Foresters Buck Tribunal, Question Cabinet's Power

Ball Group Refuses To Remove Markings

The Forestry Society definitely will not remove the whitewash markings they put on campus walks as was demanded by Student Tribunal Wednesday night, according to Fred C. Capuder '43, Forestry Ball chairman. Furthermore, it questions the right of Cabinet to make any rulings whatsoever concerning marks on walks.

Matters began last week when the foresters' whitewashed loops on walks, symbolic of the Hemlock Looper, as a promotion scheme. However, last year All-College Cabinet enacted a rule stating that any group which proposed to mark campus walks should apply for permission from the executive board of Cabinet, a step which the Forestry Ball committee failed to take.

Seeing that the rule had been violated, Cabinet ordered the dance committee to appear before Tribunal to answer for the violation, and passed another law stating that no marks whatsoever will be permitted on walks in the future.

When Tribunal heard the case, it demanded that the Forestry Society remove all the markings and set next Wednesday as the deadline.

Capuder, chairman of the Forestry Ball, stated to the Collegian last night "We shall disregard Tribunal's command to remove the whitewash because we have not violated any legitimate rule. We consider the matter closed and hope others concerned will feel the same way."

"The foresters can't be accused of vandalism," said George W. Ebert, superintendent of Grounds and Buildings. "They had no ill

Independents '44 Name Four Committees For Next Month's Elections

Independents '44 organized for the November 17, 18, and 19 All-College elections last night, naming clique members to four special committees.

Committees chosen by the junior-class Independents are:

Nominating committee: James R. Ziegler, chairman, Thomas E. Wilcox, Elaine J. Cox, George Washington Smith, William H. Bayer, and Theodore R. Hopkins.

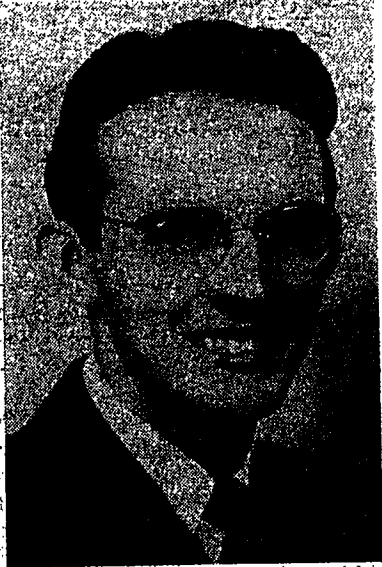

Platform committee: Harry C. Coleman, chairman, William C. Schumaker, Charles D. Alkman, Joseph R. Piontek, and Frank R. McKain.

Publicity committee: Gordon L. Fiske, chairman, John L. Miller, Marlin E. Zimmerman, John C. Burford, and William Dey.

Farmers' Helpers

All students interested in doing volunteer work on nearby farms tomorrow afternoon should meet in back of Old Main at 1:10 according to Robert S. MacNabb '45, chairman of the All-College Cabinet committee arranging the work. MacNabb also stated that participants wear old clothes. The workers will return at 5 p. m.

La Vie Editor

Editor of the 1944 La Vie will be Harry C. Coleman '44. Announcement of Coleman's election was made by Martin H. Duff '43, present editor, at the annual La Vie dinner at the Allencrest last night.

La Vie Seniors Elect New Staff

Harry C. Coleman '44 was elected editor of the 1944 La Vie, senior yearbook, Martin H. Duff '43, present editor, announced at the annual elections banquet at the Allencrest last night.

Juniors elected to the senior board of La Vie include: Wilson Oberdorfer, managing editor; F. Doris Stevenson, photographic editor.

Edward W. Green, sports editor; Francis M. Angle, women's sports editor; Marion C. Dougherty, Nancy L. Hamill, and Sally W. Piolet, assistant photographic editors.

William R. Pomerantz '45, Carl Colombo '45, and Harold Epstein '44, assistant editors; and Helen D. McKee '44, art editor.

The 1943 La Vie is almost completed and most of it has already been sent to the printers in Williamsport. However, Duff stated, seniors should not expect their copies of the yearbook until December, because printing processes involved require several months' time.

Martin Wins Daily Collegian's Straw Vote; 26 Per Cent Ignorant Of Who's Running

By DAVID SAMUELS
Feature Editor

General Edward Martin, Republican candidate, is the choice of Penn State students to become Pennsylvania's next governor at Tuesday's elections.

That is the opinion of 41 per cent of the students interviewed in the latest Daily Collegian straw vote.

Thirty-three per cent stated that they would cast their votes for F. Clair Ross, Democratic candidate. But there was an astonishingly large number—26 per cent—who did not know who was running in the gubernatorial race.

Student consensus was that "there hasn't been enough difference in the issues and personalities as presented by either Martin or Ross to divert much attention from the tremendous events which have monopolized the public mind."

