

The Daily Collegian

Weather

OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE

VOL. 39--No. 87.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 10, STATE COLLEGE, PA.

PRICE: THREE CENTS

Galbraith Tells AER Members To Call For Blanks

Supplementary Forms Must Be Filed Soon

All freshmen and sophomores who have entered the Army Enlisted Reserve since October 1 are requested by Prof. Robert E. Galbraith, FAWS, to obtain new supplementary application forms in his office at their earliest opportunity. The new forms must be filled out in quadruplicate in order to make enlistments complete under present War Department regulations.

The purpose of the new forms, Galbraith announced, is to ensure the student's being called only in the branch of the service for which he originally applied should a draft of AER members occur any time in the near future.

The forms are designed primarily for the benefit of those freshman and sophomore students who enter the AER with the intention of later being discharged to transfer to some other service branch such as the Navy or Coast Guard.

As the system now operates students enlisting in the AER with this intention in mind remain in the organization until the end of the sophomore year, at which time they apply for and obtain their discharge.

With the introduction of the new forms, students who happen to be in the AER (but earmarked for transfer) at the time an order may be issued for the induction if AER men would not be required to report with the regular AER contingent.

Instead they would be classified for the branch for which they applied, and would be subject to call for training only in that arm of the service.

Van Lenten Appoints Military Ball Committee Chairmen

Preparations for the 1942 edition of Military Ball got under way with the appointment of committee chairmen, Cadet Colonel Wilbur Van Lenten '43, general committee chairman, announced last night. October 30 has been set as the night of the dance.

Committee chairmen named for the event are Cadet Lt. Col. Stanley E. Forbes '43, entertainment; Cadet Lt. Col. Edsel J. Burkhardt '43, invitations; Cadet Lt. Col. William S. Ivans '43, arrangements; and Cadet Major William W. Kinsley '43, decorations.

Campus Party Sweeps Seven Class Offices

Junior Class Victors

Robert M. Faloon

Jack R. Grey

Grey, Faloon Win Junior Posts; Berlin New Freshman President

Campus party's political juggernaut rolled to its most complete victory in years yesterday, sweeping into office its entire slate of five freshman and two junior class nominees.

More than 1,250 students, including 860 freshmen and 416 juniors, trooped to the polls during the nine hours of balloting that ended at 6 p. m. Their decision was announced by the Elections Committee at 9:16 o'clock last night.

Only in the junior class race did the Independents come close to halting complete runaway by their campus party foes, and even in that case the Jack R. Grey-Robert M. Faloon combination held a 5-to-3 advantage in the final count.

In the freshmen ranks, the rout was decisive, with the margins of victory ranging from 325 to 437 votes. Jack Berlin and Robert E. Cowell piled up a better than 2-to-1 advantage over Joseph Colone and Jack Grimes, their Independent opponents for president and vice president.

Most complete runaway was scored by Evelyn Williams, Campus party candidate for historian; Betty Shenk's win over Betty Funkhouser was the closest freshman contest.

The complete election summary follows:

JUNIOR CLASS

President and Vice-president:

Jack R. Grey and
Robert M. Faloon (c) ..... 263
Robert B. Davis and William Shoemaker (D) ..... 153

FRESHMAN CLASS

President and Vice-president:

Jack Berlin and
Robert E. Cowell (C) ..... 591
Joseph Colone and
Jack B. Grimes (I) ..... 227

Secretary:

Betty Shenk (C) ..... 578
Betty Funkhouser (D) ..... 253

Treasurer:

Lorrie Van Deusen (C) ..... 595
Ray Joiner (I) ..... 246

Historian:

Evelyn Williams (C) ..... 600
Eleanor Bennett (I) ..... 163

President Hetzel Announces 23 New Faculty Appointments

Twenty-three new faculty appointments were included in the 28 additional personnel changes announced by President Ralph D. Hetzel yesterday. Four resignations were accepted.

J. A. Van Horn, instructor in physics, resigned to accept a position at Wright Field; J. A. Pollock, research assistant in chemistry, to accept an industrial position; Katherine Norman, instructor in home economics and art education; and E. P. McNamara, assistant professor and supervisor of ceramics extension, to become head of the department of ceramics at Rutgers University.

New appointments include J. S. Knapp, instructor in physics and mathematics in Undergraduate Centers; Herbert H. Kellogg, instructor in mineral preparation; Ruth J. Bickett, serials assistant in the College Library; Douglas M. Scott, instructor in German; Ethel T. Anderson, instructor in English composition; George B. Snyder, instructor in mathematics; Joseph T. Zogby, instructor in German in Undergraduate Centers; Steven A. Adler, instructor in engineering in Undergraduate Centers; Pearl Hoagland Guest, instructor in psychology.

David J. Gildea, assistant professor of aeronautical engineering; Everett A. Keyes, instructor in dairy husbandry; Sybil Emerson, instructor in home economics and art education; Randolph

(Continued on page four)

Columbus Day Exhibit On Display In Library

In commemoration of the 450th anniversary of the discovery of America, the College Library is currently displaying an exhibit on Christopher Columbus, according to Marion M. Koch, assistant order librarian and chairman of the exhibits committee.

Featured in the exhibit is Columbus' family tree, now the property of the estate of Madame Boal, direct descendant of the French branch of the Colon family. Colon is the French name for the discoverer of America.

Also included in the exhibit are maps, a collection of portraits of Columbus, and other pictures pertaining to the life of the great discoverer.

All Frosh Out

All freshmen must attend this afternoon's Soccer game between Penn State and Bucknell on New Beaver Field at 2 p. m.

Election Sidelights

Finale

It was 9:30 p. m. in a downtown restaurant; news of election results had just reached assembled politicians. While victors were accepting each others' and opponents' congratulations, a frosh coed walked quietly away from the others. "I promised to send a telegram," she explained quietly. "Joe (Colone) and Bob Davis will be wanting to know what happened."

Repairs Needed

Although admitting certain difficulties were encountered, the general opinion among student politicians yesterday was that the Committee might have done a much better job.

Typical of the complaints along the political grapevine were the complete lack of privacy or any apparent attempt to provide privacy in voting . . . the incomplete poll lists provided party chairmen . . . the vague campaign regulations . . . and the closing of the polls at 6 p. m., when experience and old poll lists show that the largest student turnout is between 6 and 8 o'clock.

Brighter Side

The kind of thing that makes Penn State student government: Bob Mawhinney '43, Campus party chieftain in his younger days, speaking up at the Elections Committee meeting in defense of the Independents' right to maintain headquarters near the polls.

Campaign Capers

Things that add color to any campaign: The grass-green nail polish worn by the secretary of one of the '46 cliques as she assisted the official party chairman in conducting his meeting. Lipstick was a rather conventional shade of red . . . Speaking of freshmen, it's pretty hard to forget the ribboned cutie sitting in the third row during Monday's mass meeting. Elections Boss Don Davis had officially opened the campaign, extolled student government, and urged one and all to get out and vote. As he sat down, the wide-eyed frosh turned to her partner-in-ribbons and remarked: "Gee, that was good. What's he running for?"

Newly Elected Leaders Of Penn State's Freshman Class

Jack Berlin

Betty Shenk

Lorrie Van Deusen

Evie Williams