

Ewell Will Try For 200-Yard Dash Record In Rochester Exhibition

The clock will be Barney Ewell's big competition this afternoon when he tries to break Charlie Paddock's 200-yard dash record at a special exhibition run in Rochester.

He will be racing against no competition except, possibly, two high school runners who will attempt to make him put forth a special effort by the handicaps they will place him under. They will probably run 100 yards each with some start in order to be running ahead of him part of the time.

Despite the fact that there will be no top-notch sprinter competing against him, he stands a better-than-average chance of taking the mark now in possession of the "world's fastest human." Experts, after mathematical computations on his record for this year, say he should be able to knock two or three-tenths of a second from the 19-second record.

Barney Plesser accompanied Ewell to Rochester yesterday, but he will not take part in any of the special exhibition events included as side attractions in the Eastern New York schoolboy meet.

Chick Werner, Lion coach, also accompanied Ewell. He will serve as guest referee for the high school meet and will probably be Barney's advisor for the special attraction.

around and don't get there with the firemen, you might find the site (and your girl) preempted.

By now, just about every guy in town ought to be waiting for the date. It's June 24, the night the First Army Interceptor Army Command has ordered an all-night blackout for central Pennsylvania.

So you're still doubtful? Well, just read the regulations. Item one says turn out the lights. Item two says get off the streets and take shelter in the nearest building. So what are you going to do if you happen to be just about ten feet from the front door of Ath Hall? Do you have to be told?

Bucs End Losing Streak

The Pittsburgh Pirates' 6 to 5 victory over the lowly Phils at Forbes Field yesterday ended their 10-game losing streak.

Independents Begin Only 2 Veterans Return For Summer Tennis; Calendar With Picnic 14 Candidates Compete For Varsity Berths

Opening a full Summer social calendar for independent men and women, IMA and IWA will hold their first joint picnic of the season in Hort woods from 3 to 7 p. m. Sunday.

The event is open to all students, according to a statement released by the committee in charge. A special invitation has been extended to incoming freshmen who will be on the campus Sunday. Special tickets priced at twenty-five cents, entitling the bearer to all the refreshments he wants, are on sale at Student Union

With no official ruling made to date on the eligibility of Ace Parker for varsity service this Summer, Tennis Coach Ted Roethke faces the prospect of having to build a new squad around a nucleus of only two returning veterans from last season.

The two experienced players are Cy Hull who played at the lead-off spot for the Lions this Spring and Herb Kraybill, who played at the number six position. Al Hender, another player from last season's outfit upon whom Roethke had counted for service this Summer, has been forced to give up competitive tennis completely by the recurrence of an old injury. Bill Lundelius, who paired with Captain Chuck Bowman in doubles last year, has reported for only one practice to date, it is doubtful whether he will be in top form for the opening match with Colgate, which is billed for June 20 on the latter's courts.

Don Davis, Collegian sports editor, who played part of the 1941 season for the varsity, has reported for practice and has displayed impressive form in early workouts. With more drill and conditioning, Davis should make good varsity material for the season opener.
