

Navy Turns Down Senior Ball Earns $2,729 Profit

College As V-5 Training Center

Under consideration for the past two months as a possible induction center for some 2400 V-5 Naval Reserve Air Corps Cadets, College authorities received official notice yesterday that Penn State has been rejected as a training center because other schools offered better facilities.

The four colleges finally selected by the Navy as preliminary training centers are the University of Georgia and the University of North Carolina in the East, the University of Iowa in the Middle-West, and St. Mary's College in the Far-West.

In complying with the Navy's request for a bid as to costs of living for prospective naval men, the College took a poll of fraternities asking whether or not they would cooperate in making rooming facilities available and what a fair price would be. Approximately a 25 cent fee per man per day was decided on.

A board of nava. officers visited the campus several weeks ago to inspect the College rooming, physical education, and indoor floor facilities.

Under the proposed plan, approximately 800 Cadets would come to the induction schools every month for a three-months training period in which they would get physical fitness work, physical indoctrination and drill.

St. Pat To Chase Campus Snakes At SDX Banquet

All the snakes in State College must seek new fields when St. Patrick goes to work at Sigma Delta Chi's annual Gridiron Banquet to be staged at the Nittany Lion Inn on St. Patrick's Day, March 17.

College hot dogs, faculty big shots, and town bigwigs will be scalded in the brew which St. Patrick has prepared for them: Everyone who receives a summons and is brave enough to appear should hasten to cover up his past sins, but be prepared to face the worst.

The Irish gent has already delved, however, into all the local dirt and come up with plenty of mud to sling in all faces daring to appear.

Last year the Devil played host to helpless BMOC's, but since he has deserted College in favor of the Japs, St. Patrick has usurped his place.

To make St. Patrick's triumph complete, he has demanded that all his victims wear formal dress. In a moment of unusual kindness, nevertheless, the Irishman warned that those victims with weak hearts and uneasy consciences had better head for the city limits without a squawk.

Seven Students Named To Phys Ed Dean's List

Seven students—two seniors, three juniors and one each from the sophomore and freshman classes—were named to the Dean's list of the School of Physical Education and Athletics yesterday by Dean Carl P. Schott.

The students named are V. Dorothy Radcliff and Betty E. Widger, seniors; Pauline Crossman, Mary V. Devling and M. Pauline Rugh, juniors; Frank Stevenson Jr. '44; and Margaret H. Gregory '45.

According to a tentative financial report released last night by Thomas J. L. Henson and Peter J. Krones, Senior Ball co-chairman the annual dance made a net profit of $2,729.42.

Paid admissions totalling 1,658 at $3.50 each skyrocketed the asset side of the ledger to a record breaking high by adding $5,803 to the new high income of $6,931.41.

The $2,500 expenditure made for

Glenn Miller's orchestra was the biggest item on the debit books, with the second highest expenditure the $602.35 Federal admission tax.

Patriotic decorations to carry out the defense theme of the dance cost the committee an even $450.

Henson and Krones announced that the allotments to the defense and local charities scheduled to benefit from the Senior Ball profits will be decided on at a meeting of the Senior Ball Committee.

An additional contribution to the defense effort supplied by the dance was the $921 sale of defense stamps which supplanted the traditional corsage. H. Leonard Krouse, senior class president, stressed the fact that more stamps could have been sold if the supply had not been exhausted.

93 LA Students On Dean's List

With 93 students on the Liberal Arts School Dean's List released yesterday by Dr. Charles W. Stoddard, Dean of the School, a percentage of 6.5 of the entire School has attained an average of 2.5 or better.

Leading the classes with 27 students on the Honor Roll out of 514 enrolled in the School, the sophomores are in first place. Seniors and freshmen placed second with 23 each on the coveted list out of an enrollment of 279 and 409 respectively, while the Juniors follow with 20 out of 247.

Collegian Candidates

A meeting of all freshman candidates for the men's editorial staff of The Daily Collegian will be held in 9 Carnegie Hall at 7 p. m. Freshmen who have not attended previous meetings are urged to be present.

10 Senior Hats Tossed Into Ring For Collegian Outstanding Award

Senior hot dogs, politicians, athletes, and student leaders have been placed in the figurative eligibility ring for The Daily Collegian's Outstanding Senior Award. However, competition has now been narrowed to ten, eight men and two women.

The junior editorial board of the Collegian has been investigating each candidate's activities during four years of College and it will determine the recipient of the award to be given at the eastern wrestling intercollegiate in Rec Hall on March 14.

Persons being considered for the honor are Jean Babcock, Robert D. Baird, Gerald F. Doherty, William F. Finn, H. Leonard Krouse, Charles F. Mattern, William O. Meyers, Max S. Peters, James W. Ritter, and Betty L. Ziegler.

Athletic Association Election Dates Moved Up To April 6, 7--Ritter

AMOS E. NEYHART

Army Producing A-1 Mechanized Units

"Our boys in the military camps are gaining amazing efficiency in motorized warfare. The Army's training program is rigorous—even gruelling—but it is producing A-1 soldiers."

