Animal Husbandry Judging Contest Set For Saturday

Individual Medals To Be Awarded to Each Winner

All students are eligible to compete in the annual animal husbandry judging contest scheduled to be held at the Stock Judging Pavilion, 1 p. m., Saturday.

The results of the competition will be used in selecting a College judging team for the coming year, according to Prof. William L. Henning, coach.

Entries into the contest will be divided into two sections, the experienced and the amateurs. Students who have already taken animal husbandry, 3 or 4 will be placed in the experienced division, while those who have had animal husbandry or no such course will be placed in the amateur division.

Judging will be conducted by faculty members of the School of Agriculture. Franklin L. Bentley, professor of animal husbandry, will judge cattle; Mark A. McCarty, associate professor of animal husbandry, swine; Peter C. MacKenzie, assistant professor of animal husbandry, sheep; and Henning, horses.

Four sets of reasons will accompany each selection. Seven classes, two in every division but horses, will be placed, and individual medals will be awarded to winners in both the amateur and experienced divisions.

Glenn R. Kean '43, chairman of the program, said that the contest is open to all students regardless of their curricula, and two-year students in the School of Agriculture are especially interested.

PSCA Sponsors Forum To Discuss Student Outlook on World War II

"What is the war outlook for Penn State students?" will be the topic of a student-faculty forum sponsored by the PSCA in 121 Sparks, 7:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Robert S. MacNabb '44, chairman of the forum, was one of two students representing Middle-Eastern colleges and universities invited to a dinner conference at the White House yesterday for a discussion of the manpower problem as it affects college students.

MacNabb conferred with the President, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox, President Gideonse of Brooklyn College, and President Zook of the American Council on Education. The other student in the conference was Jay Crane, Columbia University.

Interfraternity Council Will Meet Tonight

The first meeting of the Penn State Interfraternity Council since the election of President Henry Keller '44, and the last for the current semester, will be held at the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity tonight at 7 p. m.

Naming of several new and revised committees, the selection of a new IFC advisor to succeed Sheldon C. Tanner, professor of business law, and plans for the coming semester will probably be included in the order of business.

Tickets for Complete Artists' Course Program To Be Sold Tomorrow

Advance sale of tickets for the Artists' course will be held Thursday to obviate inconveniences that usually characterize the final sale. Tickets will be sold at the A. A. ticket windows in Old Main from 8 a. m. to noon and from 1:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

This sale will take place in advance of the announcement of specific numbers to appear on the forthcoming course, because to make such an announcement would defeat the purpose of the advance sale, according to Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, committee chairman.

Program for the coming semester will be comprised of three outstanding numbers, which would appear Wednesday, February 5; Monday, February 22; and Monday, March 22.

Tickets will sell for $5, $4.40, and $3.40, plus a 10 per cent tax. Usual ticket sale for those who prefer to wait until the numbers of the series have been announced will probably be held the latter part of January.

SFRC Learns Truth Of College Rumors

Representatives from the new and old committees of the Student-Faculty Relations Committee, met last night in an effort to clarify recent rumors concerning the College status next semester; also discussed were plans for an activity survey of campus organizations, and to further the actions of a committee to assist the President in the accelerated program.

Mr. Adrian C. Morse, assistant to the President and guest speaker at the meeting, announced that despite rumors, the College would continue to function in January. Although it is possible that the Army may send groups here to study, Mr. Morse emphasized that at present there are no plans for government supervision and occupation.

A committee under the supervision of Dr. Carpenter, assistant professor of psychology, will plan a poll to be given to the students in regard to their opinions of the accelerated program.

The committee announced the cooperation of the Daily Collegian in issuing an extensive survey of the time and place of campus meetings to appear in the paper starting next semester.

Thespian Mobile Unit To Repeat Show By Popular Request

For the twenty-sixth time, a Thespian Mobile Unit will take to the road tonight, travel to an army camp, and present a show before the boys in khaki.

Returning to Indiantown Gap by popular request, the Thespians will first entertain patients in the hospital and later perform before the whole camp.

Traveling with the Mobile Unit for the last time in his College career will be Ted Clauss, a veteran of eight Thespian productions, 21 Mobile Unit shows, and producer of the latest Thespian show, "Kurfew Kapers." Clauss, whose first attempt at college musical comedy was "Danger, Men Working," graduates next Thursday.

Besides Clauss, the number one stooze, will be Bud Mellot and Jack Hunter, who together are the Three Stooges, funny merrimakers. Dancing routines will be performed by Mim Zartman, Betty Lyman, Doris Disney, and Pris Schaut while JoEllen Loop will entertain with a baton specialty.

Vocalists to accompany the unit are Jane Abramson, Tawny Hill, and Jane McChesney. Another comic specialty will be given by

Radio Debate Outlines Due by Noon Saturday

Students who have entered the national Intercollegiate Radio Debate contest must submit outlines of their topic by noon Saturday to Prof. John H. Frizzell, head of the speech department.

Topic of the debate contest is, "Should American youth support the re-establishment after the war of competitive enterprise as our dominant economic system?"

First prize in the contest is a $1,000 war bond and $250 cash. Second prize will be a $500 bond and $125 cash.

Qualifying prizes for sectional winners will give $50 to eight first place sectional winners, while $25 will be awarded to each of the eight second place contestants.

