

Women's Services List Requirements For Enlistment

WAACS Report 150,000; SPARS Latest Group

More than 150,000 women have enlisted in the WAACS (Women's Army Auxiliary Corps) and requests are increasing among college women for commissions with the WAVES (Women Appointed for Voluntary Emergency Service). The latest development of women's services has been the SPARS (Semper Paratus—Always Ready—the motto of the Coast Guard).

Women are eligible at the age of 20 or 21 for service, according to a report of the Committee on College Women Students and the War. At a conference held recently this committee and the heads of the various services met to discuss requirements for enlistment. It was anticipated that a Women's Reserve of the Marine Corps will be established in the near future.

Certain extra-curricula courses in emergency techniques referred to at the conference are available for coeds under the new cadet training. Motor mechanics, cooking, stewardesses or mess sergeants, secretaries, and bakers were definitely mentioned as aids toward advancement in the three services.

Almost without exception potential WAAC officers are selected from the ranks of enlisted personnel and are sent to Officers' Candidate School. Salaries are equivalent to corresponding Army grade and rank. WAACS have no stipulated educational requirements and are under obligation to serve as auxiliaries if they are not selected to be trained as officers. A new order provides that college seniors who pass the requirements may be enlisted and put on inactive status (reserve) until they have completed college.

The WAVES, unlike the WAACS, may return to civilian life if they fail to receive commissions. Members of the Reserve are actually in the Navy with status and salary identical to men. Enlisted women must have graduated from high school; a candidate for officer's training must hold a baccalaureate degree from a recognized college or two years of college plus equivalent experience. Mathematics and science are emphasized as well as special knowledge of fields such as radio and aerology.

In administrative details the SPARS follow the same general pattern as the Navy. The most significant exception is that the SPARS do not require two years of high school mathematics.

Home Ec Cafeteria, Maple Room Opened For Spring Semester

The cafeteria and Maple Room in the Home Economics building was opened for this semester, Miss Marion L. Carr, instructor of home economics, announced yesterday.

Lunch hour is from 11:45 a. m. to 12:30, and both the cafeteria and Maple Room will be used. The Maple Room is used only for dinner which is served between 5:30 and 6:30 p. m. As in the past, cafeteria service is used at lunch.

Noon cafeteria will continue to feature the 20-cent plate luncheon, Miss Carr stated. Miss Viola I. Johnson, assistant in institute administration, is the instructor in charge of students at noon, and Mrs. Kye Trout Jr., instructor of home economics, is in charge of home economics majors' dinner.

The cafeteria is open to the public.

PSCA Joint Freshman Forum Council will entertain new freshmen and transfer foresters in 304 Old Main at 6:45 tonight.

Camp '40 To Advise Journalism Honorary; Group Plans Reception

Miss Helen L. Camp, managing editor of the Centre Daily Times, has accepted the position of alumnae advisor for Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary, according to Mary Janet Winter '44, president.

A graduate from the College in 1940, Miss Camp was Daily Collegian women's editor. She also served as secretary of Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary, and was active in WRA, WSGA Senate, May Day Committee, and the Liberal Arts Student Council. Appointed a senior sponsor, she was a member of the Portfolio staff and of Theta Sigma Phi.

Upon graduation, Miss Camp became publicity director of the Philadelphia Inter-State Dairy Council. She remained with the council for two years and later became a Pittsburgh Press news writer.

Theta Sigma Phi will hold a tea for freshman and sophomore women journalism majors, although no date has been set as yet. The society will take in new members in the near future following the initiation of present pledges, it was decided.

Pre-Meteorology Candidates

It will be necessary for these men to send a duplicate set of application papers and records to "Weather," Chicago, Illinois, at once.

Men interested in serving in the meteorology division of the Air Corps, but who haven't had enough college mathematics to qualify for the "A" or "B" program are still eligible to enlist in the Basic Pre-Meteorology course.

They must have completed two years of high school mathematics and one year of science in a secondary school.

Although no definite word has been issued from the President's office concerning the possibility of organizing Non-Combat pilot training through the Civil Aeronautics Authority, Galbraith asked all men who failed to meet the Army Air Corps physical requirements to contact him at once.

Since these men would be trained at the CAA's expense as instructors, ferry command pilots and for other non-combat pilot posts, the physical requirements are not as strict.

