

College Will Poll Students To Judge Next Enrollment

In order that the College may complete its plans for this summer's third semester all students will be asked to state in the very near future whether they expect to attend the extra session.

This plan was formulated at yesterday morning's meeting of the Council of Administration. Each student will fill out a small card indicating his plans for future attendance at the College insofar as he can estimate at that time.

The Council also reported that the federal government is at present considering a proposal to provide financial assistance for those students who cannot otherwise attend a Summer semester.

However, it was stressed that there is no direct intimation whether such an arrangement will or will not be approved and it is possible that a final decision on the plan will not be made by May 18.

Students who desire further information in regard to Summer courses and course arrangements made in cases where students do not attend the third semester were advised by the Council to consult their adviser, head of their department, or their dean at once.

The two questions which will be asked during the poll are: "So far as you can tell at this time, will you attend the Summer session beginning May 18, 1942?" and "If you answered 'no', will you return to College in September, 1942?"

WSGA Suggests Forensic Split

WSGA Senate passed a unanimous resolution yesterday afternoon recommending that a women's Forensic Council be established under WSGA supervision, providing that the present men and women's Council agrees to the separation.

Sara M. Bailey '43, women's debate manager, presented the plan to Senate members. She said that separate organization would create interest in women's debate, since coeds would be managing their own activity, and that it would make possible democratic control.

Under the proposed system, the WSGA president would appoint seven Council members from a list of recommendations submitted by women's debate coaches and present coed members of Forensic Council.

Because no major dances are scheduled between May 18 and June 8, Senate agreed to recommend that the Student Union Board set the annual WSGA dance for that period.

To investigate distribution of women's activities points and to make recommendations to alleviate strain under the accelerated program, Jean Babcock '42, acting WSGA president, appointed Louise M. Fuoss '43, Nancy E. Gosser '43, Dorothy L. Jones '44, and Ruth M. Storer '44.

Blue Key Will Meet

Blue Key, junior hat society, will hold a meeting to elect new members at the Phi Epsilon Pi house at 7:15 o'clock tonight, it was announced today by Frank J. Perna '43, secretary.

TOP SELECTION—The name of Gerald F. Doherty, All-College vice-president, will be inscribed on the Penn State Club's plaque as this year's outstanding non-fraternity senior after his selection by the club for the award.

Doherty Chosen Leading Senior

Gerald F. Doherty, All-College vice-president, was selected as Penn State's outstanding non-fraternity senior over the weekend, according to Arthur Peskoe, Penn State Club president.

An annual award of the Penn State Club, the selection of the politician-journalist was made by a three-man board consisting of George L. Donovan, Student Union manager; A. R. W. Wrook, dean of men; and Thomas J. L. Henson, IFC president.

Besides holding the office of All-College vice-president, Doherty has been president of Forensic Council, a member of the debating team for the fourth consecutive year, and a freshman counselor during his senior year. During his final year at Penn State, Doherty was also honored by selection to Skull and Bones, Lions Paw, Cane Man of the Class of '42, and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Previous winners with whom Doherty's name will be inscribed on the club plaque are Johnson Brennehan '37, Russel Gohn '38, Joseph R. Peel '39, David E. Pergrin '40, and Arnold C. Laich '41.

Cabinet Date Changed

There will be no All-College Cabinet meeting tonight, but the new cabinet will take over on Thursday at 9 p. m. following a short meeting of the old Cabinet.

Marian Anderson Keeps Eyes Closed While Singing To Aid Concentration

By ROBERT T. KIMMEL

Marian Anderson, gowned in cloth of gold trimmed with mink, and wearing diamonds, came on the stage of Schwab Auditorium last night, closed her eyes, and let her wonderful voice pour out over the audience.

She said later that closing her eyes was an aid to concentration which helped her to express the feeling in the music. She doesn't keep them closed all of the time, however. Several times during encores she looked out over the audience with eyes that seemed to laugh just a little at the corners.

Besides being rated as the greatest living singer in the world today, she is also one of the most beautifully gowned. S. Hurok, her manager, said that the dress she wore last night was designed by Engle, a New York artist.

Dashing around the country is no new experience for Miss Anderson. She did have a rather thrill-

College Prepares For Mother's Day

In keeping with the accelerated College program, Mother's Day will be celebrated this weekend without the traditional May Queen crowning. Honoraries' tappings, sports events, teas, open houses and special chapel services will fill the calendar.

Announcement of new members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, tapping by Cwens, sophomore women's honorary, and WSGA Junior Service Board will initiate events at a Mother's Day breakfast for freshman coeds and their mothers in McAllister Hall at 7:15 a. m. Saturday. Home Economics open house will be held from 10 a. m. to noon.

Eleven sororities will vie for the Panhellenic Sing trophy in the annual contest in Schwab Auditorium from 1:30 to 3 p. m.

The weekend sports calendar includes the varsity golf opener against West Virginia at 2 p. m. First home game of the season for the lacrosse team is scheduled with Cornell on New Beaver field at 2 p. m., and the baseball team will face its first major opponent of the year when it meets Colgate at 2:30 p. m.

