OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE

VOL. 39—No. 4

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 29, STATE COLLEGE, PA.

PRICE: THREE CENTS

IN MEMORIAM — Jerome H. Blakeslee '43, All-College president, will lay wreaths at campus spots tomorrow to commemorate the Penn Staters who served in past wars.

Student Prexy's To Place Wreaths

Placing wreaths at three hallowed spots on campus tomorrow, Jerome H. Blakeslee '43, All-College president, will conduct the only Memorial Day services planned at the College. Community services will be held, however, in the High School Stadium tonight at 7 p. m.

Blakeslee will lay wreaths in front of plaques in the first floor lounge of Old Main and in Rec Hall, and on President Edwin Erle Atherton's grave beside Schwab Auditorium. He will be accompanied by Margaret K. Sherman, WSGA president, Dean A. R. Warnock, and other student and faculty representatives.

"This year more than ever students should show their willingness to cooperate in community affairs, and I strongly urge as many of the student body as can do so, to attend the brief Memorial services in the High School Stadium," Blakeslee stated.

All-College Cabinet voted a similar resolution at its last meeting. The program, sponsored by the various veteran's organizations, will be simple and short. It is scheduled to begin at 7 and end at 8 o'clock.

There will be no parade either before or after the ceremonies. The American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps will aid in a massing of the colors of the organizations taking part.

Kappa Sigma Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary

Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Sigma at Penn State will celebrate its Golden Anniversary this weekend, according to William J. McKnight, president. Prominent alumni and national officers will be present at the ceremonies.

Two remaining charter members of the Penn State chapter, founded in 1892, will be present. They are Col. William R. Rothrock and M. S. McDowell, vice-dean emeritus of the School of Agriculture.

Governor's Wife Reports Rationing Affects Executive Pantry Supplies

By SALLY L. HIRSHBERG
According to Mrs. Arthur H. James, wife of Pennsylvania's governor, who paid a promised visit to campus yesterday, the strain of war and the necessity for conserving essential materials is affecting the executive pantry supplies.

After reporting to the rationing board that they had 50 pounds of sugar, the James' were refused ration cards until their supply is used.

Mrs. James promised three student hitch-hikers, picked up by her husband last week, that she planned to visit Penn State as soon as possible. She came as the guest of Mrs. Torrence, mother of Robert Z. Torrence '43.

"The life of a governor's wife is very exciting and I love it," said Mrs. James, who has been one for seven months. "We very rarely talk politics at home," she said, "as that is strictly the business part of our lives."

Mrs. James emphasized the necessity of the many social obligations attached to her position, and added, "It's a lucky thing I enjoy entertaining." She remarked that they had to cut down on the elaborateness of their parties since the war started.

Talking to Walter C. Price '45, Soph Hop chairman, Mrs. James said that she would consult with the Governor about attending the dance July 10.

As hostess of a sorority house on the Cornell campus for seven years, college-life is not strange to Mrs. James. "You have no idea how you miss it, and how good it is to get back," she said.

Visiting Hours Set For Freshman Camp By Program Chairman

Visitors will be able to visit the Freshman Diamond Valley Camp next Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4 p. m. in order to become acquainted with this new project, Cliff M. Painter '44, Frosh Camp program chairman, announced last night.

In attempting to "help freshmen get ahead with the right start, instead of being lost in the crowd," over 25 administrative and campus leaders have been scheduled to address the campers during the three-day camp, Herbert K. Kraybill '44, assistant program chairman said.

Speakers will include A. R. Warnock, Dean of Men; A. O. Morse, assistant to the president in charge of Resident Instruction; Dr. Robert Bernreuter, professor of psychology; Dr. C. O. Williams, associate professor of education; Dr. Henry Yeagley, associate professor of physics; Miss Ruth Zang, assistant dean of women; Ray Conger, instructor in physical education; and Harry Seamans, General Secretary of the PSCA.

No Increase Made In Fees—Bursar

Contrary to rumors circulated on campus yesterday, there has been no increase in student fees for the Summer semester, according to a statement issued by the office of the Bursar last night.

The $50 incidental fee, and the $19.75 miscellaneous fee remain the same as in former years. Strangely enough, there has actually been a reduction in total fees for the semester, with men's class dues reduced from $2.80 to $2.40, and women's class dues reduced from $3.60 to $3.00. The difference covers the assessment levied last semester for Blue Band uniforms.

