Gold Diggers, Dolls Make Toys, Not Mates, Test Shows

Gold diggers and painted dolls might get the guys g-a-g-a, but they just can't hold them. The dependable, modest girl has the best chance of actually marrying her man, and that's not just cat-talk either—it is a tested fact.

In a test just completed by Dr. Clifford R. Adams, assistant professor of psychology, men students from five universities listed gold-digging and excessive make-up as among the qualities they most intensely dislike.

"Men date the popular girl but marry the dependable one" was marked "true" by a vast majority of the 256 men given the Personal Audit, a test devised by Dr. Adams and Dr. W. M. Lepley, assistant professor of psychology. The 264 coeds, however, were not so sure.

Men students believed that no one should marry before he was 25; women students disagreed. Coeds believed that unintelligent people should not marry; men disagreed. The girls believed that good-looking individuals have less sense than ordinary-looking persons; the men were not so sure.

Both men and women students, however, agreed that girls who use powder and rouge profusely are less modest than the average girl, that people of widely different races and faiths should not marry,

Ration Books, Designed For Students' Home Use, To Be Distributed Today

Approximately 2,500 students all those who eat at fraternities and dormitory dining commons.

Persons in this category, who have no intentions of buying sugar, will still need the books, for other rationed commodities will be distributed through use of War Ration Stamps in the War Ration Books.

Students who are included in family unit registration need not register separately. This includes only those who are residents of State College, Bellefonte, and vicinity, whose family registered for them.

In other towns, as well as State College, one member of the family unit registers for members of the entire family who are living at home. Students away from home are registered under a "temporarily away from home" category, and no Ration Books are issued to the family for those not living at home.

Rationing rules state that a person is entitled to a War Ration Book, even if he eats all his meals at a restaurant, boarding house, or similar place. This includes

Air Corps Exams To Begin Today

Students applying for acceptance into the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve will be examined in Room 305, Old Main, beginning at 9 o'clock this morning, Capt. Carl R. Russell, United States Air Corps, senior air force officer, announced last night.

He said that the examination procedure, though still rather indefinite because this is the first time the board has done any examining under this plan, will probably start with a written mental test proceeding through the required physicals.

Captain Russell said that the plan had been received favorably in each of the colleges he has visited since his visit here last week. He said that the movies scheduled to have been shown at that time have been delivered here in true Air Corps style, by plane, and would be shown in Room 121 Sparks at 7:30 this evening.

Students with application papers in order are asked to report to the examination room as early as possible to speed up the work of the board which must get to the other colleges in the district within a short time.

Pre-Registration Planned

To obtain an accurate list of all home economics students returning for the Summer semester, a pre-registration day will be held in the offices of Home Economics advisors, from 1 to 5 p. m. Friday.

Chinese Student First To Benefit From World Student Service Fund

Unable to pay the costs of an operation which has cured her of her lameness, a Chinese girl, formerly a Penn State student, is the first person to receive aid from the World Student Service Fund, which has only recently completed its Spring drive, Palmer M. Sharpless '44, chairman, announced yesterday.

W.S.S.F. headquarters in New York will receive as much of the $350 collected that is not used to aid the girl who is recuperating in a sanatorium, he added.

This year's "Flying Squadrons," groups of students who visited campus organizations to solicit contributions, passed last year's

Collegian Candidates To Meet Tonight

Freshman men candidates for the editorial and business staffs of The Daily Collegian must attend a compulsory meeting in Room 7, Carnegie Hall, at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

Explanations will be made of the plans for the Summer semester concerning new freshman beats and the subscription campaign for the coming year.

It is still not too late for new candidates to come out for either staff.

PSCA Will Award Keys To Handbook Editors; New Staff To Be Named

Executive keys, given in recognition for work on the Student Handbook, will be awarded to the editor, women's editor and business manager, Ned Linegar, associate secretary of the Penn State Christian Association announced last night.