White Hall will be open to visitors from 3 to 4 p. m. with an aquacade and other sports exhibitions as entertainment. Louise Homer Club, women's music honorary, and the music department, will have open house in Carnegie Hall at the same time.

All men and women students are invited to attend open houses

Penn State Captures Another College Title

Scoring 2449 points out of a possible 2750, Penn State's livestock judging team won the annual Eastern Intercollegiate Livestock Judging contest held at the College on Saturday afternoon.

Second place in the contest was taken by Cornell's team with a point score of 2442, only seven points behind the Nittany judges, while Connecticut University took third with 2212 points.

Glenn R. Kean '43 tied Harris Wilcox, Cornell, for high place honors in the all-events, while John and James Christian '43, Nittany twins, placed third and fourth respectively. Glen W. Stevens '43 was high judge in the swine event, while Kean was first in cattle judging.

IF Council Names Lundelius Gammon, Blackburn Heads Roy, Sharp Chosen To Executive Board

NEW IFC PREXY — M. William Lundelius '43 was chosen last night as new president of Interfraternity Council. The new IFC leader succeeds Thomas J. L. Henson '42.

Navy Terminates V-7 Enlistments

All men between the ages of 19 and 28 years, who are now juniors, seniors, or college graduates and who want to serve their country as commissioned officers in the Naval Reserve, are advised to make application to the Navy Department. The present plan of class V-7 enlistments will be terminated on or about May 1.

After that date only class V-1 applicants will be considered for V-7 commissions. V-1 is the basic training offered to freshmen and sophomores who advance into V-7 training and receive commissions as midshipmen shortly after graduation. V-7 enlistments will be accepted at the Navy Recruiting Station in Altoona.

Official Naval sound pictures will be presented as a part of the V-5 Naval Flight training program in 10 Sparks Building at 8 p. m. today. They will be one hour long and are free of charge.

V-5 officers are now on campus taking enlistments for the flight training program. Lieut. Frank P. Kane will be in 305 Old Main to interview all students who are considering taking the course, today and tomorrow.

The initial Penn State unit will start for flight training on June 4, Thomas W. Allison '42, wing leader, announced last night.

Skull And Bones Elects Ridenour New President

Skull and Bones, senior honorary, held election of officers and initiation last night.

Charles H. Ridenour '43 was elected president of the society for the coming year with William T. Richards '43 as his vice-president. Thomas R. Heidecker '43 was chosen secretary, while Robert Z. Torrance '43 will serve as treasurer.

New initiates are Jerome H. Blakeslee, Jess V. Fardella, David I. McAleer, Allan I. Moses, Gordon L. Coy, Donald W. Davis, Leonard E. Bach, Richard S. Peifly, William C. Mazzocco, A. Edward Leitzinger, Heidecker, and Torrance, all juniors and Harold L. Zimmerman, Larry T. Gent, Jack R. Grey, and Samuel C. Harry, sophomores.

M. William Lundelius '43 is the new president of Interfraternity Council. Lundelius, victor on the fifth ballot of the annual IFC elections last night, was the choice of 30 of the 46 fraternity representatives voting.

Robert B. Gammon '43, placing second in the presidential balloting, automatically became IFC vice-president. Lundelius and Gammon led a field of six candidates, winning over Herbert C. Jennings, Frank J. Perna, Robert H. Roy, and Joseph V. Swerlitsch, all juniors.

New secretary-treasurer of the Council is Edward H. Blackburn '43, winner on the third ballot over Edward R. Clauss '43, David R. Sharp '43, and John A. Jordan '43.

Roy and Sharp round out the roster of new Interfraternity Council officers, having been chosen to serve on the executive council.

Speaking to the council before elections, H. Ridge Riley, department of public information news assistant, urged that all fraternities expand the scope of their rushing activities. He suggested that besides encouraging the incoming freshmen to "go fraternity," they should also encourage high school graduates to enroll at Penn State for the Summer semester.

"A powerful argument for taking advantage of the Summer semester," Riley reminded the assembled fraternity representatives, "is the recent decree that college freshmen and sophomores will be drafted regardless of the course they are studying. Students seeking a college education, therefore, should find it especially valuable to be able to get started before they reach the draft age."

Brother Slumbers As House Mascot Spots Burning Floor

Fraternity boys fumed and Hum Fishburn's fire-fighters chopped up the floor, but when the smoke had cleared after yesterday's fire at the Acacia fraternity, it was a little dog, Pilsner, who was the hero of the day.

Smelling smoke coming through the floor, the house mascot clawed at a sleeping fraternity brother until he became aware of the heated and smoking floor. "Danny" Gillespie '44, Acacia treasurer, along with "Shell" Teets '45, grabbed the extinguishers and held the blaze under control until the Alpha Fire Company arrived.

After ruining the floor in front of the fireplace with their axes, the firemen poured water in the holes and put the fire out in no time.

The origin of the blaze has not been determined. According to house officials, $700 damage resulted, all of which is covered by insurance.

Alumni Supplement

With this issue of The Daily Collegian is a four-page supplement supporting the second annual Alumni Association drive. Articles explaining the organization and the part it can play in the lives of Penn State alumni are included. Directions for taking out memberships in the organization are explained.
