for which they are eligible after graduation. Mrs. Carroll D. Champlin, state president; Miss Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women; and a large number of faculty members will attend.

IFC Ruling

In keeping with the annual practice, Christmas parties for the poor children of the neighborhood will be held Thursday, December 19.

These parties are under the joint sponsorship of the IFC and the Kiwanis Club. C. A. Morgan of the Kiwanis Club explained that organization's part in the affair, and enlisted the support of 25 fraternities to entertain approximately 130 children.

A plan to donate Christmas baskets to the needy families was explained by Robert B. Gammon '43. The IFC is cooperating with women in town who are going to distribute the baskets shortly before Christmas.
