

Two Fraternities Put On Probation For Violations

Lack Of Evidence Dismisses 3rd Case

Interfraternity Council's mixed drinking problem appeared on campus again yesterday when the Faculty Judiciary Committee of IFC released the list of punishments for violations of the code during Interfraternity Ball weekend.

Of three violations reported to the committee, one case was dismissed for lack of evidence while the other two were placed on eight-week probation from October 2 until November 28, a period which includes Senior Ball.

Minor Cases Dismissed

In addition to these three cases of unchaperoned mixed drinking several cases where houses had chaperones but still violated the code were reported. These cases were considered yesterday by the IFC Board of Control.

The board inflicted no punishments on the violators turned in but will recommend to the council that such cases be tried by the Judiciary Committee on the same basis as unchaperoned violations.

Violation 3rd In 2 Years

In the two-year history of the existing code this is the third time violations have been reported. On the other two occasions violators had social privileges removed, one for a ten-day period, the other for a month.

Several cases were reported where houses had violated the code on both Friday and Saturday nights of IF weekend, but according to Dr. Sheldon C. Tanner, IFC advisor, these double violations will be treated together rather than impose sentence for each violation.

The Board of Control, made up of the dean of men, IFC advisor, president of the Association of Fraternity Advisors, and IFC president, suggested that its recommendation to council will force the problem more to the front to help decrease the number of violations.

Sorority Rushing Reaches 235 For All-Time Record; Lower Division To Give Certificates For 2 Years' Study

Plan Aids Students Forced To Withdraw

Certificates will be awarded to all students who have completed two years in the Lower Division at the end of the current semester, and at the end of each semester thereafter, according to an announcement by President Ralph D. Hetzel yesterday.

The certificates will state that the student has completed the requirements of the Lower Division, but it will not confer an associate degree.

"It will give the student significant recognition for his having profited from the advantages offered in a two-year curriculum in liberal education. The certificate will be particularly helpful to those students who do not continue beyond the first two years," the announcement stated.

"It should be emphasized that the Lower Division is an educational unit in itself, separate from the Upper Division. Satisfactory completion of the work of the Lower Division does not automatically admit the student to the more advanced departments of the College. The committee on admission for each department selects its students from those who have received a certificate and who have met the particular admission requirements for each department," the report continued.

Hetzel Appoints War Study Body

To help fit students for military, industrial, and civil life in war time, President Ralph D. Hetzel has appointed a committee to study changes that must be made in the undergraduate program, William S. Hoffman, College registrar and secretary of College Senate, announced yesterday.

The appointment was made at the monthly meeting of College Senate, and follows the lead set in the August meeting when a body was set up to study changes arising because of the accelerated program.

In order to simplify the work of the committee, President Hetzel has divided the general subject into three parts: (a) training in classrooms and laboratories under supervision of instructors, having to do more with methods and behavior than course content; (b) training in living outside the classroom, including physical fitting; (c) short course preparation supplementary to

At Last—Now Fraternities Can Get The Defense Stamps They're After

"Geez, for two weeks I've been carrying this check around. I wanna buy some stamps with it, but I can't get them."

Representatives delegated to buy defense stamps for their houses in the IFC sale have been saying this for several weeks. Now, after three or four delays, they can get them. They can only get a few dollars worth at a time, but they can still get them.

For three weeks there has been one monkey wrench or other in the works all the time. First there was a lack of interest in all but a few of the houses. Then the salesmen couldn't get the stamps from the post office because all the IFC's exchequer was tied up in the Ball.

Now, although they can get them, only enough stamps to supply a few houses can be ready for each day's sale.

Interest is up, though. Yesterday's sale showed several purchases of more than $25 worth of stamps. The supply only lasted through several of those sales, but the interest was still shown.

The next sale date has not yet been determined, Robert H. P. J. Jordan '43, committee chairman, said last night, but should be set within a few days.

Crossman, Zukauskas, Coy, Ridenour Selected

In its effort to centralize student wartime activities, All-College Cabinet last night named four students to head campus committees in charge of defense stamp sales, salvage, pre-induction, defense courses, and civilian defense activities.

Jerome H. Blakeslee '43, All-College president, stated in making the appointments that the four chairmen will serve as a central committee to work with Robert H. Mawhinney '43, head of the Cabinet group in charge of the student war effort.

Pauline Crossman will lead the stamp group, Herbert J. Zukauskas the salvage committee, Gordon L. Coy will be in charge of pre-induction and defense courses, and Charles H. Ridenour will supervise civilian defense activities. All are seniors.

These committee heads will all appoint groups to aid them. Cabinet did not limit the number the chairmen may appoint but did request that at least half of the members be undergraduates to provide successors after the senior heads graduate.

Woodrow E. Hoch '43, reporting for the committee in charge of Dad's-Alumni Weekend activities October 23, 24 and 25, stated that arrangements have been made to have Cabinet members serve during the weekend as official guides and greeters. He also said that plans are under way to have all interesting campus buildings open for inspection by the guests.

After the third reading, Cabinet adopted as article four, section four of the All-College Constitution the amendment stating "In the absence of both the class president and vice-president the class treasurer will act as president pro-tem, pending the All-College election to provide for the filling of such vacancies. President pro-tem will have no compensation and will not have the power to make any appointments."

Defense-Trained Students Should Report For Duty, Trainer Announces

New students at the College, both transfer and freshman, who hold positions in civilian defense from home towns or other schools and who wish to volunteer their services in campus defense positions are requested to contact Walter W. Trainer, chief air raid warden, in Old Main as soon as possible.

"We can't get too many," said Mr. Trainer, "even though a great many students have already registered with us and have been assigned posts." Students who would like to become affiliated with defense will have an opportunity to do so when the basic training courses begin very shortly, added the chief warden.

Late News

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt last night confirmed the thoughts of millions of American citizens when he made quite clear to the radio listener that:

1. The present draft age would soon be lowered to include men between the ages of 18 and 20.

2. A "second front" is inevitable. "We must divert the forces of Germany and Japan to another sector of the globe," the president said.

"We are fighting this war so that our children and our grandchildren can live their lives free from invasion, persecution, and violent death," the president concluded.
