Li'l' International Livestock Show To Open Today

Penn State's Little International Livestock Exposition, patterned after the world-famous "International" held annually in Chicago, will open at the Livestock Judging Pavilion at 12:30 p. m. today.

Sponsored by the Block and Bridle Club, the exposition will feature approximately 58 of the School of Agriculture's finest livestock entered in competition in four classes.

Animals crowned champs in today's judging are slated for appearance in national competition. Since the first "Little International" in 1916, over 100 of the animals displayed in Penn State expositions have captured international awards.

Two special features of today's show will be the coed-led pig race and the exhibition of six riding club horses.

Climax of the exposition will be a banquet at St. Paul's Methodist Church, at which cups, medals, and ribbons will be presented to the owners and trainers of the winning animals. The coed able to guide her pig around the Pavilion in the shortest time will receive $2.50 in cash.

Chairmen of the committees directing this year's show are James A. Christian '43 and John A. Christian '43, beef-cattle division; Elwood H. Borger '44, sheep division; Howard E. Wheeler '42, swine division; Robert C. Hammond '43, horse division.

George A. Krupp '42, catalog publishing; Murray Blechman '42, publicity; Richard L. Carlton '42, decorations; Lyle A. Baker '42, banquet; and George G. Gayman '42, awards.

Judges of livestock will be Charles O. Werner, Hermony Farm, Douglasville, and Leland H. Bull, assistant county agent, Blair county, Hollidaysburg.

'Old Clothes' Attire Theme Of Ag Frolic In Rec Hall Tonight

"A rollicking frolic, a good time for all," is the promise made by John W. Rothrock '44 general dance chairman, to students who attend Ag Frolic at Rec Hall tonight.

Informal dancing to music by the Campus Owls will be supplemented with $500 worth of free gambling from 9 p. m. until midnight. The only requirements for admission, besides a ticket, are old clothes and a friendly spirit according to Rothrock.

Chairman of committees preparing for the "frolic" are William B. Johnson '43 and Robert J. Mueller '42, decorations; Harold V. Walton '43, checking; William C. Patterson '43, and Dorothy M. Boring '44 advertising; David J. Brooks '43 tickets; and Irvin K. Curry '43, booths.

Glee Club Ends Concert Series

As the climax of the Mother's Day festivities tomorrow the male Glee Club, under the direction of Richard W. Grant, will present the last of the Sunday afternoon Complimentary Concerts in Schwab Auditorium at 2:30 p. m.

The first part of the program will be a group of three numbers by the Glee Club. They are "On Parade" from "Sweethearts" (Herbert); "Begin the Beguine," (Porter); and "Stout Hearted Men," (Romberg).

The second group of numbers, to be played by Paul N. Teare '43 are "Romance," (Schuman); and "Butterfingers," one of his own compositions.

Third on the program will be the Glee Club's second group including "Lord, I Want To Be," a spiritual and the intercollegiate choice song; "On the Plains, Fairy Trains," (Weelkes), a 16th Century madrigal; "Steal Away To Jesus," a spiritual and intercollegiate prize song; and "This Is My Country" (Jacobs), sung by Shirley L. Ives '45 and the Club.

The Varsity Male Quartet will present the fourth part of the program followed by the Hy-Los, a small group chosen from the Glee Club.

Gunnel O. Bjalme '45 appears sixth, playing "Waltz in F Minor," (Chopin); and "Danse Negre," (Scott). The Glee Club will return to finish the program with a group of college songs, "Lord Jeffrey Amherst," "Eleazar Wheelock," "Fight On State," and "Nittany Lion."

Full Program Ready For Mothers' Day; Enrollment Committee Sends Letters

Publicity, Registration Groups Announced

Appointment of two sub-committees and the distribution of form letters to all the fraternities are the two recent steps of the committee to aid student enrollment, according to Donald W. Davis '43, committee chairman.

The form letters, inviting high school seniors to Penn State for the High School Day next Saturday, are to be mailed by the respective fraternities today. Any other students wishing to invite prospective college applicants will be able to get letters at the Student Union desk, said Davis.

Publicity committee members are Bernard A. Plesser, Thomas R. Heidecker, and Allan I. Moses, all juniors. This group will be responsible for town window displays and posters to publicize the activities of the different schools and departments at the College.

The registration committee, whose job it will be to register all the high school guests, consists of Robert L. Mawhinney, chairman, Charles H. Ridenour, John A. Jordan, and Richard S. Kurtz, also juniors. Present plans call for this committee to distribute buttons to the prospective Penn Staters and escort them on tours of the various laboratories, lectures, and athletic events on High School Day.

Special athletic attractions to be presented during the weekend are a practice football game, the annual All-College Circus, and a golf match.

The Blue and White football outfit, who are playing a practice game today with the Midshipmen at Annapolis, will scrimmage against the Duquesne University football team in a regular practice on the afternoon of High School Day; while the golfers will meet the Bucknell Bisons in their second match of the season. Seats at a special 15 cent rate will be provided for high schoolers interested in the Circus Saturday evening.

