

Senate Backs Cabinet Law

Endorsing the law passed by All-College Cabinet Tuesday which called for an All-College sub-committee to try students guilty of violating the mixed drinking code, WSGA Senate last night voted to back Cabinet's judiciary body.

Members formulated the following statement, "WSGA will cooperate with All-College Cabinet's new legislation in regard to mixed drinking."

This means that the previously passed WSGA law permitting women over 21 to frequent community roadhouses will be nullified.

A. Jane Minnich '44 was appointed co-chairman of May Day to assist Patricia McKinney '43, chairman.

Jeanne C. Stiles '42, WSGA Judicial chairman, announced that freshman women will be granted 10 o'clock permissions for the Carol Sing, Thursday, December 18. However, they will not be allowed to date, but will be permitted to attend the modern dance recital at White Hall following the sing.

Coeds must return to the College by 10 p. m. Sunday, January 4, WSGA ruled.

Senate decided that special late permissions for week-night social functions would be denied because of partiality involved in allotting special freshman permissions.

It was approved that freshman women may remove hairribbons after Christmas holidays.

CALLS FOR CLOTHES — Margaret K. Sherman '43, WSGA acting president, stated last night that baskets will be placed in dormitories for coed contributions of old clothes.

We, The Women

A Final Decision—What It Embodies

Action on the drinking situation became final with All-College Cabinet's action Tuesday night. No longer will coeds be under two regulations.

Cabinet does not recognize the right of any student to participate in mixed drinking, whether he or she be over or under 21, with or without parents' permission.

Machinery for trying all violations of the new legislation has been set up and all students found participating in mixed drinking will be tried by a sub-committee of Cabinet. Provision has been made for Tribunal and WSGA Judicial Committee to deal with cases not involving mixed drinking or where participants of opposite sex are unknown.

Further interpretation of the legislation and clarification of its hazy elements will be settled by the newly established sub-committee.

This committee includes three men and three women, all seniors, and will be presided over by All-College president. Ex-officio members include chairmen of Tribunal and Judicial.

PSCA Entertains Bucknell Students

Forty Bucknell '45 men and women were the guests of PSCA Freshman Forum and Freshman Council Tuesday. Council and Forum officers dined with Bucknellians in the Sandwich Shop.

The combined groups and visitors attended "The Finger of God," a play sponsored by the dramatics group, in the Little Theater in which Jean E. Hershberger '43, Paul M. Heberling '44, and Calvin Maynard, special student, participated. John H. Miller, graduate student directed the production with Dorothy L. Magnot '43, in charge of production.

Later the Bucknell delegates were introduced by Claire L. Weaver '45, CA Forum president and Miriam L. Zartman '45.

Frosh To Aid WSGA Drive

As part of the WSGA Christmas Drive, Carolyn K. Champlin and Marjorie K. Shultz, Freshman Council representatives, will make a trip to Lewistown to review work of the Mifflin County Child Welfare Council from 1 to 5 p. m. Friday.

The trip will include an explanation of the council's work by the secretary and visits to several homes of adopted children who are placed by the council. A pictorial record of these homes was circulated in Freshman Council and WSGA House of Representatives who are jointly sponsoring the drive.

They will be accompanied by Miss Nina M. Bentley and Miss Ruth H. Zang, assistants to the dean of women.

The Christmas drive also includes Mrs. Hetzel's Fund, an emergency fund for small student loans, and The American Woman's Hospital, organized to better health conditions at home and abroad.

Women Wonder, 'Should We Work, Get Married, Or Go To Classes?'

Women students as well as men are wondering whether they will be going to classes next semester or next year. They want to know what to do when their families can no longer afford to keep them in college; whether they would be more useful working in a defense industry; whether they should marry a boy who is about to be drafted.

"What shall I do when my family can no longer afford to send me to college?" First step should be to consult immediately with Miss Charlotte E. Ray, consider possibilities of securing aid. Sources of general loan funds include DAR, AAUW, State College Alumnae Club, and the Mary Beaver White and WSGA scholarships. Eleven alumnae clubs help students from specific areas. Sometimes senatorial scholarships are available. Doing part-time work is another solution.

"Should I leave school and get a job?" After explaining that the answer to this varies with the individual, Miss Ray said, "sometimes the best thing to do is to fit yourself to the highest degree in the job you now hold. This is the surest preparation for a more definite job in the end."

Points to be considered in the question of education versus work include your curriculum and its relation to the present situation; your future plans; and the financial status of your family. Coeds who remain in school, Miss Ray pointed out, must think of courses in terms of their practicality. Examples of this are the new defense courses, typing, and shorthand.

"Should I marry a boy who will be going to war?" Dr. Clifford R. Adams, instructor in education and psychology, said that the answer to this differs in two instances.

He sees no reason why two individuals who have known each other from three to five years, and have been planning to get married should not do so. In the midst of a situation of strain and stress, it is desirable to pursue normal lives so far as we can.

"For two people, with no definite previous plans to allow themselves to be stamped into marriage because they are emotionally upset would be extremely unwise. Couples who get married in such a situation will find, after two to five years, that they have a different perspective, a new set of values. The person whom they married under emotional stress may not be the one they really want."

Adams said that couples in the first group could return to many common interests while those in the second group would probably have to become completely readjusted.
