

New Amendment Defines Ex-Officio Membership

An amendment defining ex-officio membership on All-College Cabinet and Cabinet's taking over the student book exchange were the highlights of its meeting last night.

Read for the first time last night the amendment stated, "The dean of men, the dean of women, and delegated representatives of any all-student or student-faculty organization approved by three-fourths vote of all members of Cabinet shall be ex-officio members of Cabinet. Ex-officio members shall have no vote."

The amendment arose from the recent controversy over PSCA's representation on Cabinet. If and when the amendment is adopted, action will be taken to make that organization an ex-officio member.

Robert L. Mawhinney '43, Bernard A. Plesser '43, and George C. McWilliams '44 were appointed as a committee to investigate the problem of starting the book exchange. Cabinet took over the exchange some time ago, but until now has done nothing about actual operation.

In his proposal of the plan Mawhinney stated that the Library has offered space in which to conduct the exchange. He stressed the importance of starting before the beginning of next semester.

4 Dantz-A-Poppin Bands Announced

Four campus bands have volunteered to take part in August 1's Dantz-a-poppin, the trouble-raising climaxer to Victory Weekend.

George Washko's Campus Owls, Tip Lyford's Nittany Lions, and George Roy and his Collegians have offered to clash in a battle of music that will provide the background for the we-dare-you-to-dance program, Leon Rabinowitz '43, announced last night. Vic Dimeo's Solid Seven has promised "a jive session that will really send" as part of the Dantz-a-poppin intermission.

Possibility that a fifth band might also appear on the unique program was also voiced by Rabinowitz.

Numbers in the third part of the program will be "El Relicario" by Padilla, and "Bacchanale" from "Samson and Delilah" by Saint-Saens.

Air Raid Test Set For Tonight

When the siren sounds tonight, State College will undergo a blackout test lasting for half an hour. All lights must be extinguished, except for airplane beacons and markers.

No definite time will be announced for the air raid alarm, which will be the first of a series planned to give the Civilian Defense Workers "much-needed practice in meeting emergency situations."

During the test tonight, the entire state will be blacked out at various times, so that Army planes flying over may observe the effectiveness of the preparations. The signal will be flashed to the local Councils over the Air Raid Warning system.

Control Centers will take over all community services, and will direct the Civilian Defense personnel in meeting mock incidents that

Dress for the Ag School's All-College dance is very informal, Walton stated. "Sport clothes are fair, work shirts are good, but overalls are tops in style for the Ball."

Army Reserve Enlistment Will Permit Graduation

Morse Asks Students To Contact Deans

By RICHARD B. McNAUL

"A student facing imminent induction by his local draft board should report to the dean of his school immediately," Adrian O. Morse, assistant to the president in charge of resident instruction, stated in advising students who wish to finish college before serving with the armed forces.

Mr. Morse, who has just returned from conferences in Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D. C., reports that students wishing to complete their education before being drafted should investigate the Army Enlisted Reserve plan. Penn State has been given a quota of 2,140 by the War Department.

Although the machinery has not yet been set up to make enlistments, it will be possible under the new plan to gain deferment through the deans of the various schools until actual signing up can be completed, according to Mr. Morse.

Basis for the selections of students will be scholastic ability and certain physical requirements. The enlistment is voluntary.

Purpose of the new plan is to insure a future source of qualified officer candidates from col-

NYA May Resume Program In Fall

Better days for the College's NYA situation were predicted with the announcement by Frank C. Whiting, office manager, that student aid, may start again in September.

After receipt of a letter from the state office at Harrisburg stating that NYA assistance had been cut in colleges and universities because of the relatively small appropriation made for the current year by the government, Whiting said the letter is very promising.

Although there is no official confirmation that the financial help will be forthcoming in the Fall, the letter states that NYA has been definitely cut for July and August. Apparently since there is a smaller number of students in College during these months, the government may be trying to save money by curtailing it now, Whiting added.

Only $60,000,000 has been provided by Congress for the 12 months beginning July 1, compared to the $123,000,000 spent for all operations last year. This fund will enable the NYA to aid not more than 107,000 college and high school students this year, as against the 282,000 aided last year.

The agency has set aside $8,000,000 for its school program—$5,000,000 to aid 40,000 college students and $3,000,000 for 67,000 in high schools.

Council Breaks Custom, Holds Open Meeting

Breaking precedent, the Liberal Arts Council will hold an open meeting in 411 Old Main at 4 p. m. today.

"Until the adoption of this new plan, the LA council meeting has always been closed to the students that it represents," Richard B. McNaul '44, secretary-treasurer of the council, said last night. "Now, students will be able to bring their problems directly to us for solution."
