Two Squirrels Invade Class

A new chemical formula for producing squirrels resulted from an experiment in Chemistry 52 class recently, as two of the rodents, in keeping with Penn State's "Hello" spirit, turned tricks before a startled group of students and instructors.

When Freshmen Velma Braun and Louise Brown mixed sodium acetate and sodium lime together, expecting to get methane gas, they were amazed to find two squirrels where there should have been gas.

Among the amused spectators was Miss Lillian L. Arent, laboratory instructor. Her amusement did not last long, however, as one of the squirrels, attracted by her bright red smock, made a flying leap to her shoulder.

Not to be outdone by his furry companion, the other squirrel followed suit, and the two of them, leaping over the Textile Chemistry Laboratory, were chased by

Journalism Honorary To Give Coffee Hour

Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, will hold a coffee hour at the Alpha Chi Omega suite from 6:45 to 7:45 p. m. Tuesday. Invitations are being sent to six junior women majoring in journalism.

Committees have been named for the Matrix Dinner which is held annually in honor of BWOC's. The dinner will take place at the Nittany Lion Inn in October.

Committee members include Seniors Emily L. Funk, general chairman; Jean A. Kelly, invitations; Ruth E. Morrow, food; and Edith L. Smith, cleanup.

We, The Women Bicycles Plentiful—Space Is Lacking

We would go on bicycle hikes if we had bicycles.

We would have bicycles if we had convenient places to keep them.

We would have such places if present facilities would be utilized.

Why can't coeds rooming in spacious dormitories keep bicycles there?

For recreation during the Summer semester, numerous coeds returned with the intention of having bicycles handy when opportunities for outdoor exercise arose. Freshman women will arrive next week prepared to ride "two-wheelers" on a campus said to be perfectly adapted for that sport.

Instead of finding necessary parking spaces coeds will view "No Trespassing" signs which explain that bicycles shall be stored off campus.

Basements of Atherton Hall, Grange Dormitory, McAllister Hall, and Women's Building are in a large part available for storage. With bicycle racks placed in the unused parts of these buildings, there would be ample room. Cellars open for such storage prior to the Summer semester are still open, but remain unused.

We are invited to go on several hour co-recreation bicycle hikes by WRA.

We are urged to get outdoor exercise by health authorities.

We would insure usage of bicycle parking lots, if dormitory authorities would assure us of those places.

Bart Dormitory Elects

Bart Dormitory held elections recently. New officers are Irene J. Uhrlik '44, president; June R. White '45, vice-president; Eleanor L. Vollmer '44, secretary-treasurer; Bernadette L. Kohler '44, I.W.A. representative; Constance M. Halberstadt '45, fire chief; Geraldine M. Hackett '44, air raid warden.

four instructors carrying improvised traps of coats, water containers, and boxes.

Living in the rafters of the old building, it seems that the animals jumped onto the table at just the crucial moment. Evading their pursuers, they are still living "somewhere" in Textile Chem.

Sandbags, Guns Will Aid Setting At Draftee Drag

Sandbags and guns will add atmosphere to Draftee Drag, this semester's dance given by Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, from 9 p. m. to midnight Saturday, July 18.

Location of the dance has not yet been decided, according to Lila A. Whoolery '43, general chairman. The Campus Owls will play.

All proceeds will go toward scholarships for women in the College. Traditionally, coeds will ask men to the dance.

This is the fourth year of Mortar Board sponsored dances. Formerly called Spinster Skip, it has been given in November when Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae, characters in Al Capp's comic strip, had their annual manhunt, Sadie Hawkins Day. Colleges all over the country have used this theme in dances and have set aside whole days to celebrate the mythical event.

Committees for the dance include decorations and publicity—Louise M. Fuoss '43 and Patricia MacKinney '43, co-chairmen, Emily L. Funk '43, Ruth L. Kiesling '43, Rosalind M. Nelson '43, Kathryn M. Popp '43, Mildred B. Schmidt '43, Marion C. Dougherty '44, Marjorie E. Siebprt '44, Shirley J. Tetley '44, Virginia K. Tross '44, and Lucille D. Weinstein '44; band—Marjorie L. Sykes '43; tickets and checking—Jacqueline Shafer Ballantyne '43, Miss Popp, and Senior Sponsors; invitations—Margaret K. Sherman '43.

Co-op To Have Party

Nittany co-op will hold a party from 8 p. m. until 1 a. m. Friday. Mary H. Steele '44 and James R. Ziegler '43, social co-chairmen, are in charge of plans. Several new members have recently been admitted to the house, but some vacancies remain, according to Mabel E. Satterthwaite, women's president.

PANEL PREXY — Pauline E. Keller '43, Council president, announced the Panhellenic Rushing Committee for the Summer semester at a meeting last night.

Keller Names Rushing Heads

Pauline E. Keller '43, Panhellenic president, announced Council's Rushing Committee, who will assist Beatrice White '44, newly elected vice-president, at a meeting last night.

Ada Lord '43, eligibility chairman, and Louise W. Henry '44 will serve in the capacity of an advisory committee to Panhellenic members who have questions and problems on the code.

Miss White, committee chairman, takes her position according to the sorority rotating system and will automatically become Panhellenic president next year.

Council members were asked to continue sales of Red Cross benefit chances on paintings to be raffled off July 4. Prizes, an oil painting valued at $150, and a water coloring worth $75, are works of local artists, according to Miss Keller. Chances sell for 25 cents.

Panhellenic's annual publication, for freshmen, the Panhellenic Handbook, will be ready within the next week, Lila A. Whoolery '43, Handbook editor, announced.

From ignorance our comfort flows. The only wretched are the wise.—Matthew Prior.

Bridge Club Opens Season

"If enough coeds show interest in improving their bridge technique, the WRA Bridge Club will secure an adult instructor to meet regularly with the club at 6:30 p. m. every Wednesday," announced Elizabeth J. McKinley '45, president.

A reorganization meeting will be held in the WRA Room White Hall, at 6:30 tonight. The club is open to beginners as well as expert players. Election of a vice-president, secretary, and treasurer will be held in the near future.

Initial semester meeting of the Badminton Club will be held in White Hall lounge at 7 p. m. tonight. Club membership is open to all coeds. Attendance at three successive meetings is the only membership requirement, stated Martha Duffman '43, president.

An honorary badminton club is held in conjunction with the regular club. To become a member a coed must pass certain entrance tests.

The Bowling Club will also meet in White Hall tonight at 7 p. m. A practice period will be held at 6:30 p. m. in the White Hall alleys.

Counselors Plan Camp Discussions

PSCA freshman counselors will consider six phases of Penn State life and their relation to freshman women when the freshman women's camp committee meets in Room 304 Old Main at 4:10 p. m. today. Discussion of health, extra-curricular activities, dating, sororities, studies, and student-faculty relations will prepare the committee to help new coeds solve these problems during the camp weekend, according to Agnes Highsmith, PSCA associate secretary.

The committee will base discussion on Randall's "How To Make Good in College," and Hartorne's "Transition from High School to College."
