Dr. Jerome Davis, Educator-Author, To Speak for PSCA

First Series Lecturer Talks on Post-War Plans

Dr. Jerome Davis, noted author and educator, will be the first speaker to appear on campus for the PSCA's Public Affairs Institute early in February.

Dr. Davis is the author of fourteen volumes on international, economic, social, and religious questions. He has also written articles for Atlantic Monthly, The Century, The Christian Century, Forbes, Forum, Harpers, The Nation, New Republic, The Survey, etc.

The CA's first speaker has taught at Boston University, Dartmouth College, Harvard, and the University of Wisconsin. For thirteen years he held the Gilbert L. Stark Chair of Practical Philanthropy at Yale University. At present he is on the staff of the New School for Social Research in New York. He has been President of the Eastern Sociological Society and was for three years President of the American Federation of Teachers.

Dr. Davis is a descendent of John Glover, the general in command when Washington crossed the Delaware. His father, Jerome Dean Davis, was a Lt. Colonel in the Civil War and a missionary-statesman, who founded the first Christian university in Japan.

Besides travelling over the Orient in his youth he was with Grenfell on the Labrador in 1915. In 1916 he was sent to Russia to take charge of the prisoner of war work in Turkestan. This was under the Tsar's regime. On orders from Secretary-of-War Baker, he was destined to remain to see the Revolution at first hand, and was placed in charge of all the YMCA War Work in Russia.

In 1925 he toured the world, lecturing. In 1938 he flew around South America making investigations in Brazil. He has been to Europe eleven times—twice as correspondent for American Newspaper syndicates.

Under present plans, Dr. Davis will be on campus Friday, February 5 for a Student-Faculty Discussion in 10 Sparks at 4 p. m., on the subject, "After the War—What?" At 7 p. m. he will speak in Schwab Auditorium.

PSCA Speaker

Dr. Jerome Davis, noted author and educator, will be the first speaker at the Public Affairs Institute program scheduled for February 5.

Grey Names New Forensic Council

The names of those on the 1943 edition of the Forensic Council were released last night by Jack R. Grey, All-College president.

Seniors include Benjamin M. Bailey, Carroll P. Blackwood, Dorothy K. Brunner, and Paul J. Winebrenner. The three Juniors on the Council are C. Grace Goodlin, Robert S. MacNabb, and William R. Pomerantz, while the two Sophomores listed are M. Elizabeth Zimmerman and Martin A. Kutler.

The election of officers, held at the same time, resulted in the naming of Brunner, president; Blackwood, vice-president; and Goodlin, secretary.

The Forensic Council is named each year to supervise the allotment of the debate fee charged all undergraduate students. The funds are apportioned out to maintain campus forums, to promote men's and women's varsity debate teams, and to make possible the convention of Pennsylvania college debaters who gather yearly at Penn State.

Last semester the Forensic Council put on a radio forum over Station WMRF in Lewistown and among its promotions this semester will be an intercollegiate forum with representatives from Navy.

Weather Directorate Speaks to Students About Meteorology

Men students interested in the meteorology service of the Army Air Corps have the opportunity to hear the consultant for the Weather Directorate speak in 121 Sparks, 7 p. m. today on the subject, "Basic Pre-Meteorology."

The government is offering special training in the field of meteorology under a program that is divided into three parts.

Basic Pre-Meteorology for men between 18 and 21, inclusive, who have had two years of high school mathematics, one year of high school science, and are high school graduates.

Premeteorology or "B" part requirements are stricter. The age limit is broader and includes men from 18 to 30, inclusive, who have taken one year of college mathematics, including college algebra, trigonometry and analytic geometry.

Advanced Meteorology or "A" requirements call for the completion of courses in differential and integral calculus, one year of college physics, and the successful termination of two years in college.

For complete details and necessary papers, students should contact Faculty Advisor on War Service Robert E. Galbraith in 243 Sparks.

Hostesses to Entertain 'Dateless' Males at Next Old Main Open House

Penn State's first Old Main Open House of the Spring semester will not be without an ample supply of girls, stated John C. Burford '44, chairman of the All-College OMOH committee.

A large supply of hostesses have been secured by the committee to entertain the men who come stag to the social dance in the Armory and the square dancing in the first floor lounge of Old Main. Hostesses will also be on hand in the second floor lounge where informal games will be played.

Burford also stated that he has succeeded in obtaining permission to open the tower of Old Main for visitors, Friday night. The tower has been closed to the public for several months and this will be the first time for the new freshmen to see State College from the tower.

Serving on the permanent OMOH committee, and representing various campus groups which will plan all Open Houses in the future are: IWA, Norma R. Stern '44; IMA, Robert R. Dickey '44; PSCA, Paul Alamar '45; Daily Collegian, Ben I. French '46; Cwens, R. Christine Yohe '45; Student Union, William M. Briner '44; Skull and Bones, J. Robert Hicks '44; WSGA, Ruth M. Storer '44; Mortar Board, Kathleen M. Osgood '45; Penn State Club, Edmund R. Koval '46; Phillotes, Jane E. Booth '43; Co-ops, Mary T. Pickering '45; WRA, Joan K. Miller '45; IFC, Henry Keller '44; and Pan Hellenic Council, Margaret B. Cupp '45.

