"Often we have listened to inspiring speakers without realizing that they had come to our campus through the efforts of our Christian Association. Just now, more than ever before, we need these messages and all the other services offered by PSCA. Our part is the financial support. Let's give it!"

Open House Series Are Inexpensive

(Continued from page one) other Open House in May attracted 1800 persons. Since then there have been two sessions during the Summer semester, and one during the present term. All of them have been decided successes with the Open House on September 25 going over the top with an attendance record of more than 3,000 people.

On November 7, Old Main Open House will again raise the curtain on a night of fun and relaxation. The committee, headed by Charles W. Thompson '43, who will replace Gerald B. M. Stein '44, announced that most of the popular features of past 'Houses' will be included along with several new ones.

Some of the outstanding presentations in the past have been the Glee Club under the direction of Frank Gullo, a fashion show managed by Nancy J. Zartman '43, a ping pong tournament staged by George L. Donovan, a display arranged by Miss Alice I. Thompson for the Alumni and Public Information offices.

Also included were a Thespian show with Ted Clauss at the microphone, a dance and concert by Vic Dimeo and his "Solid Seven", and a real hill-billy band directed by Johnny Graf for square dancing on the terrace.

At the first Open House where we had 50 coeds on duty as hostesses to provide guide service, and dancing partners. At the last session, 75 girls volunteered.

All of the money collected at the Open Houses has gone for expenses, except for two donations

Richardsons Give Organ To Association

An organ, contributed to the PSCA by Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Richardson, has been moved to the CA's Ralph Watts Lodge, located in Shingletown Gap.

Mr. Richardson is assistant professor of architectural engineering at the College.

In perfect condition, according to the Christian Association, the organ was used for the first time Sunday morning during worship services held by a town church group that stayed at the cabin over the weekend.

Arrangements for moving the organ from the Richardson home were made by the Religious Emphasis Commission of the Association.

"We of Penn State are fortunate that we have an organization, such as the PSCA on our campus to constantly remind us, even in these times of war, that a world brotherhood is not an idle dream."

to two funds. Fifteen dollars were given to Student War Relief and the same amount was contributed to the campaign to send the news "from the Campus to the Camps" by mailing the Daily Collegian to men in the services.

With the slogan "Gas is rationed, but we have fashioned a new Penn State recreation program for you," Old Main Open House undertook to provide a source of amusement and entertainment on weekends that were bare of other activities.

The success of the enterprise can be judged by the attendance figures. There is no other single attraction like it on the campus, nor is there one that can touch the mark that it has made in providing recreation on a College-wide basis.

Outdoor Chapel In Hort Woods Used By Religious Groups During Summer

Students walking through Hort woods have probably noticed the new outdoor chapel, Penn State Christian Association's latest contribution to the College. Dedicated last July, the outdoor chapel has come to occupy an ever increasing importance in the lives of Penn State students.

Those who have taken advantage of the opportunity it offers for undisturbed thought and meditation will be pleased to know that a new cedar cross will be raised soon.

The idea of having a place where people could be alone with their thoughts has long occupied the minds of Penn Staters and at first the solution to this problem was thought to be a room in Old Main reserved for that purpose. Crowded conditions doomed this plan, and nothing was done until the Winter of 1940, when the advent of the Summer semester made it feasible to build an outdoor chapel.

PSCA lost no time in organizing a committee under the co-chairmanship of Charles Hoge and Norman C. Howells to work in conjunction with the Grounds and Buildings committee, and Prof. John H. Frizell department of speech, for the completion of this project. In July the outdoor chapel was opened to the public.

Blair Harmon was elected president of the Penn State Christian Association's Freshman Council at a meeting of the frosh group, Tuesday evening, October 20.

Assisting Blair in the capacity of vice-president is George Litterer.

Other officers elected at the meeting were Glenn Conklin, secretary and Robert Boger treasurer.

Harmon succeeds Richard Titley who presided over the CA Freshman Council during the Summer semester.

To date the frosh group have had 5 program. Coach Robert A. Higgins, head football mentor, spoke at the September 15 meeting.

On the following week, Rev. Edwerthe Korte was the main speaker.

Dr. C. Ray Carpenter, associate professor of psychology addressed the yearlings on the 29th of September.

"Why Freshman Customs" was the title of an open discussion with Charles H. Ridenour '43, head of student tribunal, at the Tuesday evening meeting, October 13.

Recently, Coach Robert A. Higgins agreed to permit the Penn State Christian Association to sponsor a series of motion picture programs, using pictures taken of the football team by the School of Physical Education and Athletics.

