

WRA Co-Rec Day Schedules Court, Field, Table Contests

Weekend Plans Include Bike Hike

Co-Recreation Day, sponsored for the third year by WRA as a part of its co-recreation program, will be held Saturday from 1:30 to 5 p. m., according to Adele J. Levin '44, WRA activities chairman in charge of the program.

With both men and women students invited to participate in activities, only those interested in competing in the progressive tennis tournament and golf Scotch foursomes need sign up before Saturday. Women may sign up in White Hall or on dormitory bulletin boards and men in Recreation Hall or Student Union by 5 p. m. Friday. Students may sign individually or in groups.

Other sports which are scheduled for Co-Rec Day will be played on Holmes Field and in front of White Hall. There will be two volleyball games, fist ball, croquet, softball, a novelty tournament and Columbia round in archery, six courts of badminton with progressive tournaments, and a progressive table tennis tournament. Shuffleboard will be played on the sidewalks, and Chinese checkers and other table games are scheduled.

WRA club presidents are working with Miss Levin in planning events. Identification tags will be given to all participants.

Continuing the co-recreational program, a bicycle breakfast hike to the WRA Cabin, Shingletown Gap, will be held from 6:30 to 10 a. m. Sunday. There will be a charge of 50 cents for bicycles and 15 cents for breakfast. Hikers will meet at the Miles Street Bicycle Shop.

Five Home Eccers To Attend Confab

Five student and faculty representatives of the home economics department will attend the American Home Economics Association Convention in Boston, Mass., June 21 to 24.

Representatives include Dr. Laura W. Drummond, director and professor of home economics; Miss Ruth L. Bonde, assistant professor of home economics; Miss Rose M. Cologne, assistant professor of home economics; Miss Ina Padgett, associate professor of home economics; and Edith D. Dengler '44, Home Economics Club member.

Miss Drummond will present a report on the Boston meeting at the Pennsylvania Vocational Conference at Eagles Mere, Pa., June 25 and 26.

Marjorie R. Chambers '43, Chi Omega president, will represent her chapter at the annual sorority convention at Buckhill Falls from June 18 to 23.

Monotonous Beat Stirs Coeds' Sleep

To the beat, beat, beat of a mysterious Wednesday night tom-tom, Women's Building coeds have to sleep, study, and play bridge. Starting at 10 p. m., the music continues until the wee morning hours.

Tracers of the drum-like tunes found that it all comes from an exhaust pipe, an outlet on the Sparks side of Pond Laboratory basement. A liquid air plant is stationed in the cryogenic laboratory for use of graduate and research students in chemistry.

Sheldon E. Frey '42 is the graduate student in charge of operating the air compressor which produces a liquid air supply for a week. The product is used to determine physical and chemical measurements at low temperatures. Each exhaust blast of the plant causes the dull beat heard by persons in the vicinity.

With only a few minutes rest, the machine ran through a 48-hour endurance test last week, during which time coeds found themselves doing everything in time to the rhythmic beat, beat, beat.

We, The Women Life Begins At 40—Activities End There

Do you know that WSGA limits the activities of coeds to allow others to share in membership and official responsibility?

In an attempt to equalize coed activities, WSGA Senate inaugurated a point system last Fall. Original purpose of the system was to prevent a few coeds from monopolizing positions and to encourage others to participate in activities.

Points based on reports from all organizations were allotted to members and to officers. With the quota set at 40 points, notifications are sent to coeds who exceed that limit.

Acting under the auspices of Senate, WSGA Junior Service Board visited dormitories to register coeds and to list their activities and offices.

We wish to point out, that although several seniors carried more than their allotted number of points last semester, the law was not retroactive and included only freshmen, sophomores, and juniors.

This year it will affect all classes.

Although this system is a vital and democratic addition to women's government, it will work successfully only if every coed understands and attempts to obey it.

As the system is in an experimental stage, suggestions for improvement will be welcomed by Senate.

Ideas thus far expressed include allowing additional points for a superior All-College average and having activity heads send in monthly reports of members and officers to be checked by Service Board or Senate.

Today and tomorrow, Service Board will register upperclass women. This year will be the telling tale. It is up to you to make or break the point system.

Lakonides, women's physical education honorary, will hold a recreation program for all physical education majors in front of White Hall at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. A picnic in Hort Woods will follow.

Board To Register Activity Points

Atherton Hall coeds will register activity points with WSGA Junior Service Board in dormitory lounges at 6:30 tonight and tomorrow night.

Sophomores will gather in the northeast lounge, while juniors will file cards in the northwest unit tonight, announced Mary Jo Powell '44, Service Board chairman. Seniors are asked to meet in the northeast lounge tomorrow.

Classes To Exhibit Food Share Values

In accordance with Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard's slogan, "Food is the Arsenal of Democracy," home economics nutrition classes are presenting the fourth in a series of food exhibits open to the public in 209 Home Economics Building from 1 to 5 o'clock this afternoon.

On display will be the essential foods that should be included in the daily human diet. Food constituents including calories, proteins, minerals, and vitamins will be graphically portrayed in shares, a system devised by the late Dr. Mary Swartz Rose of Columbia University. Each share equals one-thirtieth of the daily requirement of the average man.

Besides portraying the dietary pattern recommended by the National Nutrition Council, the exhibit will contrast nutritional values of different foods such as spinach with cabbage, beef liver with pork chop and round steak, and whole milk with skim and buttermilk.

PSCA Presents Stunt

"Penn State Forever—Then and Now" will be the stunt presented when PSCA Freshman Women's Forum meets in 304 Old Main at 7 o'clock this evening. Participating in the stunt will be Dorothy J. Jennings '44, Phyllis R. Watkins '44, Beatrice M. White '44, and Miriam L. Zartman '45.

Cwens Announce Pre-Dimout Picnic

Freshman women will be entertained at a pre-dimout picnic in Hort Woods from 7 to 9 p. m. Wednesday, June 24, by Cwens, national sophomore women's honorary, according to Mary Grace Longenecker '45, president.

Barbara C. Painter '45 will act as general chairman. Other committee chairmen are Sophomores R. Christine Yohe, refreshments; Miriam L. Zartman, entertainment; and Ruth M. Steiner, cleanup.

Miss Longenecker pointed out that freshmen should reserve one o'clock this month for the first Summer semester semi-formal dance, proceeds of which go to a Cwens' scholarship fund.

Theta, Sigma Phi To Pledge Six Coeds

Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary, will pledge six coeds in the Alpha Chi Omega suite at 7 p. m. tomorrow, according to Emily L. Funk '43, president.

Coeds who accepted bids are Seniors Lillian M. Brandt, Marguerite H. Chambrey, and Elaine Rosenbloom, and Juniors Jane H. Murphy, F. Doris Stevenson, and Mary Janet Winter.

Ebert To Give 'Dimout' Plans

"All meetings, classes, and rehearsals will be dismissed when a warning signal is sounded in preparation for the 'dimout' beginning at 9 p. m. Wednesday, June 24," said Miss Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women, last night.

Answers to questions concerning the "dimout" have been given in complete statement to the dean of women's office by G. W. Ebert, director of Grounds and Buildings and chairman of the Committee on Protection of Centre County Council of Defense. Details of the statement will be announced in Collegian within a few days.

Flashlights, to be furnished by the students themselves, may be used if shielded and directed downward, or protected by red or blue bulbs. Rooms in each dormitory will be prepared for study and recreation.

"The previous blackout was a great success because of excellent preparation on the part of the Defense Council and cooperation of students and citizens," said Miss Ray. "It is anticipated that the 'dimout' of June 24, after ample preparation, will bring a record of 100 per cent success."