Senator Addresses Alumni

Senator James J. Davis and Congressman James F. Van Zandt will speak at a Washington, D. C., Alumni dinner, Monday, April 20, given in honor of the 19 political science students who leave Sunday afternoon for a three-day tour of the capital.

SUPERVISES SERIES—Dr. J. Paul Selsam, associate professor of history, and chairman of the 1941-42 Liberal Arts Lecture Series, has obtained the services of Mr. Denys Roper, Malayan educator, who will discuss "Life In Malaya," in 121 Sparks Building, at 8 p. m. Tuesday night.

'Life In Malaya' LA Lecture Topic

Color movies and a talk on "Life In Malaya," will be the topic for the special Liberal Arts Lecture by Denys Roper of the British Colonial Office in 121 Sparks Building at 8 p. m. Tuesday Dr. J. Paul Selsam, head of the Series Committee announced yesterday.

The regularly scheduled lecture by Kingsley Davis, associate professor of sociology, has been postponed until the following Tuesday, April 28.

Aspects of life in the Malayan Peninsula from Penang to Singapore, a territory which has figured prominently in the news, will be illustrated and discussed by the Colonial agent who has spent 18 years in the Malayan Educational Service.

On his way back to Singapore from England, Mr. Roper's journey was interrupted by the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and he has since been in this country lecturing on the Far East.

Holding an MA degree from Lincoln College, Oxford, Mr. Roper has been in many parts of the peninsula as Headmaster and Inspector of government schools.

Hetzel To Present Awards At Chapel

Mother's Day Weekend, moved up three weeks under the new accelerated College program will get off to an early start this morning with a crowded calendar of events continuing today and tomorrow as mothers arrive for the weekend in their honor.

An expected crowd of 2,000 will hear Rev. Rex Stowers Clements, Ph.D., pastor of the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church, speak on "This Inconvenient Religion" at the annual Mother's Day chapel in Recreation Hall at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

President Ralph D. Hetzel will present annual Evan Pugh and John W. White scholarship awards at the chapel service. The College Choir of 100 under the direction of Richard W. Grant, head of the music department, will sing "Listen to the Lambs," by Dett, and the Men's Glee Club of 60 will sing "Steal Away to Jesus," old Negro spiritual.

Cwens, sophomore women's honorary, will arouse freshman coeds in campus dormitories at 7 a. m. today to attend the traditional Mother's Day breakfast in McAllister Hall at 7:15. Freshmen in town dormitories will attend the breakfast to be climaxed by the announcement of new members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary; the 23 new Cwens; 16 new WSGA Junior Service Board members.

The varsity golf opener against West Virginia will be played at 2 p. m. today, and the lacrosse team (Continued on Page Four)

College Shop Crew Pinch-hits As Circus Equipment Builders

Wanted—somebody to manufacture equipment for Penn State's fourth annual All-College Circus to be held next Saturday in Rec Hall. Anybody not hampered by priorities call Gene Wettstone, 4281.

Coach Wettstone did not run the above classified advertisement, but he might very well have done so, for a few short months ago when plans were being made for the circus, the general director was faced with the very difficult problem of adding up-to-the-minute equipment to his existing apparatus which is valued at $4,000.

For three years the Circus bought its equipment from a large manufacturing concern that supplies many commercial troupes with their machinery, but war demands made that source impossible this year.

For a while it looked as if the Circus would have to be cancelled, or run along the same line as last year.

Enter: One Mr. Harry Daily and his men force from the College maintenance shop.

Result: One aerial ballet rigging to hold four women; a pyramid-shaped rigging supporting three ladders and a rotating trapeze; a muscle-grind perch pole (constructed after ones seen in Barnum and Bailey's 1841 show); 12 acrobatic balancing chairs, scientifically grooved to fit into intricate pyramids; and many other pieces of essential equipment, all manufactured in the College shops.

Players' Show Is Well Received

William Saroyan's fable of mice and men received tender and sympathetic treatment by the Penn State Players last night in the auditorium. "The Beautiful People" is a hazardous undertaking for amateurs, who ordinarily rely pretty heavily upon plot and action to carry much of the show, but the able and intelligent handling given to it here resulted in an enthusiastic audience response.

The thread of a story upon which Saroyan hangs his philosophy is a tenuous one. Nothing much ever happens in this tale of a father and his three children who manage to live on a monthly pension check mailed to a long-dead former inhabitant of their ramshackle house on a San Francisco hill. At the age of 15, the son, Owen, "has never done a day's work." His sister, Agnes, devotes herself to taking care of mice and beating off men. Owen, the father, "talks to people on the streets." The other son, Harold, is seeking his fame and fortune in New York.

From such ingredients Saroyan has written a play that is whimsical and poignant, tender and gay. At the same time it is a drama which, if the actors ever lose their touch, can simply be dull, ridiculous, and inane.

Last night's performance occasionally came close to dullness but for the most part it achieved the desired effect. In contrast to some of the previous shows of the season, where a few key charac- (Continued on Page Two)