Metallurgy Society Meets

The American Society for Metals will hold its annual inter-class party Thursday, January 21, at 7:30 p. m.

Speeches will be made by members of the metallurgy department and films of the Penn-Penn State game will be shown. Refreshments and a door prize are other features of the meeting, to which all metallurgy students are invited.

Sale Of Art Course Tickets To Students Begins Today

Heads Committee

Faculty, Townspeople To Obtain Numbers

According to a pre-arranged schedule, students who have received their priority numbers for the current Artists' Course series must return to the A. A. ticket windows in Old Main today to select seats and complete the sale.

Faculty, townspeople and others are to receive their priority numbers today.

The current Artists' Course will probably be the last for the duration, according to Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, committee chairman.

Increasing difficulties with transportation, which may cut down or eliminate entirely the possibility of filling engagements on the road, together with the uncertainties that face the college community in the future, are several reasons why the course may be eliminated until the war ends.

The effect of the $25,000 ceiling on earnings is also another factor, the significance of which is not entirely clear in its application to the local situation, Dr. Marquardt stated.

"Our local patrons are not always conscious of the difficulties we have had in persuading some of the outstanding artists in recent years to accept an engagement on the Artists' Course even at the figures quoted by their management," said the committee chairman.

"Since most of the top-notch performers we have had are well up in the income tax brackets, they have been inclined to limit themselves to a restricted number of performances per season. We were particularly fortunate in other seasons to obtain such artists as Kreisler, Heifetz, and Marian Anderson. This season we have particular cause for congratulating ourselves on having obtained Rachmaninoff, whose reluctance to travel is well known.

"It has been particularly difficult in other years to obtain satisfactory transportation for large groups in and out of State College, because of our inaccessibility

Briner Calls for Raffle Donations

Official plans for the Penn State Victory Raffle were released last night by William M. Briner '44, chairman of the All-College Cabinet committee that is sponsoring the affair.

Scheduled for between the half of the Penn State-Colgate basketball game, the second part of a sports doubleheader this Saturday night, the raffle is designed to sell War Savings Stamps to sports fans.

Main prize for the drawing will be the basketball used in the Saturday night game and the second award will be a Daily Collegian subscription for a man in the armed services.

Chances will be given with each purchase of a 25 cent stamp and it will be possible to get three chances if you purchase five 10-cent stamps or two 25-cent stamps, Briner explained.

Tickets will be sold at the door by members of Cwens and Mortar

'Victory Tunes' Result Of Requests By Servicemen

Fred Waring's "Victory Tunes" program, which will be dedicated to Penn State, his alma mater, this Friday, was originated last November in response to requests from service men in army camps and universities all over the country.

Each night at 7 p. m. since the initiation of the special presentation for the army lads, request tunes have been played for numerous camps and colleges in the United States.

Waring's innovations and techniques with the singing voice, quite popular with "Pleasure Time" radio fans, have been widely copied by glee clubs and other musical groups throughout the Country. Waring himself has helped in teaching army musical groups the art of glee club singing.

While attending Penn State,

Fred Waring organized a banjo orchestra which later became the nucleus of his present day large musical organization.

For the students of Penn State, the maestro will play three tunes, selected by the students themselves in the recent poll conducted under the supervision of the Daily Collegian.

Complete tabulations of the poll revealed the favorite tunes to be "When the Lights Go on Again," "Abraham," and "You'd Be So Nice to Come Home To."

Student voters were asked to give additional choices, but only a minority did so. Favorite jingles in the "extra-choice" class include "There Are Such Things" and "Moonlight Becomes You."

The "Pennsylvanians" will be heard over the NBC network at 7 p. m. Friday.

Late News Flashes . . .

CAIRO—General Montgomery's Imperial Eighth army is now only thirty miles from Axis-held Tripoli, according to the British High Command here. The Axis armies were reportedly putting up very little resistance. B-24 Liberators of the Ninth U. S. Army Air Force dropped heavy bombs in Tripoli. A total of five U. S. planes were lost in the day's activities.

CALCUTTA—British and Indian troops are advancing slowly in their New Burma campaign. Japanese planes raided Calcutta last night but were driven off before any damage could be done.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA—Allied Infantry and armored forces clashed south of Medjes El Bab yesterday, according to an Allied communique. The enemy was reported gaining some ground near Pont Du Fahs.

WASHINGTON—The Navy Department announced last night that an enemy destroyer, three cargo ships, and a patrol vessel were sunk by American submarines, in addition to damaging other vessels.

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt last night ordered all striking anthracite coal miners to go back to work within 48 hours or the government would take the necessary steps to protect the nation against a serious shortage of fuel.

MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS—A communique issued here last night stated that all eastern New Guinea is now in Allied hands and that the remaining Jap force of 15,000 is being annihilated at will. This will bring to a close the first full scale offensive attempted by MacArthur.

MOSCOW—The Soviet mid-night communique stated that five important rail-towns have been taken by the Russians in the Southern campaign. The Russian army is now only 85 miles from their objective of Rostov. The Axis toll for the last six days was announced as 15,000 killed.

CHILE—The Chilean senate last night approved the measure calling for complete war with the Axis. The Declaration of War is expected to come later this week.
