

Mortar Board Elects Head

Newly elected officers of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, who were announced at initiation ceremonies Sunday include Pauline Crossman, president; Kathryn M. Popp, vice-president and acting president for the first eight weeks; Marjorie R. Chambers, secretary; Lila A. Whoolery, treasurer; and Louise M. Fuoss, editor.

Following initiation, Alice M. Murray, retiring president, was presented with a gavel from old members by R. Helen Gordon, retiring vice-president.

Guests at the breakfast included former Mortar Board members Miss Harriet Gray, graduate assistant in physical education; Miss Marie Haidt, associate professor of physical education; Mrs. Lloyd M. Jones, Mrs. D. Ned Linegar, and Mrs. Gerard A. Rohlich.

Also present were Miss Nina M. Bentley, faculty advisor; Dr. Robert E. Dengler, who helped in founding the Penn State chapter; and Mrs. Donald W. Davis Sr., former advisor.

Plans for the Senior Sponsor program and Spinster Skip, annual Mortar Board dance, which will be held June 18, will be made at a meeting of new members Thursday. The new president will probably appoint committee chairmen for both activities.

The College chapter of Mortar Board for the past two years has raised more money than any other chapter, and this year it maintained the highest average of any organized campus group. The six College honor women were Mortar Board members.

Archers, Bowlers Tally High Scores In Postal Matches

Eight coeds rolled up a score of 2215 in the first Intercollegiate Telegraphic Archery match of the season. Standings of the 196 college teams will not be known until results of the three season matches are published by the National Archery Association in July.

Shooting for Penn State were Mary Alice Carswell with 352 points; Florence Rothman, 339; June Steinfurth, 331; Mary Lou Lenker, 318, (high scorer last year with 316); Marilyn Marks, 260; Ada Lord, 258; Kay Thomas, 184; and Diana Novich, 172.

Penn State's score exceeded last year's total by 824 points.

Five coeds bowled a total of 1421 points in the final telegraphic bowling match of the season.

Individual scores for two games were Doris Porter, 322; June Steinfurth, 285; Barbara Cooper, 278; Betty Widger, 270; and Adele Levin, 266.

TAKES OVER — Pauline Crossman '43 will serve as president of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, for the coming year. Kathryn M. Popp '43, newly elected vice-president, will be acting president while Miss Crossman is student teaching.

We, The Women "Quiet Hour?" What's That Mean?

"Quiet hour" is something in the list of women's dormitory regulations. It looks good in print. It makes you believe that College is a place for study as well as for fun and activities.

Coeds do study, especially during final bluebook week—despite the blaring victrolas and shrieks of laughter. What happened to the student counselors and proctor? We could use a few quiet hours this week.

Jean Babcock, retiring WSGA president, conducted her last WSGA Senate meeting yesterday. She did it in the manner in which she does everything—efficiently, modestly, and modestly, and naturally.

Many people have paid elaborate compliments to this woman who has set new records in scholastic attainment, participation in activities, and contributions to the College.

Our favorite one was part of a conversation which we accidentally overheard. As one coed said, "Sure she's WSGA president and a Phi Beta Kappa and a lot of other things—but I still think she's an awful lot of fun."

Cwens Make Plans

Cwens, sophomore women's honorary, held an introductory meeting for new members last night. With the next meeting scheduled for early in the Summer semester, first duty of the honorary will be helping at registration, according to Mary Grace Longenecker '45, newly elected president. Members will also aid in freshman orientation.

US Calls Farmerettes

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles based on reports from the national government, discussing available positions for women.)

Although work on a farm may seem unromantic and wasteful for college women, although farm work could be done without a college education, the same is true for military service, according to national leaders on the subject.

Statistics show that there were 97,000 fewer farm workers April 1, 1942, than April 1, 1941. College men from farm areas who have not been drafted have had to leave school because of the labor shortage at home.

All factors considered, the nation needs women farm workers from the villages and the big cities. That they are needed in harvesting food, in picking vegetables and fruits, in planting seeds, in dairying, and in machine farming has been stressed in a recent New York Times article.

Tentative plans have been made for handling groups of college women at fruit and vegetable picking for short periods during the Summer.

"We might use camps or recreation halls for women who could go back and forth morning and evening," suggested Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard.

At the present time, work is being shifted to women who live in farm vicinities, but the need for college coeds to do their share is ever increasing.

Because farm labor is skilled and can't be broken up into simple operations, it will be necessary in some cases to rely on farm women to work in the fields, while others assume household duties.

Women interested in doing work of this type for whole or part time during the Summer, should contact their local United States Employment Service branch or College extension service agent.

IWA Will Sponsor Informal Dances

Formulating plans for the early part of the Summer semester, IWA decided to sponsor a series of informal dances in Grange playroom Friday nights at a meeting of the joint executive and dance committee last night.

Hazel E. Gassmann '43, new IWA president, announced that dances would be open to the public and would be given weekly. Dancing will be from 9 p. m. until midnight.

The IWA-IMA picnic will be held in Hort Woods on June 7. Miss Gassmann, Jeanne R. Shipman '43, and Marjorie A. Magargel '44 will act as a committee for the affair which is open to all independent men and women.

To elect IWA representatives for new semester, meetings will be held in all independent units during the first week of school, committee members decided. First IWA meeting is tentatively set for May 25, Miss Gassmann announced.

Alpha Omicron Pi will entertain seniors at supper at 5:30 p. m. tomorrow.

98 Request Little Sisters

Ninety-eight women, three-fourths of whom are present freshmen, will act as Big Sisters for Summer semester, according to H. Anne Carruthers '44, WSGA town senator. Twenty-five have signed up for Fall semester.

As the 50 applications from incoming freshmen are expected to increase daily, Miss Carruthers urges more coeds to sign up for Little Sisters at the beginning of next semester. A committee is now in the process of matching Big and Little Sisters, it was reported at WSGA Senate meeting yesterday.

As soon as they are notified, Big Sisters are to contact Little Sisters, stated Miss Carruthers. Upper-class women are to meet their charges when they arrive in State College, help them get settled, and introduce them to the campus, she added.

Marjorie L. Sykes '43, judicial head, revealed that house and dormitory checkers would receive black marks if they failed to turn in weekly reports. Letters clarifying WSGA regulations will be sent to all campus organizations and dormitory units at the start of next semester, Miss Sykes said.

Senate appointed Janet V. Holmes '43 chairman of WSGA dance which is scheduled for May 23.

Jean Babcock '42, acting WSGA president, commended Senate members for their cooperation and work during the year. Commenting on the fact that WSGA has grown to be a vital part in setting regulations for women students and in contributing to college welfare, she emphasized the future responsibility of the organization.

Included in Senate's activities for next semester will be enactment of the point system, and freshmen and transfer orientation.