A play-by-play account of the Lehigh-Penn State game which State won 19-3 was given by Coach Higgins as the movies were projected on the screen.

Noted Speakers--

Also invited to attend functions on the campus as speakers are Orway Tead and Paul Poponoe. Tead is one of the best known educators in the United States, is on the faculty of Columbia University, director of several publishing houses, and on the board of higher education for the city of New York.

Dr. Poponoe is the famous marriage counselor and is a familiar figure to Penn State students from his engagements here in the past. He is director of the Institute of Family Relations in California.

"There is a wonderful field of usefulness here for the Penn State Christian Association. Many opportunities exist for service in maintaining Christian contacts, in developing character, in helping students over those difficult periods in their academic life, which occur particularly in the Freshman year. I wish the Association success in its efforts to take full advantage of these opportunities."

CA Sponsors Series Of Football Movies

Motion pictures on Penn State football games played away from New Beaver Field will be shown to students in 121 Sparks the Tuesday evening following the game, as a service of the PSCA.

Coach Robert Higgins will continue to comment, giving play-by-play descriptions as he has done so far. Games that will be shown include the West Virginia tilt, the battle against the University of Pennsylvania and the second meeting with the Pitt Panthers.

The pictures are sponsored jointly by the Penn State Christian Association and the Independent Mens Association with the cooperation of the School of Physical Education and Athletics.

Ralph Harris '45 is the chairman of the committee in charge of the motion picture programs.

"The PSCA is a necessary part of student life. It has shown its need amongst student activities through its fraternalism to all and the excellent programs it supports. It is a duty rather than an effort to support the campaign."

Recognition

Resident groups that secure 100% contributions to the Finance Canvass will be given recognition in The Daily Collegian as the progress of the IC Drive is reported to the paper.

'CA Secretaries Active In College

If brilliant records achieved in vocational preparation mean anything at all, Miss Agnes Highsmith and D. Ned Linegar, associate secretaries of the PSCA, are worthy assistants to the general secretary, Harry W. Seaman, now on leave of absence.

Both Miss Highsmith and Mr. Linegar have been outstanding college students and have had a wealth of experience in leading youth and religious groups, their records indicate.

As an undergraduate at Wesleyan College in Georgia the attractive Miss Highsmith was selected "Miss Wesleyan," but she proved that her ability as a student and a leader of women was even more noteworthy than her good looks.

Miss Highsmith, during her undergraduate career, was president of the freshman Y committee, secretary, vice-president, and president of the YWCA, and was active in dramatics and debating. She was feature editor of the college paper, a member of the alumnae council, captain of the basketball team, and a member of the soccer team. She was voted into Kappa Delta Pi and gradu-

"The Penn State Christian Association is one of the most effective of organized activities, partly because it is the symbol of the religious interest which from the earliest years has characterized the student body, and partly because its several programs use large numbers of students and benefit even larger numbers. It is one of our best examples of student government actually at work."

PSCA Sponsors Annual Christmas Carol Sing

A tradition which is eagerly looked forward to every year by students and faculty members is the Christmas carol sing sponsored jointly by the PSCA, Music Department, and Department of Visual Education.

The carols are sung from the terrace of Old Main a week before Christmas vacation by enthusiastic organized groups under the supervision of Prof. Hummel Fishburn, head of the music department. Many students not actively participating in the singing and numerous townspeople turn out to witness this annual display of good feeling and spirit symbolized by Christmas.

Last year's carol sing was attended by one of the largest groups ever to turn out for such an event.

Included in the program were numbers by the Chapel choir, men's glee club, and a brass quartet. A reading of the Christmas story was presented by Mrs. Harriet Nesbitt, department of speech.

ated from Wesleyan with honors.

Majoring in English, psychology, philosophy and religion, she continued her education at the University of Georgia, Union Theological Seminary, and Yale Divinity School. She has held secretarial YWCA positions in Georgia, Connecticut, and Ohio.

No less impressive is Mr. Linegar's record. As an undergraduate at Miami University, Ohio, the affable PSCA secretary was a varsity debater, vice-president and president of the student YMCA, member of the business staff of a publication, and the manager of the game room and book exchange. He was a member of Les Politiques, Phi Sigma, Alpha Kappa Delta, and Tau Kappa Alpha.

At the University of Cincinnati, where he received his M. A. degree in sociology, Mr. Linegar was a member of the speakers' bureau and sociology club, and worked with the YMCA and religious council.

Continuing his education, he studied student personnel at the University of Chicago, and received his M. S. degree in psychology and group work from George Williams College in Chicago.

Mr. Linegar has had considerable experience in YMCA work, having held secretarial positions in Ohio and Illinois.