The period for payment of fees ends at 5 p. m. today, and all payments made after that hour will be subject to a $5 fine.

By using the card system which was introduced last semester, the Bursar's office was able to handle a first-day rush smoothly and without a trace of congestion.

Students obtain special cards prepared by the Statistics office bearing the total amount of fees payable, make out a check for the amount specified, and present them at the alphabetically designated window, after which they receive their athletic books and receipted statements.

According to Officials in charge, requests for fee deferments numbered fewer than one-fourth those of last semester.

Collegian Meeting

A meeting of all Collegian editorial and business staff members will be held in the News Room at 7 p. m. tonight, according to Gordon L. Coy, editor. Subscription campaign reports will be made at this time.

Tuesday's Special Collegian Edition To Preview College Life For Frosh

A typical "special service" of The Daily Collegian will be performed Tuesday with the publishing of a 12-page "introductory" Collegian issue for this year's freshmen.

Tuesday's 12-pager is the first in a series of over-size issues planned for the Summer semester. Scheduling of large-sized editions has been arranged to insure that every special occasion on campus will receive complete newspaper coverage.

Announcement of the proposed series of extra-page editions last night adds still another improve-

Students, Faculty Take Over Rec Hall Tomorrow

County Fair Is Theme Of Next Old Main Open House Program

"An old-fashioned county fair will be the theme of the Old Main Open House on Friday, June 12, if plans made at a meeting of the committee today can be carried out," Gerald B. Stein '44, program chairman, announced last night.

Present plans call for a pop-concert—a program of popular concert tunes—on the terrace of Old Main at 8 p. m., to start the program. However, it may be impossible to arrange for a band or orchestra on such short notice.

Between 8 and 12 p. m. everybody is invited to take advantage of the events on the program. For the first time croquet, on the front lawn, will be available to a limited number of people.

A movie will be shown in the Little Theatre, in the basement. There will be social dancing and square dancing and also conducted tours through the office of the president. The tower will be open again from 10 to 12 p. m. weather permitting.

Borough Begins USO Fund Drive

Starting Monday, and lasting for one week, the State College division of the United Service Organizations will start an $1800 drive with 107 canvassers throughout State College, Pine Grove Mills, Boalsburg, Shingletown and Lemont.

Students will not be approached for contributions because they have already given more than their quota in the past, Russell D. Casselberry, associate professor of zoology and chairman of the drive said. Those students, however, who wish to give voluntary contributions may do so to Russel E. Clark, College bursar and secretary of the borough USO.

At a meeting of solicitors last night, Leon Rabinowitz '43, representing the Thespian Mobile Units which have been touring army camps, spoke on the needed entertainment for soldiers. He said the Thespian's programs along with USO backing are well appreciated by the army men.

In the concentrated drive, the Borough has been divided into eight sections. These have been further subdivided into 107 areas to be covered in 1,897 calls by the 107 canvassers.

Coordinator Conger Invites Everyone

Play-night coordinator Ray M. Conger, instructor of physical education, announced last night that plans to bring relaxation to Summer semester students, who won't be going to camps and resorts, have been completed for the first play-night of the Summer, tomorrow.

From 8 to 12 p. m., everybody is invited to come to Rec Hall and participate in their choice of social dancing, court games, shuffle-board, ping pong, card and board games.

"If the demand is great enough," Conger added, "the center section of the gym will be turned over to square dancing as well as social dancing. Edward H. Cubbon, physical education director at California State Teachers' college, will be in charge of square dancing. George Donovan, Student Union director, has purchased 50 new records which will make their debut to Penn State society tomorrow night when they are used during the social dancing program.

Edward M. Gales '43, will supervise play on the five badminton courts. In charge of other court games are Sydney Rudman '43, ping pong, and John Silan '43, volleyball.

Coordinator Conger suggested that gym shoes or sneakers would be more convenient for students and faculty who plan to make use of court games. It is not compulsory to wear them, however.

Play-nights are nothing new to Penn Staters. Mr. Conger pointed out that people who have come to Summer school in previous years were often able to take advantage of similar programs which were called "Fun Nights."

A second play-night will be held June 13. It is the hope of the school of physical education and athletics that the second one will give freshmen a chance to get acquainted with the gym equipment available for their use, as well as furnish relaxation.

Sponsors of play-night are the School of Physical Education and Athletics, in cooperation with the Penn State Club, Student Union, Ima, WRA, WSGA, Panhel, PSCA, and IFC.
