We, The Women
Your Place, Frosh, Is Waiting For You

Tonight, while the Daily Collegian staff is writing stories for you, the new freshmen, 201 students are being officially graduated.
 Instantaneously, the College is saying 'good-bye' to old students and preparing to welcome new ones.
 We think this dual activity is significant because it typifies a new spirit at Penn State. It's the old save-face one of pre-war days, combined with a serious realization that time and energy must be conserved and utilized to the highest point of efficiency.
 Students, as well as soldiers, have a job to do. That job is attending classes and studying. But College isn't all classes; we play just as hard as we work.
 Because this is a big college, many future freshman fear that they will be lost and lonely. It's very bigness insures against this.
 Regardless of your background and interests, all sorts of activities, all kinds of people, dozens of places to go, and things to do are waiting for you. Your place, freshmen, is waiting to be filled.

Dean Appoints 2 Hostesses

Miss Lois Jean Anderson '38 and Mrs. Vera C. Furst have been appointed freshman hostesses in the newly acquired tri-dormitories, Miss Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women, announced yesterday.
 Miss Anderson, who has been doing graduate personnel work at the University of Pittsburgh, was an education major at the College. She majored in English and minored in French and Latin. While in school, she belonged to Le Cercle Francais, Pi Lambda Theta, national women's education honorary; and Phi Sigma Iota, romance language honorary.
 Coming from a teaching position in Wilson Borough schools, Mrs. Furst will aid in orientating the new class. She was graduated from West Chester State Teachers College and did further work at the University of Pennsylvania.
 Mrs. Furst has been active on the Board of Directors of the Easton YWCA, Miss Ray stated.
 Replacing Miss Cordelia Beech, who will be married today, as secretary to the dean of women, is Miss Edith Melville, a graduate of Swarthmore College and Pierce Business School.
 Dr. Pearl O. Weston, who has been acting as special assistant to the dean of women this semester, will resume her regular teaching duties at the Fifth Avenue Public School in Pittsburgh.
 Miss Mary Jane Stevenson, assistant to the dean of women, is leaving to accept the position of dean of women at Albright College.
