

WSGA Moves Mother's Day Weekend To April 17-18

Boring '44 Named New Treasurer

Mother's Day Weekend, traditionally scheduled for the second weekend in May, was moved up to April 17-18 by WSGA Senate last night.

Jean Babcock '42, WSGA president, emphasized that this action is intended to be in keeping with defense activities and will not permanently eliminate the old May Day.

Although no definite action was taken, it is probable that traditional ceremonies will be greatly reduced and that less costly entertainment will be provided for mothers.

Miss Babcock reported that officers have agreed to cooperate. Anne M. Borton, senior senator, was appointed to contact music organizations for concerts.

The Senate Committee on Public Occasions will be asked to hold Scholarship Day, part of the chapel exercises, on April 19. Senate members also discussed possibilities of enlarging Saturday afternoon teas and inviting mothers of all men students as well as coed's mothers.

Jonathan M. Boring '44 was appointed WSGA treasurer to fill the unexpired term of Betty Rose Frederick '44, who has withdrawn from College. Miss Boring is a member of Cwens, I-H Club, Penn State Farmer staff, and the Agriculture Student Council.

It was decided that the orientation booklets for freshmen will be made a part of big-little sister activities.

Miss Borton was named to investigate a possible date for the annual Junior-Senior Women's Reception for faculty members. Beatrice J. Winn '42 and Sara M. Bailey '43 are co-chairmen.

ZFA Beats Frazier 555-360 In Bowling

Zeta Tau Alpha trounced Frazier Hall in yesterday's bowling, 555-360. High scorers were Lynn Wolf '43, with 145 for the Zetas, and Helen Oppenheim '44, with 94 for Frazier Hall.

Table tennis winners were Grange Dorn, Delta Gamma, and Chi Omega, all with 3-0 victories. Grange players who won over Delta Gamma team three were Jean Ogden '45 and Kathie Osgood '45. Losers included Frenchie Capers '42, Louise Hack '42, and Anne Borton '42, substitute.

Delta Gamma team four played Kappa Alpha Theta, with Skeets Knecht '42, and Sue Hay '43, for Delta Gamma; and Frankie Leiby '43, and Marge Sykes '43, for Kappa Alpha Theta.

Delta Gamma team one lost to Chi Omega team one. Chi Omega players were Dottie Radcliff '43 and Fran Angle '44, while those for Delta Gamma included Ginny Cooper '42 and Skeets Knecht '42.

Sophomore Phys. Ed. majors won, 37-14, over Liberal Arts majors in basketball.

The lineup: sophomores—Alice Burwell, Helen Hooper, and Charlotte Spangler, forwards; Friz Burke, Mary Weidy, and Bea White, guards; and Winnie Spahr, guard substitute; Liberal Arts—Hep Gordon '42, and Rhoda Samuel '43, forwards; and Skip Scrivani '42, Florence Willey '43, and Marion Reynolds '44, guards.

WSGA Grants Coeds An Hour's 'Leisure'

Coeds will have two o'clock permissions for Military Ball on Friday, February 6, it was decided by WSGA Senate last night.

Action was taken after the Senate received a letter from John W. MacIndoe '42, general chairman, requesting that late permissions be granted "to enable coeds to return from the dance in a leisurely manner."

Committee Lays Registration Plans

Plans will be turned over to the State College draft board, which in turn will send them to the students' respective local boards.

The registrant will also give the name and address of some person who will know his address during the next several years. The student registrant will give The Pennsylvania State College as his employer. Other information required has to do with his description for identification purposes.

The committees named yesterday by Chairman Edward K. Hibshman follow: Committee on scheduling, Ray V. Watkins and William S. Hoffman; Committee on personnel and registration headquarters; Russell E. Clark, Harold R. Gilbert, and Robert G. Bernreuter; Committee on publicity, A. R. Warnock, H. Ridge Riley, and Ross B. Lehman '42.

Clawson Leaves Home Ec Faculty

Mrs. Katherine E. Clawson, instructor in institutional administration, left the College between semesters to accept a position of dietician and supervisor of food service at the company club and hotel of the International Business Machine Corporation at Endicott, N. Y.