That is the opinion of Amos E. Neyhart, administrative head of the College's institute of public safety, who returned yesterday from a month's survey tour of driver-training programs in Western military camps.

Highlight of Neyhart's plane-trip was his week's stay at Fort Francis C. Warren in Wyoming. During that visit he was given an opportunity to drive under actual combat conditions everything from a jeep to a 40-ton tank, and to drive supply trucks during day and night convoys.

Between visits to Army camps, Neyhart conducted a seminar in wartime safety techniques for Kansas professors, and spoke on "War-time Evacuation of Children" before the National Education Association Conference in San Francisco.

Complete revision of the Athletic Association elections schedule was announced yesterday by James W. Ritter '42, association president.

The new dates, April 6 and 7, for the election of a president and secretary-treasurer to replace Ritter and Elmer A. Gross were necessitated by the short semester program adopted by the College.

Change of elections from the second week in May also requires a change in the nomination dates in the Athletic Association elections calendar from the first week in May to March 27, explained the AA head.

Present plans call for nominations for the offices by coaches, captains, and managers of every College-sponsored sports activity on the Friday afternoon of IF Ball.

Athletic Association constitutional requirements state that a candidate must have an All-College average of "1" and be the recipient of a varsity "S" in at least one sport.

Another possible qualification will request that the candidate assure the nominations board that he expects to be in school at least one semester following the two-day election period.

"This addition will be only temporary, because of wartime conditions," explained Ritter, varsity lacrosse star.

Total number of nominees permitted by the Athletic Association constitution for each office is five, while the minimum number prescribed is two.

Final choice of the officers to fill the spots to be vacated by Ritter and the basketball co-captain will begin on April 6 and any run-off elections necessitated by the first day's results will be handled on April 7, was the clarification of the association head.

Dating Code Debate Due At IFC Tonight

The new Interfraternity Council dating code will probably be discussed at the meeting of the Council at the Phi Kappa Sigma House at 7:30 p. m. today, it was announced yesterday.

An IF Ball report will also be due, along with a report of the action of the rushing code committee.

Thomas J. L. Henson '42, IFC president, will present his Judiciary committee, the body to enforce the new dating code, to the Council for approval, and fraternity violations of last weekend, if any, will be discussed.

Harvard Prof Lectures

Methods of developing pressures of 400,000 atmospheres, roughly 2000 times greater than the highest pressures met with in engineering practices, were discussed by Dr. P. W. Bridgman, Hollis professor of mathematics and natural philosophy at Harvard University, in a lecture last night sponsored by Sigma Xi, national scientific research honorary.

Jean Hershberger PSCA President; Cabinet Adds 10

Jean E. Hershberger '43 is the new president of the Penn State Christian Association according to results of an election by 11 PSCA cabinet members last night. She succeeds co-chairman A. John Currier Jr. '42 and Sarah P. Searle '42.

Ten additional members were elected to the PSCA cabinet at the same time. Next Wednesday the same time. Next Wednesday a vice-president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary, and treasurer.

Cabinet will further be divided into five commissions, chairmen and vice-chairmen will be selected for each group, and personnel, publicity and public meeting committees will be named.

Miss Hershberger was vice-president of the PSCA last year and headed Commission II, in charge of freshman work, in her sophomore year. As a freshman she was president of PSCA Freshman Forum. She is also a member of the Players, Cwens, and Alpha Lambda Delta, women's scholastic honorary.

Thirty persons were considered for cabinet posts. The group will sponsor a World Student Week, March 22 to 27, and the annual association dinner meeting will be held April 13 when Dr. Howard Y. McClusky will speak.

New members elected to the cabinet are John N. Adsit '45, Robert C. Dickey '45, Robert G. Kintigh '43, Robert J. Kraynick '44, M. Virginia Krauss '44, F. Doris Stevenson '44, Miriam L. Zartman '45, Stanley P. Berger '44, Robert S. MacNabb '45, and Mabel Satterthwaite '43.

The 11 which were chosen at a general PSCA election two weeks ago, and met last night, include Jean E. Hershberger '43, Paul M. Heberling '44, Dorothy K. Brunner '44, Daniel C. Gillespie '44, Joan E. Paulhamus '43, Clifford M. Painter '44, Margaret K. Ramaley '44, Palmer M. Sharpless '44, Harriet Van Riper '44, and Phyllis R. Watkins '44.

Late News Flashes...

WASHINGTON — General MacArthur's little air force sank 30,000 tons of Japanese shipping yesterday in a surprise raid on the coast of the Japanese occupied section of the Philippines. Included in these losses are one 12,000, one 10,000, and one 8,000 capital ships. Also destroyed are two 100-ton motor launches.

MOSCOW — The Russians announced last night that the Nazis are retreating all along the northern and central fronts and assert that the fighting is being fought in some places off Russian territory for the first time since last July. London claims that at least one-third of the 96,000 German troops besieging Leningrad have been killed and that the German lines have been pierced at two points.

BATAVIA, Java — Japanese troops have filtered through the Allied lines in two places and regained some of the ground lost on Tuesday, it was announced last night. Observers say that Jap planes are dive-bombing Allied troops almost at two points.