Kappas, Ath West Win Badminton Tilts; Bowling Club Holds Novel Tournament

Chi Omega, Irvin Lose First Intramurals

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Atherton Hall West were the victors yesterday against Chi Omega and Irvin Hall, respectively, in the first two badminton games of the WRA intramural tournament.

Elizabeth J. Meyers '45, playing for Kappa Kappa Gamma, defeated Marjorie A. Hazlett '44, Chi Omega, by winning two out of three singles games, 11-8, 11-7, 0-11. Kappa's other player, Marjorie J. Brinkman '46, lost to Jean K. unk, 45, Chi O., in another singles match, by a score of 11-3, 11-5.

The doubles match between Kappa Kappa Gamma and Chi Omega was won by Chi Omega. The final scoring for the matches gave two out of a possible three points to Chi Omega.

Margaret D. Northup '45, chalked up one point for Ath West by winning her singles match against Vera N. Gorden '46, playing for Irvin Hall.

The other singles match between the two dorms went to Irvin Hall, when Louise Gwillim defeated Virginia Martin. In the final scoring for this match, the Atherton team took the lead by winning the doubles game.

Atherton and Grange Elect Officers for Semester

Atherton Hall and Grange Dormitory last night elected new officers for this semester. Grange president is Ann Sheffield, and Atherton unit heads are Mary Hamman, southeast; Vivian Martin, northwest; Anna Nicholson, northeast; and Elizabeth Scherholtz, southwest.

Other Grange officers include Mary Lou Casanave, vice-president; Virginia Ladd, secretary-treasurer; Elizabeth Pike, social chairman; and Barbara Keyser, intramural chairman.

In Atherton, Lois Gardner was chosen vice-president of the northwest unit, and assisting her are Margaret Good, secretary-treasurer; Janet Tower, social chairman; and Beatrice Russ, air-raid warden and fire chief.

In the southwest Atherton group Patricia Dohrenwend was elected vice-president; Helen Vandergrift, secretary-treasurer; Dorothy Young, social chairman; and Katherine Long, air-raid warden and fire chief. Mary Weldy will act as intramural chairman for both Atherton northwest and southwest.

Coeds elected in southeast Atherton are Jean Miller, vice-president; Betty Strippel, secretary; Martha Elston, treasurer; Jane Cron, social chairman; and LaRue Cassey, air-raid warden and fire chief.

Northeast Atherton officers are Pat Aloe, vice-president; Betty McGee, secretary; Eleanor Ream, treasurer; Mary McCurdy, social chairman; and Ruth Atkinson, air-raid warden and fire chief. Intamural chairman for northeast and southeast units is Florence Rothman.

Candidates for dormitory offices were nominated at house meetings Thursday evening. Only requirement was an All-College average of 1.5 for hall presidents and 1.2 for all other posts.

Iota Sigma Pi Meets

Iota Sigma Pi, national women's chemistry honorary, will meet in the Maple Room, Home Economics, at 5:30 p. m. Thursday, January 21. Dinner will be served. Dr. Dorothy Quiggle from the College petroleum laboratory will lecture and show slides.

Bowling Teams Formed For Intramurals

Bowling Club members and any other interested coeds may take part in the WRA Bowling Club Army Tournament at the White Hall alleys, 6:30 this evening.

The tournament, which is being sponsored by freshman members of the club and is under the direction of Martha J. Haverstick '43, club president, is the first novel meet of the semester. Each bowler will be allowed eight balls and Army stripes, denoting various ranks, will be awarded on the basis of scoring. Freshmen in charge of the meet are Cynthia J. Geffen, Evelyn Gins, Mary E. Gundel Eunice M. Hurlburt, and Rebecca J. Walker.

Practice for bowling intramurals and intercollegiate telegraphic meets will begin this week. Coeds should sign up for intramurals, which start next week. Intercollegiate meets with Wellesley, Wisconsin, Swarthmore and other women's teams are scheduled for the end of January and are open to all coeds.

Badminton Club Holds White Hall Playnight

WRA Badminton Club will sponsor the White Hall playnight Saturday, it was decided at the WRA club presidents' meeting yesterday.

The group also appointed Joan Baker '45 to take over the presidency of the Bridge Club until Spring elections. Mrs. Joseph E. O'Brien has consented to take the position, formerly held by Mrs. Edward J. Nicols, of teaching the Bridge Club.

Plans were made for WRA to initiate a Defense Fair, which would be a regular gathering of coeds interested in sewing and knitting for Red Cross and servicemen's organizations.