Miss Mary D. Stockton, former home economics assistant and cafeteria manager, will replace Mrs. Clawson. Miss Stockton will be in charge of the Maple Tea Room and catering class.

Replacing Miss Stockton as cafeteria manager is Miss Viola I. Johnson, graduate student.

Cwens To Help In Defense Work

Cwens, sophomore women's honorary, will contribute to national defense by entering phases of work offered here at the College, it was announced by Dorothy L. Jones '44, president, last night.

Members will attend sewing projects sponsored by the Red Cross, in 117 Home Economics, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, while others will donate blood. Cwen groups will visit each woman individually to collect remnant yarns and old books.

Fines from failure to attend Cwen meetings will be spent on defense stamps. Miss Jones stated.

We, The Women

It Isn't Fun—But There's Work To Do

Let's start by admitting that we don't like this war. It's far from pleasant to send our friends and brothers off to an army camp and it's annoying to find a shortage on things we have always taken for granted like bobby-pins and cokes.

But life will be even less pleasant and a lot more annoying if we don't win this war.

Perhaps too many people have been writing articles urging women to do their part for national defense. In fact, we have been bombarded with so much propaganda that we are inclined to ignore it, without realizing what it means.

It's easier for coeds than for most people to escape reality and to wrap their thoughts in a cloak of bluebooks, exams, scheduling, sorority rushing, and dances. It's comparatively easy to rationalize and say that we are doing our part by sticking to our present job—going to college.

We admit that continuing with college is advisable for most people. We still wonder, however, if there is any justification for some coeds to adopt an attitude of disinterest—or even resentment—when they are asked to do anything in addition to their present job.

Women on this campus have been among leaders in college defense activities. They deserve credit and commendation for their accomplishments. However, too frequently the success of these projects has been dependent upon the wise leadership and hard work of only a few. To hundreds of coeds, defense projects are just something they read about in the papers or hear nonchalantly mentioned at meals.

We hate righteous editorials and we despise artificial patriotism. But we still think that there are innumerable jobs which women on this campus could, and should, consider their responsibility—supporting and sponsoring benefits, for example, and little things like knitting and saving tin foil from cigarette packages.

AOPi Will Buy Bonds

Alpha Omicron Pi will invest $400 in United States defense bonds according to Marjorie D. Cousley '42, president. Four $100 bonds will be purchased with money from the sorority saving account.

Coeds To List Defense Work

All women's organizations will be asked to make a report of defense projects and activities to the dean of women's office by March 1. Originated by Miss Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women, the survey will probably be conducted by WSGA Junior Service Board, it was decided at WSGA Senate meeting last night.

Group, rather than individual activities, will be stressed. Questionnaires will include such items as number of members enrolled in defense courses; number of members teaching courses; and description of meetings at which there were programs or speakers on topics related to the war.

Groups will be asked to list financial contributions and material assistance, such as knitting or contributing books and paper. They will be questioned concerning the amount of reading and writing they have done.

House Distributes Blood Petitions

Petitions to be distributed among coeds for Red Cross blood donors were given to WSGA House of Representatives members by Margaret K. Sherman '43, president, yesterday. Regulation home permission slips, required from all coeds under 21, may also be obtained from House members.

Coeds are urged by House representatives to save tin foil for British War Relief and to give it to hall presidents.

Dorothy Kronich '42 of Cris Hall was recently appointed to the House and Jeanette Salkin '42 to replace Mildred B. Schmidt '43, Atherton northwest representative.

Mechanics Course Offered Coeds

To train women for maintenance of modern home equipment, a practical course has been made available to all coeds.

Operation, care and repair of mechanized home appliances are included in the course. Emphasis is placed upon developing skill in use of electrical appliances, wiring, sewing machines, internal combustion engines, and plumbing.

Agricultural Engineering 15 may be scheduled by appointment.

BUY DEFENSE STAMPS

500 Contribute To AAUW Benefit

Approximately 500 persons attended AAUW's festival for defense in the State College high school gymnasium Tuesday night.

Profits from side shows, dancing, and food concessions have not been determined since money from the ticket sale is not collected.

Money raised by the benefit will be given to Red Cross and AAUW fellowship and student loan fund.