A Liberal Arts professor stated: "Neither candidate has shown evidence of outstanding qualifications for the office of governor. Both are representatives of political ma-

Acceleration Cuts Grid Half-Holiday; Bunnell Plans Pre-Induction Course

Training Will 'Polish Up' Prospective Draftees

See Editorial

Plans for formulating a pre-induction course, refresher classes in ROTC training, for prospective draftees are now under consideration, announced Millard T. Bunnell, supervisor of class centers at Central Extension and coordinator of Student Training for Civilian Defense.

Hoping to have the course organized within the next few weeks, Mr. Bunnell stated that the immediate purpose was to briefly "polish up" men going into the Army in December. He pointed out that such men would probably stand out in the ranks and have better opportunities for promotion.

Although the time is short, Mr. Bunnell believes that the course will run for about five weeks with roughly four hours of training per week. The classes will vary between lectures and drill. Success of this course will determine the scheduling of more extensive training next semester.

Training will include rifle handling, marksmanship, drill fundamentals, speech, map reading, and sketching. More definite plans will probably be announced next week, Mr. Bunnell concluded.

Tonight's Mil Ball Features Blue Barron; 470 Couples Expected

A strictly military atmosphere will provide a timely background for approximately 470 couples who will attend the annual ROTC Mil Ball in Rec Hall tonight and dance to the "Music of Yesterday and Today, Styled Blue Barron's Way."

ROTC representatives from six Eastern universities are expected to attend tonight's affair. High point of the evening will be a special intermission-time ceremony. (Continued on page four)

Campus Patrol Warns Student Motorists

To reduce traffic violations, Campus Patrol officers have been instructed to turn in license numbers and names of continual violators to the ration board, according to Capt. Philip A. Mark.

Captain Mark hopes that the list will be a small one, but said that this would be up to the drivers themselves. All posted signs should be obeyed, and copies of campus traffic regulations are available at the Patrol Office.

81 Sophs Make Advanced ROTC

Eighty-one sophomores have been accepted for the Engineer advanced ROTC course which will start next semester, according to a list released last night by Lt. Col. Guy G. Mills, assistant professor of military science and tactics.

All accepted applicants for the course will have joined the Army Enlisted Reserve before January, 1943.

100 Technical Students Receive Federal Loans

One hundred technical students received their initial payment last night on Federal War Loans which will total almost $10,000 before next June 1.

Students of the Engineering, Mineral Industries, Chemistry and Physics, and Agriculture Schools will benefit from the War Loans which grant students up to $25 every month for subsistence plus payment of fees for each semester.

Students met last night to sign final papers and to receive the first check. Payments will be made to students at 110 Old Main on the first of each month until June 1, 1943 when the appropriations cease.

Mawhinney To Ask Thanksgiving Shift

No football half-holiday will be granted to students this year, according to William S. Hoffman, secretary of the College Senate, because of the accelerated program.

During the past several years, the calendar approved by the Senate has always included, during the first semester, a Saturday football half-holiday. Usually the half day off has come the weekend of a big away game, such as Penn, Temple or Pitt, and this year students hoped to have Saturday morning, November 14, as the football half-holiday.

The calendar does, however, include Thursday, November 26, as a Thanksgiving holiday, but classes are scheduled to be in session again the following day, session again the following days day, November 28.

To prevent numerous class cuts Thanksgiving weekend, Robert L. Mawhinney '43, member of a special All-College Cabinet committee, will appeal for a change to Prof. Jacob Tanger, department of political science, who is chairman of the Senate committee in charge of calendar.

Mawhinney will ask that the Thursday holiday be shifted to Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. He will base his request on the contention that students returning to their homes Friday will not burden transportation facilities as much they will if the holiday remains as scheduled. Besides, he pointed out, fewer classes would be cut if the switch were made.

The Senate's failure to provide a Saturday football half-holiday was also based on transportation difficulties.

LATE NEWS FLASHES!

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEAD-QUARTERS—Allied bombers damaged five Japanese vessels in the North Solomons area yesterday. MacArthur said that his objective was to blast every Japanese out of the seas and territories south of Ireland.

CAIRO—British officials said that Axis air strength in Egypt is ebbing rapidly. There have been no night attacks by the Germans since Friday, while the Allies have increased their raids. American planes were credited with downing 49 German planes in the last three days.

WASHINGTON—It is very unlikely that compulsory labor legislation will be sent through Congress, since the President's statement that he saw no need for enacting such laws. The President said that he hoped the United States Employment Service could handle the hiring of workers on a priority basis.

BOSTON—Henry Kaiser last night said that the first of his cargo planes would roll off the production line within sixteen months. These planes, weighing 140 tons, will be twice the size of any plane now in use.
