

Coed Elections

(Continued from Page One)

presentation of bracelets to eight coeds who have done outstanding work on WSGA committees this year.

Those who will receive bracelets are E. Louise Hack '42, WSGA dance; Beatrice J. Winn '42, junior-senior reception; Sara M. Bailey '43, Hazel E. Gassman '43, and Nancy J. Zartman '43, dining room committee; Lila A. Whoolery '43, WSGA elections; Priscilla C. MacLellan '44, Christmas dinner; and A. Jane Minnich '44, Mother's Day weekend.

Late News

(Continued from Page One)

shamrocks and Killarney greens for another year in hopes that next March 17 "there'll still be an Ireland."

ATHERTON HALL — Coeds were seen "pulling themselves together" in preparation for the coming girdle shortage.

GRAHAM'S—Local "hang-outs" were kept busy last night with an extra surge of male Collegian "assistants" who lacked anything else to do.

BUY DEFENSE STAMPS

We, The Vermin
By "STOOGENT EDITOR"

CARNEGIE HALL RATHOLE, March 18 — More than fifty men from the staff of The Daily Collegian crept into this Shangri La as a band of "sob sisters" turned the offices into a feminine madhouse.

When baited with a piece of cheese, the men howled to a man, "It is better to have lived without them than to live with them," and buried deeper into their haven. The close quarters did not dampen their spirits as they sang such inspiring songs as, "How Firm A Foundation, Yield Not to Temptation, and Stout-Hearted Men." One man died from external injuries when he sang, "My Buddy."

A testimonial meeting was held. A freshman journalist testified, "I'm tired of getting my fraternity pin back. She's rotating crops again." Another reporter broke down. He said, "My gal is a phys-edder. She knocks me across White Hall when she meets me, then walks me to Lewisburg for a bottle of Budweiser."

"Women," said a hardboiled senior, "are the damndest things. They cry on your shoulder, pick your pockets, and kiss you with their eyes open." Another freshman replied that his clinging vine refused to go on a date when it rained. She was afraid of her mascara running and her hair straightening, he testified.

However, at press time, a near-riot was averted. The sound of "sob sisters" crying and pleading outside the refuge, drove the men into panic. Wiser members of the senior board forcibly quelled the younger reporters. A few men died in the struggle.

"Migod," the tortured men cried, "we can't stand it."

Brave men halted the riot when they shouted, "Either learn to stand the 'sob sisters' weeps" now or later." They decided to learn now.

NEW ORLEANS — — HERE WE COME!

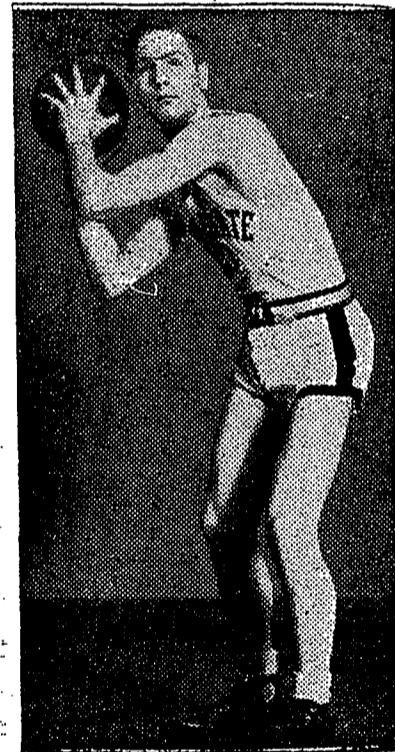

Here's A Salute To John Lawther And All His Boys For Making Penn State's Basketball Team One Of The Classiest In The Country This Year. We Hope The Farther South You Go The "Hotter" You Get— So New Orleans Beware Of The Red-Hot Nittany Lions

ELMER GROSS
CO-CAPTAIN

JOHN LAWATHER
COACH

DICK GRIMES
CO-CAPTAIN

THIS PAGE CONTRIBUTED BY

fromm's
Opposite Old Main - State College

Graham and Son
Where the Athletes Meet

CRABTREE'S

Marshall Electric Co.
Glennland Building

Eatland Grill
Next to Murphy's

H. E. Norris, Cabinet Shop
Dial 2803

College Cut Rate
106 W. College

Music Room
Records — Radios

Hartman Electric Co.
Glennland Building

Shoemaker Bros.
Hauling

"Jack" Frost
Insurance

King Motor Co.
938 W. College