

Fraternity Squads Complete IM Card

Finis was written to the first round of the Summertime Fraternity Intramural Mushball League last night when Delta Sigma Phi and Alpha Sigma Phi clinched the second place position in their respective leagues with wins over Phi Kappa Psi and Beta Sigma Rho on the golf course fields.

Delta Sigma Phi triumphed by a 9-7 count while Alpha Sigma Phi came through, 12-3.

The evening's top performance, for the second day in a row, was turned in by Shrom, Alpha Sigma Phi, who carved himself a sterling three-hitter following yesterday's two-hit trick over Delta Chi. The Alpha Sigma Phis were helped on their victorious way by eleven Beta Sigma Rho errors.

The Delta Sigma Phi-Phi Kappa Psi fray was a see-saw affair that was finally put on ice by the Delta Sigma Phis with a two-run rally in the sixth. Ervin helped the losing cause with the game's only four-bagger.

Final standings in all sections and the plans for the new leagues, compiled by Manager Bob Redmount '44, will be published in tomorrow's Daily Collegian. Redmount also announced that no games will be played over Soph Hop weekend.

Courtmen Drill For Faculty Tilt

Coach Ted Roethke's varsity tennis team will play its first home match of the Summer when it meets a squad comprised of faculty members, on the College courts at 2 p. m. Saturday.

The Lions dropped their opening game of the season to a strong Colgate squad at Hamilton, N. Y., three weeks ago by a 6-3 score. Their scheduled tilt with the Naval Reserve on the College courts was rained out June 27, and will be re-scheduled for later in the Summer.

The faculty team will be led by Ray Dickison, graduate student in chemistry. A complete starting lineup has not yet been announced for the faculty squad.

For the Lions, Cy Hull will again lead off at the number one spot, and Herb Kraybill will play at number two. Coach Roethke has not named a definite starting order yet, but has indicated that he will use as many of the sophomore newcomers in the match as he can.

Between The Lions

Haven't We Overlooked Something

It occurs to us that one of the primary steps in Penn State's war preparedness program is being grossly neglected. One of the first requisites of a nation at war is the physical fitness of its citizens. From this corner we have seen no concerted moves for an expanded physical program for the student body.

Whether this is caused by a lack of facilities, personnel, or initiative we do not know. But the fact remains that the majority of the nation's colleges have made provision for more extensive physical programs than are carried on during peace time. For example, Yale University now requires three physical periods a week for each member of the student body.

Sure It Would Mean Work

Granted, such a mass physical program would entail additional work and equipment. Regardless of the effort involved, however, it seems to us that this should be the next item on the College's docket for war preparedness. From two sources we have heard rumors concerning the building of an obstacle course on the campus—from both Scabbard and Blade and the Phys Ed School. Since such an obstacle course would provide an ideal method for a mass fitness program, we suggest that plans for such a course be transferred from the realm of rumors to that of action as soon as possible.

Aside from required phys ed periods for all students, the only alternative that occurs to us is that of required intramural activity. Commendable as this might be, our present intramural setup is not large enough to give all students the opportunity of participating.

The ROTC Department has taken the cue and is now giving ROTC classes regular calisthenic drills. But this is not enough. The war will not be fought only by freshmen and sophomores. What we need and need desperately is an All-College physical program. What we would like to see is a whole field full of freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors taking organized calisthenics, running over an obstacle course, or receiving some other beneficial type of physical activity.

Let's not limit our contribution to the nation's war effort to giving up floral corsages and kissing the boys goodbye. Let's recognize that a basic requirement for a nation victorious in war is the fitness of its citizens. The students on Penn State's campus are preparing for their part in this struggle. Let's prepare them properly—physically as well as mentally.

No Frosh Baseball Games Scheduled

Because his freshman baseball nine has not had enough practice sessions and lacks a suitable pitcher, Coach Leo Houck has not scheduled any games as yet for his novice squad.

The main difficulty in holding drills, the Lion mentor stated, is that most candidates for the team are engineering students and can not get out to workouts until after 5 o'clock as their classes are not over until then.

However, many men have been turning out and working hard during practice sessions and will probably assume first squad perches at the start of the season. These candidates are Wayne Kreidler, first base; Jack Gracey, third base; Charles Daubert, shortstop; Jerome Stern, catcher; Bud Davage, second base; and Jack Landy, H. Jung, and M. Speizer, outfielders.

Finding hurlers for the yearlings is still a critical situation. Men who have tried out for the position have proved unsatisfactory and, as a last resort, Coach Houck is attempting to convert infielders Anthony Mazzooco and Fred Shaw and catcher Jack Berlin into moundsmen.