Robert E. Schooley '43 is the editor of the handbook which will be in the hands of incoming freshmen before May 25, three months ahead of the usual publication date. Women's editor is Lila A. Whoolery '43 and business manager is Mary Jean Seanor '42.

The book is for the Freshman classes of June and September. The only change from the previous handbook is the absence of a day by day calendar. Officers of many organizations for the coming year are not listed because elections were held after the book had gone to the printers.

Cabinet Picks Tomorrow For 'Coat Hanger Day'

14 Juniors, 2 Sophs On Elections Committee

Duff Asks Juniors For LaVie Pictures

Juniors, who are not attending the Summer semester but expect to graduate before next April, must have their pictures taken at the Penn State Shop before going home, announced Martin H. Duff '43, editor of next year's LaVie.

Those who have had their pictures taken so far should get the proofs back to the photo shop as soon as possible to facilitate handling. It is also necessary that the junior fill out an activities-record card, for information from these cards is used in the yearbook.

The picture speed-up is necessary because most LaVie writing and organization is done the first semester of the senior year, which will be this Summer, while printing and engraving is done the second.

College Workshop To Open Again

A novel educational project, known as the Workshop and begun experimentally on campus two years ago, will feature the Summer session program again this Summer, Dean M. R. Trabue, director of Summer sessions, announced today.

Although the College will be operating on an accelerated program, main Summer session courses will be available as usual from June 29 to August 7, particularly for in-service teachers and administrators, Dean Trabue pointed out.

The Workshop this year will emphasize the needs of secondary schools in war time, without neglecting its original purpose, which was to solve the problems of educating the "non-college" high school student.

The project is sponsored by the Pennsylvania branch of the National Association of Secondary School Principals in co-operation with the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Pennsylvania, the College and the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction.

Course Opened In Military Geology

In line with the war trend, a new geology course will be offered this Summer. This course will go under the name of military geology (Geology 60) and will be open primarily to advanced ROTC students.

Professor P. D. Krynine, instructor of the new course, announced that it would deal principally with topography and climate in their relation to military operations.

Senatorial Scholarships

All students who have senatorial scholarships and do not intend to attend the Summer semester should contact Mrs. Virginia M. Hartman, secretary in the President's Office, as soon as possible. Mrs. Hartman stated that scholarships will be held for students who plan to return to school in September but the office must know of this in order to make provisions so that the scholarship is not automatically forfeited under the ruling concerning students who drop out of school.

Philadelphia had its "Buy a Bomber" campaign and Pittsburgh and other Pennsylvania cities had "Aluminum Days," but Penn State will have a "Coat Hanger Day" tomorrow to provide coat and pants hangers for the armed forces at the New Cumberland training center.

Under the management of Robert L. Mawhinney, committee chairman, Richard S. Kurtz, and Donald W. Davis, all juniors, the committee will provide a huge receptacle on the front steps of Old Main in which students can deposit the much-needed hangars all during the day.

Action on this campaign was taken last night at All-College Cabinet meeting after Jerome H. Blakeslee '42, All-College president, had read an urgent request from the captain in charge of supplies at the training center.

Cabinet also strongly recommended to All-College dance chairman that they substitute defense stamps or funds for Army or Navy Relief societies for corsages for the duration.

Fourteen juniors and two sophomores were selected by the Cabinet to serve during the next two semesters as All-College Elections Committee. Members of the committee are Margart K. Sherman, Jesse V. Fardella, Sara L. Miller, Marjorie E. McFarland, Bernard A. Plesser, Robert L. Mawhinney, David J. McAleer, Charles H. Ridenour, Gordon L. Coy, Allan I. Moser, Thomas R. Heidecker, M. William Ludelius, and Blakeslee, all juniors, and James B. Craig and Robert M. Faloon, both '44. Davis will serve as chairman of the body.

A recommendation was also made that Campus Patrol be asked to cooperate with the Cabinet and WSGA in preserving the proper student composure and attire on Front Campus during the Summer semester.

Martha Reichley '43 was chosen secretary for the present Cabinet to succeed Betty A. Bischoff, who will graduate Sunday.
