

Nittany Lion Gridders 'Up' For Traditional Penn Game Today

Munger Replaces Odell, Welsh In Backfield

(Continued from page one)
 Captain Lou Palazzi, at center, will try to duplicate the sterling play given by another Lion center when the Blue and White last met Penn. All-American Leon Gajceki was the player in 1939 whose single handed defense play was responsible for Penn's scoreless day.

Big Aldo Cenci, from his quarterback position, will lead the Lion backfield of Sparky Brown at tailback, freshman Joe Colone at fullback, and Jack Banbury, the converted fullback at the wing.

Although Penn's line will remain the same as last week's Coach George Munger has shifted his lineup in the backfield so that only Bert Stiff, at fullback, remains of the quartet that bowed to Navy.

Joseph Kane, a junior who was a regular in 1941, will play at the wingback slot. Roy Pletz, a sophomore who specializes in punting, will probably start at tailback in place of veteran Bob Odell. Munger hopes that Pletz's punting will offset the outstanding kicking of the Lions' Colone. Gene Martin will start at quarter.

Unbeaten Soccermen Meet Owls November 28

Two weeks from today, November 28, a second victory-fed Penn State team, the Lion soccermen, will come down from the Nittany hills seeking a win from another of Billy Penn's institutions of higher learning, Temple University.

The Penn State soccer team is currently defending an undefeated season for 1942, and an eleven-year record, blackened with only a single defeat. The Nittany booters had, until their loss to Army last year, waltzed through NINE consecutive, unbeaten schedules.

Starting on a new winning streak the Lions have this year bowled over Gettysburg, Bucknell, Colgate, Syracuse, Army, and Navy and are pointing toward their final game with a powerful Temple eleven.

Today's Line-Up

FRANKLIN FIELD—2 P. M.

(Officials: Referee—J. H. Williams, Bucknell. Umpire—G. R. Holstrom, Muhlenberg. Linesman—L. N. Tripician, Harvard. Field Judge—F. R. Wallace, Washington College.)

PENN STATE		PENN
	LE WALTERS 86	RE NELSON 7
	LT SCHOONOVER 76	RT CALCAGNI 5
LH BROWN 44	LG NOBILE 61	RG GRAIN 24	RH KANE 55
FB COLONE 40	C PALAZZI (C.) 52	C BITLER 10	FB STIFF 33
	QB CENCI 23	LG SHIEKMAN 35	QB MARTIN 48
RH BANBURY 33	RT MOORE 72	LT DONALDSON 47	LH PLETZ 11
	RE DAVIS 81	LE KUCZYNSKI (C) 66

Penn State Substitutes

Ends: Van Lenten (82), Baiert (85), Robb (83), James (88), Leonard (87); Tackles: Kerns (77), Pratt (78), Switzer (71), Shellhamer (38); Suhey (62), Perugini (67), McCloskey (66), Moyer (65); Centers: Wolosky (55), Martella (53); Brooks (54); Backs: St. Clair (10), Joe (12), Durkota (14), Weitzel (36), Skuta (19), Tucceri (24), McFarland (34), Williams (25), Pearson (16), Schroyer (27), Bacher (2), Mazzocco (17), Major (19).

Penn Substitutes

Ends: Guillen (3), Brenner (18), Brodersen (22), Gregonis (29), Swan (36), McGill (38); Tackles: Boylan (15), Gallagher (17), Schmidt (19), Stevens (23), Cooper (27), Morgan (31); Guards: T. Nelson (16), Dewhurst (25), Wright (30), Laws (3); Hartwig (40), DiBattista (42); Centers: McGinty (26), Wissmiller (39), Stanger (37); Backs: Gifford (20), Welsh (9), Bell (53), Miller (51), McCarthy (6), Brundage (21).

BETWEEN THE LIONS

(Continued from Page One)
 State in that department.

Most important of all is the recent debut of Penn State in the role of a powerful offensive team. Against Syracuse last Saturday, State blossomed out with a hard-charging line that repeatedly blasted holes in the visiting Orange all afternoon.

With Jack Banbury shifted from fullback to wingback, making way for triple-threat Joe Colone, Higgins finally found the perfect "backfield" combination. State has no injury worries.

Senior guard Bob Perugini, out with a chipped elbow since the W. Virginia game, is ready to start. Brown and Weitzel are back in top condition. On the other hand, Penn Captain Bert Kuczynski is still off his old form, and has lost considerable weight from sickness. Bert Stiff's injured leg is slow in rounding into shape.

All in all the breaks point to another Penn State "upset." Coach Bob Higgins' squad came to town yesterday well aware of all Penn's weaknesses. It knows Penn is still a tough team. It knows that the Philadelphia sportswriters all expect a Penn victory, and yet it has no doubt about the outcome of today's contest.

More than 3500 Penn State students share that unshaking confidence in the team's ability, and will be on hand for the opening gun this afternoon. Uncanny that Nittany Lion football squad. In three meetings since 1937 it has whipped the Red and Blue twice and tied once under conditions similar to today.

Penn is in for its toughest game of the season.

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

Undefeated Harriers Declared 'Ready' For Annual IC4-A Meet

Clearly the underdog despite an undefeated dual-meet season, Penn State's veteran cross-country team meets the East's best harrier squads in the annual IC4-A meet on the Van Cortlandt Park Course in New York City Monday afternoon.

Seven strong, Coach Chick Werner's proteges leave State College this morning at 7:30 o'clock for Philadelphia where they will witness the Penn State-Penn football battle. Following the contest, they will proceed to New York City.

Carrying the burden for the Lions will be Penn State's "big four," Captain Norm Gordon, Curt Stone, Mac Smith, and Jerry Karver, who have all finished in the first six of all three of Penn State's dual meets. Beach, Williams, and Horne will complete the team.

Favorites for the meet will be defending champions, Rhode Island State. The Rams have their top four of last year's championship team returning to the famous meet Monday.

Top contender for first place among 20 Eastern and Mid-Western colleges will be Yale, who captured the annual Heptagonal cross-country championship over the same course last week by placing five men in the first ten finishers.

Not to be overlooked in the race for team honors is New York University, winner of the Intra-City Collegiate meet two weeks ago. The Violets placed three men in the initial four positions and went on to capture ninth and tenth places.

Frank Dixon, NYU freshman star runner, will be the favorite for the individual title vacated by another NYU man, Leslie MacMitchell. Nixon has captured first place in all of the Violets' five dual meets and the one tourney. His best time was a 26:17 over the five-mile Van Cortlandt Park Course Wednesday.

Another top contender for the individual crown will be Yale's Leroy Schwarzkopf, who was timed over the same course at 26:41.2—just one and one-tenth second over MacMitchell's winning time in last year's event.

Get Your Date Now . . .

for

Jr. Prom—Sr. Ball

featuring

Charlie Spivak

"The Stardusters" + Garry Stevens

November 20

$4.00 Tax Included

Dancing 9-1