

Golfers Meet Cornell Linksmen

Taking to the road for the second time this Summer, the Lion golfers will meet Cornell on the links at Ithaca this afternoon. If the Lions continue their winning streak and take Cornell, this will be their fourth win of the Summer season.

Heading the lineup for the Nittany linksmen are co-captains Dick Stephens and Bill "Ducky" Swan, who will play the first twosome. Following in close order will be Jim McCormick, Ed Fairchild, Charlie MaClay, and Dick Hastings, with Hank Keller as alternate.

The Lion linksmen beat Cornell last Spring during the EIGA matches, and went on to win the Middle Atlantic division title, bowing only to Yale in the finals at New Haven.

This season has been one of the best for the Nittany golfers since Coach Bob Rutherford took over the coaching job in 1921. Rutherford has been on the line of duty longer than any other Lion mentor, and has several times turned out unbeaten teams.

However, this is the first team that played through the Spring season to a championship, and then continued with a Summer schedule. The Lions will meet Cornell here in a return match Victory Weekend.

Debate Team To Meet Lock Haven Debaters

One of the few colleges in the country to pursue a full-time debate schedule during the Summer, Penn State's men's debate squad will send a team of four men to Lock Haven Tuesday to discuss the question of whether extra-curricular activities should be dropped for the duration.

The personnel for the trip as announced by John M. McCue '43, debate team manager, is made up of John E. Ritchey '44, Albert Rosen '43, William Pomerantz '45, and Karl H. Bergey '45.

The match with Lock Haven there will be followed by one on the same subject with the same college in 316 Sparks at 8 p. m. next Thursday. Samuel G. Fredman '43, chairman of the Forensic Council, will preside at the symposium.

Participants as announced by McCue are Carroll P. Blackwood '44, Harry Vosburgh '43, Harold I. Epstein '44, and George Burns '43. A panel to conduct a forum after the main discussion will be announced later.

In 1928 the Penn State cross-country team climaxed an undefeated season by winning the IC4-A meet and setting a national record.

Weather Postpones Intramural Softball; Three Games Today

Heavy rains yesterday caused postponement of all scheduled intramural softball games. These games have been rescheduled and are listed below with the first part of the lineup for next week's play. Manager Bob Redmount '44 emphasized again in a statement yesterday that all games must be played at the hour scheduled and are not subject to rescheduling.

Play in the fraternity sections is still in a preliminary stage and as yet the won and lost columns do not have too much significance. Every team in every section still is in the running for the respective section titles.

In the independent league the standings were closed up considerably when Fairmount Hall upset the second place Matils last Thursday, forcing the Matils into a three-way tie with Jordan Hall and the Electric Diner for second place. All boast a .700 average.

Lion Nine Clashes With Cornell Team

ITHACA, N. Y., July 17—Penn State's baseball team, nearly 20 strong, arrived here tonight with tennis and golf teams, all three prepared to test the strength of Cornell University's Summer athletic teams.

Tomorrow afternoon the Big Red nine, exceptionally strong in the pitching department, will take the field against the Lion baseballers, and attempt to add to the Penn State loss column.

So far this Summer, the Blue and White has split with Colgate, and registered a win over Washington and Jefferson. A victory for the Lions tomorrow would mark the third straight time that Coach Joe Bedenk's lads have landed on the winning side of the books.

Whitey Pyer in all probability will take the mound against the host Cornell team, and it is expected Ed Tuleya will see action in late innings to test his hurling strength. Tuleya occupied an outfield position while a strained leg muscle was healing.

Whether or not the Keystone squad survives the Big Red encounter, it will still face a three-game barrage in State College next week. Lock Haven State Teachers' College is carded to invade the Lion's den Tuesday afternoon, and Colgate will journey to the Nittany Valley for a pair of contests Friday and Saturday afternoon.

Lineup will remain indefinite until Bedenk learns whether the Ithacans will start a right or left-handed pitcher. Four or five positions on the Lion squad depend on the delivery of the Cornell hurler, since the visiting Penn State mentor has a roster of players who stand on different sides of the plate.

