Chuck McGill Wins IM Singles Crown In Independent Play

Defeats Dick Adams In Short Sets, 6-2, 6-2

Chuck McGill was crowned champ of the 1942 Intramural Independent Tennis Singles tournament yesterday when he defeated finalist Dick Adams in two straight and short sets, 6-2, 6-2.

McGill, early favorite of the few followers of the tournament from the start, played his usual superior brand of ball in every department to quickly and decisively eliminate his rival.

The singles champ, also a finalist in the Independent Doubles tournament, teams up with Ralph Yerger tomorrow afternoon in meeting the Thompson-Jaquist duo for the doubles championship.

Again, the duet sparked by McGill, is expected to walk off with top honors.

Strong competition was expected from the Dick Adams-Lou Vargo combination until Vargo was drafted, forcing the team to drop out of the running.

Bob Scheirer, Phi Delta's bid to fame and glory, defeated Phi Gamma's Cal Erwin to move up to the finalist's bracket in IM Fraternity Singles play.

Scheirer's competition, Beta Johnny Jackson, has a more impressive record, having already notched victories on his racquet over last year's champ Lenny Joseph and Hank Jeter, the only other player to win over Joseph.

In the finals, which are likely to be played tomorrow afternoon, Scheirer is expected to put up a strong battle in spite of a striking record.

Weather conditions during the past week have lessened the possibilities of completing Fraternity Doubles matches within the few days before the end of the Summer semester. However, with complete cooperation from the five teams remaining, there is a slight possibility of terminating play before Saturday.

It may be necessary to play twice in one day, thus making it useless to schedule matches in the Collegian. All scheduling will be made over the phone by IM Tennis Tournament Manager Bob Scheirer.

Penn Shows No Fear Of Draft

A rather powerful argument for nullifying the freshman football rule happened by chance to come through the mails yesterday from of all places, the University of Pennsylvania — the one opponent above all others that Bob Higgins and company would like to defeat this year.

The argument came in the form of a "dope sheet" titled "Information of Personnel of Squad, Coaches, and History of Football at the University of Pennsylvania."

Narrowing the identification of the argument down a little more, on page 9 of the dope sheet we found under the heading "Tentative 1942 Varsity Football Squad," the rather startling fact that George Munger and cohorts have not been in the least affected by the long arms of mischievous draft boards.

Quite to the contrary, Munger will have at least 46 veterans of varsity and freshman football back with which to start the forthcoming season.

Among the bruisers returning, are no less than 19 lettermen from last year's great squad. Add to this 16 freshman numeral winners, and a dozen guys named Joe and you have quite a squad.

About this time you should be saying—maybe some of them will be drafted before November 14.

Oh no they won't. Mr Munger and staff have shown a little forethought and have placed exactly 44 of the 46 members of his squad in some sort of enlisted reserve program.

A rough scanning of the list finds 6 of the U. of P. huskies in the Navy V-7 deferred-to-graduation plan, another 13 have found their way into the Reserve Marine Corps, 9 more are waiting for graduation while enlisted in Advanced ROTC, and the remainder of the squad are scattered throughout the Navy V-1, V-5 and Civilian Aviation Corps. All are sure to hear the whistle in Franklin Field, November 14.

Bob Higgins has lost 20 fellows — 17 to the armed forces. Quite a few other Lions have received questionnaires from their draft boards.

Many are using the argument that we shouldn't waive the freshman rule because Penn and Pitt haven't.

It has been pointed out that Pitt is trying to get in the Big Ten, which frowns on freshman competition.

The above evidence should be rather conclusive proof why Penn doesn't have to fall back on first year men.

Chevrons worn by non-commissioned officers of the U. S. Marine Corps have always pointed upward.

Upperclass Phys Ed Program Plans Still Tentative—Schott

Whether or not the optional Physical Education course for juniors and seniors will carry with it College credits has not yet been decided, according to Dr. Carl P. Schott, dean of the Physical Education and Athletics School.

Dean Schott stated that this will be determined after the School forms definite plans for the program and it will depend on whether or not the new course is included on the School's list of elective courses.

However, he stated that if the course carries credit with it, it will be conducted as a regular class with marks given and certain required work. If the course is set up as a purely optional one, it will be up to upperclassmen to report at their own will, with work also of an optional nature.

At the present time a proposal is before the various deans to separate the required hygiene course for freshmen and sophomores from the required physical education program. Under this new plan the underclassmen would have three hours weekly of actual activity for one credit and they would also be required to take a one credit, one hour per week hygiene course.

Schott stated that the hygiene course would be considerably stiffened over the present one, since its academic value would be increased by about three times.

Players Plan Program For Initiation Tomorrow

The Penn State Players will hold initiation ceremonies for active and associate members in the Little Theatre tomorrow night. All new members must reply no later than today at the Dramatics Office, Schwab Auditorium, and all bills must be paid, Joanne Palmer '43, president, announced.

Following the initiation, an informal dinner will be held. All old active members are asked to report to the Little Theatre at 5:30 p. m. tomorrow, where election of new officers will take place, according to Robert H. Herrmann '44, secretary.

During the American Revolution, non-commissioned officers of the U. S. Marine Corps were distinguished by epaulettes.

Students Must Redeem Basket, Towel Tickets

All students who have baskets in Rec Hall should check them in with their locks and towels sometime before Thursday at 4 p. m., according to an announcement last night by Glenn N. Thiel, professor of physical education.

He stated that all towel tickets must be turned in and that refunds will be made at the Bursar's office. New tickets will be required for next semester. Thiel also announced that elective physical education and swimming cards are due now at his office in Rec Hall.

U. S. Gunner Scores Famous First

To 21-year-old Sergeant Kent L. West, "belly gunner" in a flying fortress, went the honor of shooting down the first Nazi plane scored during the recent Allied Nations' raid on Europe. Wells, in helmet and goggles, bagged a Focke-Wulf 190. He is pictured here being congratulated by pals in his company after his safe return to the English base where he is stationed. The raid was the Commando raid on the French coast.