Cartography Course

The Geography Division has announced that advanced R. O. T. C. students may take Geography 100, Cartography, in spite of the apparent conflict at 4 o'clock on Mondays. An arrangement will be made for making up this hour of Cartography work at some other time.

'China To Gain, Japan To Lose By War'—Miller

"When Japan took Singapore in the eyes of three-fourths of the world's population, the white race lost its prestige. And this prestige, before the year 2000, will pass on to China, who has been awakened by this war."

These are the words of Dr. Herbert A. Miller, second lecturer in the current Liberal Arts lecture series, as he spoke before a large group of students, faculty, and townspeople last night.

Asia, according to Dr. Miller, is composed of three major groups of people, and Japan, the minor group.

"China, the only country in the world that does not claim an inferiority complex, will make ethical contributions to the world. The Chinese people magnify scholarship and despise war." Dr. Miller said.

The spiritual contributions of India are a result of the Indian's devotion to religion, while Russia, the third group of the Asiatic continent, with its vast resources gives practical contributions to the world, according to the lecturer.

Although Japan has a highly inferiority complex, its highly-organized government is attempting to change its status in world standing. This is evident by the fact that when Germany allied itself with Japan, the Nazis made them "honorary Aryans," Dr. Miller stated.

Trustees Okay Loan Fund For Graduates' Class Gift

Class Approves Plan Early In November

A loan fund for members of the Class of 1943 returning to College from war service has been officially approved as the senior class gift, announced last night. At the end of ten years, the accumulated fund will be used for a permanent class memorial.

The plan, given the official okay of the President's Office and the Board of Trustees Friday, was approved by senior class vote during the first week in November, McAleer stated.

Seniors, voting by mimeographed postal card, gave the plan a better than two-to-one margin over the combined totals of the two other proposals of a special class fund committee and additional suggestions "written on" on extra spaces provided on the ballot.

More than $5,000 is expected to be made available through the memorial fund, which consists of the balance in the class treasury and the unexpended funds in the Class of 1943 Damage Deposit Account.

The "memorial fund of the class of 1943" provides that the total of $1,000 plus accumulated interest will be made available each year for a ten-year period to "members of the class of 1943 who—due to military, industrial, or civilian service—were forced to leave school before graduation and wish to return to finish college." In the event that the annual quota is not used by members of the class of 1943, any regularly enrolled sophomore, junior, or senior in need of financial assistance may take advantage of the remainder of the allotment.

Funds borrowed through the memorial fund may be repaid

LATE NEWS

GUADALCANAL—The seventh Jap attempt to land forces in the Buna-Gona area was repulsed by Allied aircraft with the possible loss to the invader of two destroyers, it was announced from General MacArthur's headquarters last night. Direct hits were scored on two destroyers of the seven attacking.

MOSCOW—Reports from Moscow last night revealed that the Reds are steadily advancing along the entire front. Ninety miles from the Latvian border, 700 Nazis were reported killed, while seven German counter-attacks were repulsed and 44 German planes downed in the Stalingrad sector.

TUNISIA—An Allied counter-attack and German withdrawal slightly changed the deadlocked situation of the battle of Tunis, the War Department announced last night. Allied bombers staged several hit-and-run attacks upon Axis objectives.

FAWS Asks Men To Fill Out Papers

It's nearly all over, except for the shouting as far as the Reserve program for College students is concerned.

There's plenty of "shouting" being done however by men students who are trying to get in and can't; men who started their applications before December 5 and don't know exactly what to do; and by the Faculty Advisor on War Service who is trying to locate and help these men complete their enlistments before the December 15 deadline.

Navy Reserves Closed

From the Office of Naval Officer Procurement in Philadelphia came a directive yesterday, stating that further recruiting of Reserve Corps candidates for V-1, V-5 and V-7 are to be halted except in the case of those who began their initial application before Monday, December 7.

Since no more Naval Recruiting parties will be sent to the College, all men who are considered as having made bona fide applications, should go to the Navy Department's Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 17th floor, Widener Building, Philadelphia, to complete their enlistments.

Need Letter from FAWS

They should take with them a letter from Galbraith stating that they began their enlistments before he seventh.

Men who plan to see Galbraith for advice should try to come up during free morning hours if possible.

Students who passed physical exams when Lieut. Curtis of the Navy was here recently, and for any reason did not complete their enlistments, can do so before December 15, by going to the Philadelphia offices.

Open for 17-Year-Olds

Galbraith said that Reserves are still open to the few men who haven't attained their eighteenth birthdays, but these men will have to go to the nearest recruiting office to effect their enlistments.

Men who have qualified for the Navy and who should visit the Philadelphia center as soon as they can before December 15 are:

Robert Beecher, Carl Bergey, Fred DeLauter, Lawrence Dempsey, Lawrence Doyle, John Gans, Harold Hocker, Theodore Holt, Ralph Horst, Jack Huffman, Robert Jones, Robert Lowrie, Robert

Classes Will Present Three One-Act Plays

Classes in production, direction, stagecraft, and make-up will present two bills of three one-act plays in the Little Theater at 7:30 this evening and Friday, according to Frank S. Neusbaum, professor of dramatics.

"April First," an original one-act play written by Kathryn M. Popp '43, will be presented Friday evening.

Admission for both evenings is free, Mr. Neusbaum stated.