Jack Burford, a junior, was added to the outfielders who made the trip here. His company in the fly-ball territory will include Bob Perugini, and players who are on the infield reserve roll. George McWilliams will catch, and Ray Bitting will be on hand to step in. At first base, the same

Courtmen Try For 2nd Win Against Cornell Netters At Ithaca

Aiming for their second win of the Summer schedule, Coach Ted Roethke's varsity courtmen will tackle a veteran Cornell tennis outfit on the latter's courts in Ithaca, N. Y., at 2 p. m. today.

The Lions dropped their season opener to Colgate, but swept their second match against the Penn State faculty, for a .500 average. Cornell will be the heavy favorite to take today's match, having tied Northwestern University for the intercollegiate title in the playoffs this past Spring.

Coach Roethke took a squad of seven men along with him on the trip. At the number one spot again will be Cy Hull, who has played in the leadoff position since joining the team in his sophomore year. Herg Kraybill, another starter from last season, will probably play at the second position.

Bill Lundelius, who has appeared in only one match this Summer after getting off to a late start, came through in practice this week to make the starting six against Cornell.

Dick Armbrust, Jim Lawther, Horace Smith, and Stan Spurgeon, all sophomore newcomers to the squad, will comprise the rest of the starting lineup today.

Today's match was originally scheduled to be played here, but a last-minute switch on the part of scheduling officials changed the site to Cornell, in order to bring the return battle to Penn State August 1 as a part of the Victory Weekend program.

Post-War Problems Subject Of Debate

Opening with a talk on the advantages of a revived League of Nations as the solution if the Post-War settlement the symposium last night in 316 Sparks with Lehigh University drew out many arguments for and against the various ideas presented.

Chief proponents of definite plans were Walter Q. Gerson '44, who presented the case for the League. Frank E. Zabkar '44 took up the discussion with a sharp criticism of the idea, and was followed by one of the speakers from Lehigh.

Preston Parr, Lehigh, argued for a Union of the Democracies, but was called for his failure to list the Soviet Union and China with those powers that were to police the world by Robert T. Kimmel '44.

Concluding with the Pax Americana, a scheme for power politics lead by the United States, Milton H. Bergstein was chastened by Robert Beckwith, Lehigh, for presuming to unite force a democracy.

Bernard M. Weinberg '43, Morris Z. Beck '43, John H. Thorpe '46, Martin A. Kutler '44, Harriet Block '44, and Sara M. Bailey '43 conducted a forum on the subject with further discussion on the part of the speakers.

The seven seniors who comprised the Penn State soccer team in 1936 had the distinction of never having lost a game in three years of varsity play.

situation exists, with Jack Weber ready to fill in Captain Bill Debler's shoes. Whitey Thomas is without competition at shortstop, but either Don Sandercock or Gene Sutherland will take third base duties.

Stickmen Lose To Johns Hopkins As Mitchell Stars

(Special to The Daily Collegian)

BALTIMORE, Md., July 17—Playing under unusually hot weather conditions and handicapped by a lack of reserves, Penn State's lacrosse team lost a close 10 to 6 game to the national champion Johns Hopkins team here today.

Penn State's scoring attack was led by Tom Mitchell, star Lion forward, who threw four markers in for the Nittanymen. Bob Koch and Bill Hemphill each tallied one to make up State's points.

The hot and cold Lions lacked the necessary punch in the last period to overtake the Marylanders. Graduation of many outstanding seniors weakened Coach Thiel's starting ten.

Captain Jim Gotwals was outstanding at his defense post, time and again breaking up the skillful Johns Hopkins scoring plays.

The veteran Johns Hopkins ten, present national champions, had too much speed and reserve strength for the undermanned Lions, who were forced to play almost the entire game without substitution.

Another team from the southern hotbed of lacrosse, the University of Maryland, will provide the competition in the second of the two game series to be concluded tomorrow.

Penn State's probable starting lineup will be Jim Henderson, Howie Hausner, Bill Briner, Jim Gotwals, George Pittenger, Larry Farries, Tom Mitchell, Bob Koch, Sam Flenner, and Jack Kerns.

'45 Numerals Available

Freshmen athletic numeral awards for '45 athletes are available at the Athletic Office, 107 Old Main. Sweaters are available for all sports except lacrosse.

In 1936 the Lion's soccer team was undefeated, untied, and unscored upon in all seven of its games, but failed, because of a technical ruling, to be awarded the Eastern Intercollegiate Championship.
