Tanner Named IFC Faculty Advisor For 14th Year

Sheldon C. Tanner, professor of economics, has been appointed to serve as faculty advisor for Interfraternity Council for the next school year, M. William Lundelius '43, IFC president, announced last night.

Tanner, who has served as IFC faculty advisor since the organization's founding 13 years ago, had resigned his position when he feared that his new duties in the war effort might hamper his efficiency as IFC advisor.

Disregarding the resignation, the Council presented his name to the President's office as one of five professors suggested for the position. Choice of Tanner by the President's Office followed.

Pledging of transfer students begins today, according to the IFC president. Today's pledging, following a week of rushing, is a prelude of the large-scale membership drive that will take place after official rush week begins when the freshmen arrive June 7.

Opening of official pledging of freshmen has been set for June 13, by IFC, while the entire rushing season for the Summer Semester will end June 20.

This year, for the first time in the history of Interfraternity Council, there will be no silent period at the close of the official rushing season, according to Lundelius. In recent years there has been a 30-day period during which no pledging is permitted.

Transfer Students Will Report For Physicals

All transfer students are requested by Dr. J. P. Ritenour, Director of the College Health Service, to report to the Dispensary in Old Main as soon as possible for an appointment for their physical examinations.

Dr. Ritenour declared that it was imperative that these examinations be given at the earliest possible date, since the influx of freshmen next month will crowd the Dispensary for several weeks. All students must undergo a physical Health Service as a requirement of admission to the College.

Collegian Staff Gives Up Pay; Two-Fold Plan Insures Circulation

Also approved last night, a double-barreled plan for guaranteeing circulation The Daily Collegian goes into use this morning, as the newspaper's intensive subscription drive rolls underway.

The new circulation plan, aimed at the only major complaint received at The Daily Collegian's offices, is an adaptation of a procedure that is being used with outstanding success by the Centre Daily Times.

Ridenour Appointed Tribunal Head; Memorial Services Set For Friday

No Cuts Allowed Friday Or Monday

Separate Memorial Day Services will not be held by the College Saturday. Students were urged, however, by College authorities to attend the community services in the High School Stadium at 7 p. m. Friday.

No classes will be held Saturday morning, but no other concessions to the holiday will be made, according to the Dean of Men's office. Dean Warnock said that students are expected to stay on the job, and not cut classes either Friday or Monday.

Except for emergencies, Warnock added, there will be no excuses issued for classes missed. When asked what the penalty would be, Warnock said that the student would officially be recorded as having cut, and possibly a grade penalty inflicted, as is the practice in some classes.

"Students have a real job to do, just as the men in the army, and the workers in war industries have. There are no weekend stoppages there, and there should be none here," Dean Warnock declared.

Plans for the Memorial Day services in the High School Stadium call for a very simple ceremony. There will be no parade before, after, or during the meeting, according to Julius E. Kaulfuss, professor of highway engineering, who is the College representative on the Citizen's Committee, which is in charge.

Formerly, the Memorial Day services in the community were held on Sunday evening preceding the holiday with a crowd of about 1,200 attending last year. A much larger turnout is expected this year, according to com- (Continued on Page Four)

To further organize all the hat men on campus into a more workable unit for blackout duty, Charles H. Ridenour '43, head of the Hat Society Council, has called a meeting of all hat societies in 318 Old Main at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Commended by the authorities for their part in the last test blackout, Ridenour has urged all hat men to attend the meeting to find out their part in future tests and how they can best cooperate with the air raid wardens in preserving order.

NYA To Continue Until End Of June

Students holding NYA jobs as of last semester will be permitted to work until the end of June when the present allotment of government funds is expected to run out, Frank E. Whiting, office manager, said last night.

Divided into two periods, from May 26 to June 7, and from June 8 to June 30, students will be allowed to work a maximum amount of hours during the first period not exceeding 57. Plans for the continuance of NYA throughout the Summer are indefinite, Mr. Whiting said, and no new students will be put on the present list.

Although present indications point towards the discontinuance of government funds for NYA help, the necessity of supplying needed aid to college agencies and organization, and the need of financial help to the students themselves may prompt the government either to continue NYA assistance or make some other provisions, Mr. Whiting added.

If the financial assistance is continued after June 30, new applicants will have to fill out the forms all over again just like they would do in September after returning from vacation.

SFRC Plans All-College Sing; Fishburn To Direct

Hoping that the success of similar projects during previous Summer school sessions will continue this year the Student Faculty Relations Committee is planning an All-College Sing for Friday, June 12.

Prof. Hummel Fishburn, head of the music department, is in charge of the sing. He will be assisted by Frank M. Gullo, assistant professor of music.

John E. King, co-chairman of the committee, emphasized the great recreational value of such programs. He stated that the committee hopes for a record attendance at this sing in view of the large number of students who will be in school this summer. He also said that plans for future sings depend on the success of this program.

Heidecker, Ex-Chairman Leaves For Service

Penn State's All-College Cabinet met last night for the first time during the College's first Summer semester and cleared the way for efficient student government with additional appointments and replacements for students in important campus posts who are now in the armed services.

Charles H. Ridenour '43, recent appointee to the Student Tribunal, was named Tribunal chairman to succeed Thomas R. Heidecker '43 who will leave for the Coast Guard in the near future.

Robert L. Mawhinney '42 was named as a fifth senior to the seven-man Judiciary. Other Tribunal members are J. Robert Hicks and Joseph Hodin, both juniors.

New student representative on the borough council, Charles N. Beatty '44, was appointed by Blakeslee and approved by the Cabinet.

Renewed discussion on the scholarship plan for students called from the College to serve during wartime was introduced by Dorothy K. Brunner '44, chairman of the campaign. Original idea of the plan is buy defense bonds with money to be used in the future to make it possible for Penn State veterans with two or more semesters of College to return to the campus.

Flying Lions Leave For Naval Training; 2nd Group Forms

The College's first Naval Air Unit, the Flying Lions squadron, organized by Thomas J. Allison '42, who will serve as wing leader, left yesterday for Chapel Hill, N. C., where it will begin physical training for active Naval service.

Following closely on the heels of the first group organized, William J. Debler '42 has started organization of the second unit which will leave for the same training station some time in September. This second unit will be made up chiefly of men who have not yet been sworn in under the V-5 plan.

For these new men and candidates for appointment as cadets under the program, a V-5 examining board will come to the campus to conduct interviews and physical examinations the first three days of next week, June 1, 2, and 3.
