

Lions Determined To Win Remaining 3 Baseball Games

Determined to put their three remaining scheduled games on the winning side of the ledger, Penn State's baseballers continue to work out on the New Beaver field diamond, scene of baseball games, tomorrow and Saturday afternoons.

After the heartbreaker loss at Cornell Saturday when the Lions were three runs ahead with two innings to go, then lost 8-7 after they were unable to meet the Big Red rally, the Lions will dig in to revenge Cornell in their next visit here Victory Weekend, and to down Colgate twice in the bargain.

With both Lock Haven games cancelled, only the three mentioned tilts remain. At the same time, it lessened Joe Bedenk's pitching problem, for Whitey Pyer will be able to start either game this weekend, and only one other hurler would be needed. Most probable would be Sophomores Ray Bolger and Mike Wardrop.

Eddie Tuleya, senior, who pitched a lot in the Spring part of the season then injured his leg, may have completed his college hurling career. Although Tuleya's strained muscle has apparently healed, Bedenk didn't want the York lad to take the mound in the Cornell clash because of a possible recurrence.

Drills all week have emphasized hitting, especially since the crucial slump in the pinch at Ithaca, but it has been Bedenk's practice throughout the season to give the Lions plenty of hitting workouts. The veteran coach reasons that a good defensive is useless without hitting power to bring in the runs.

Sciurus Hudsonicus Loquax?? Penn State's Campus Has 'Em, Too

If you see a Sciurus Hudsonicus running across walks, climbing the trees, scooting through the grass or scolding and chattering on campus, don't be afraid. It's only the Red Squirrel.

Perhaps you've wondered how the wise little members of the rodent family came to Penn State and how long they've been here. George R. Green, head of the department of nature education, provided the answers to these questions in an interview held yesterday.

It seems that the nut-gatherers came here of their own volition. They are wild and have been here for an unestimated length of time, according to Professor Green.

FROSH MENTOR — Coach Leo Houck will put his Freshman baseball team on the diamond of New Beaver Field on Tuesday evening, when they meet the Presbyterians, league-leaders of the State College Church League.

Frosh Diamondmen Meet League Leading Church Circuit Team

In their first game of the season, the Freshman baseball team will meet the Presbyterians, league-leaders of the State College Church League, on New Beaver Field at 6 o'clock next Tuesday evening.

Coach Leo Houck has been holding drills for the yearlings every afternoon and says that they should be in good shape on Tuesday evening to play a battling game with the Presbyterians.

Having won four of five games played, the Presbyterians are in the top position of the Church League with a percentage of .800, and will offer heavy competition for the '46 nine.

Starting lineup for Penn State will probably be Jack Berlin or Fred Shaw, pitcher; Wayne Kreidler, first base; Bud Davage, second base; Tony Mazzocco, shortstop; Jack Gracey, third base; Jack Landy or Bud Waxman, left field; Leo Yankosky or Jim Battle, center field; Bud Speizer, right field; and Jerry Stern, catcher.

The bushy-tailed rodents don't look much like hostile animals, but they are. Professor Green recalls the time when a group of students tried to introduce the Grey Squirrel to our campus a few years ago.

Noting the presence of the Grey Squirrel, Professor Green stated, the Red Squirrels became peeved, got their dander up and with all their furiousness lit out and let the Grey Squirrels have it, chasing them from campus and beating them so badly that the Grey Squirrel has not had the courage to show his face around here since.

Presence of the Sciurus Hudsonicus Loquax on campus has become a natural Penn State tradition.

Fairmount Hall Tops Irvin, 15-3; Seven Tilts Today

Fairmount Hall, the team that one week ago was resting at the bottom of the Independent League, continued its steady climb toward the upper division last night when they defeated Irvin Hall, 15-3. The Fairmount ten since its entrance into the league has pushed its won and lost average up to the .500 mark.

Berkeimer, pitching for Fairmount Hall, allowed only three meagre hits while his mates were collecting 21 safeties. Eby, Fairmount Hall short fielder, set the pace at bat with five for five.

Section 5 action saw Alpha Chi Rho gain their first victory when they registered two big innings to outscore Theta Chi, 13-9. Theta Chi jumped off to a four-run lead in the opening innings but a big seven run third and a six count in the fourth frame sewed up the ball game for the Alpha Chis. Scott and Mapers led the Alpha Chi 13-hit attack.

The final win of the night was chalked up by the third place Jordan Hall ten when they withstood a closing rush by the last place Miller Club to come through with a 10-7 triumph.

Nelmen Face Twin Bill With Colgate

Although they have won only one match out of three so far this Summer, Coach Ted Roethke's varsity tennis team will attempt to get back into the win column with a double victory when they meet Colgate's Red Raiders on the College courts at 4 p. m. tomorrow and again at 2 p. m. Saturday.

The Lions were stopped by Colgate in their opening match of the season by a 6-3 count, but were handicapped by the fact that only two of their starting lineup had had varsity experience.

Since that time several of their sophomore additions have shown a great improvement in their game, and should make a much closer battle of it both tomorrow and Saturday.

In addition to the two matches with Colgate this weekend, the Lions face another tough one in Cornell whom they meet in a return match during Victory Weekend. Another match is being arranged with the faculty team, and an attempt is also being made to re-schedule the Naval Reserves tilt which was rained out earlier in the month.
