Dancer Aleh-Leaf Uses Face and Hands In Presenting Dances

By ROBERT T. KIMMEL

Dancing most effectively with her face and hands, Naomi Aleh-Leaf presented a group of modern dances in the Little Theatre last night to a capacity crowd. Keeping her body motions to a minimum, Miss Aleh-Leaf created with her hands and the expression of her face the mood for each of her seven dances.

Done after the modern school of dancing, the performance was a brilliant spot of color and rhythm in comparison to the usual week-night presentations on campus. Miss Aleh-Leaf was credited on the program with the costumes and choreography. Her robes were bright and many-colored, suggesting the theme of the program, dances of Palestine and the Near East.

The dancer used the jewelry she wore to contribute to the rhythmic beat of her interpretation, especially the bracelets she wore on her arms, and the anklets of bells, leaving her hands free. Miss Aleh-Leaf, with her wonderful sense of rhythm, kept the beat of the tambourine and bells on the off-beat throughout.

Miming one number, and singing in several, she concluded her program with "A Flower Vendor," which drew most applause from the audience. Miss Aleh-Leaf was presented by Hillel Foundation.

Penn State Aristocrats Will Play At "Lincoln's Birthday Ball"

The Penn State Aristocrats will play one of the two dance orchestras featured at "Lincoln's Birthday Ball," the Daily Collegian's annual dance to be held in Recreation Hall Friday night, February 12.

Back in October '41, the Penn State Aristocrats had their beginning when Les Stine, trombone man and arranger, saw the possibility of offering Penn State dancers something new in bands.

The band played for the Thespian fall review, "What's Comin' Off," and followed it up with four All-College dances and many private ones.

The Aristocrats were in the pit for the spring Thespian show, "Hide 'n' Peek," and on the stage for the Victory Weekend Review. Last summer the band was booked into Kishacoquillas Park at Lewis-town with a half hour broadcast over NBC's local station, WMRF, every Saturday night.

The band from that time on was really a combination of two bands, the popular Walt James orchestra and the Aristocrats. The merging of the two libraries gave the band such fine Jimmy Leyden arrangements as "Deep River," "Pretty Eyes," "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," "The Loneliest Man in Town," and other campus favorites. Tip Lyford, formerly lead alto for Walt James, joined the band and is still with it.

The band intends to give the dancers plenty of musical variety this year. Almost the whole library consists of special arrangements with tunes done by Jimmy Leyden, Don Smith, Les Stine, and Vic Dimeo along with others by boys in the band. Such novelty numbers as "Joltin' Joe," "Amen," "Mr. Five by Five," and "Take It and Git" have been very popular with the audiences.

Entire proceeds from the dance will be used to send the Daily Collegian to Penn State men in the service, according to Phillip P. Mitchell '44, business manager.

Mitchell stressed the value of buying the dance tickets early so that the service men may receive their subscriptions as early as possible.

Tickets for the dance are on sale at Student Union, the Collegian office in Carnegie Hall, and from solicitors. Price to Collegian subscribers is 55 cents, while general admission will be $1.10.

Hicks Warns Fresh Customs Violators

"Any freshman student caught wearing his name card inside his coat will be treated as a customs violator and subject to the jurisdiction of Tribunal," J. Robert Hicks '44 stated at last night's Tribunal meeting.

Hicks, chairman of Student Tribunal, also warned late registrants to wear customs, and advised upperclassmen to turn in names of violators at the Student Union desk.

Three violators were brought before board members in the first official Tribunal meeting of the spring semester. Those tried were Henry Potkanowicz, Larry Prestone, and Don Barnes.

All three were found guilty of not wearing customs and as a result will be quizzed on Dean Warnock's history of Penn State, as well as on College songs, at next week's Tribunal meeting.

Prestone, the most serious offender of the group, neglected to wear his dink and name card.

Tribunal members present in addition to Hicks were Charles F. Hall '45, Dudley D. Gallup '45, Robert E. Dierkin '43, and Frank R. McKain '44.

Selsam, McGeary, Hussey Elected to IFC Judiciary Committee

Members of the Faculty Judiciary Committee of the Inter-Fraternity Council elected last night are J. Paul Selsam, M. Nelson McGeary, and Robert A. Hussey.

The new faculty adviser, Burke M. Hermann, briefly discussed the "Seriousness of Time to Come" to begin the program for the evening and was followed by Dean Arthur R. Warnock, who suggested that fraternities hold but one dance per year if music is to be furnished by a band.

President Henry Keller '44 announced nominations to fill the vacancy of secretary-treasurer: Larry Faries '44, Theodore Maier '44, Alton H. Letzer '44, and Robert F. Savard Jr. '44. Keller also stated that anyone wishing to make additional nominations should contact him.

Letzer announced that the Fraternity Stamp Drive would get underway next, and that all fraternities should record their quotas with him not later than this week.

Next week's meeting of the IFC Treasury Association will be held in the Phi-Kappa Sigma house, at 7 p. m. Wednesday.

Women Organize Sister Group To Male Thespians

For many years, coeds at the College who have taken part in Thespian shows have desired to form a sister organization to the Penn State Thespian Club. Last night a group of enthusiastic coeds met to compose plans for such an organization.

The new group will be known as "Masquerettes," taken from the word "masquer" meaning actor. Purpose of the Thespian Masquerettes is to foster cooperation and coordination between the Thespian Club and its subordinate organization, to lighten the duties of the Thespian Club, and to provide an incentive for more complete participation of those women engaged in Thespian productions.

Until last fall, this plan had always met with opposition. At that time the College Thespian Club gave its official okay to the idea, and Doris M. Disney '42 and Midge Johnson '42 started work on a constitution. They were graduated, however, and further work on the idea was postponed until this semester.

Helen L. Schmelz '43 was elected president; Elaine H. Weller '45, vice-president; and Miriam L. Zartman '45, secretary-treasurer, at last night's meeting.

Members must have taken part in three shows or have served either of property or advertising committees to be eligible for election into the Masquerettes. So far, there are 15 members.

Mrs. J. Ewing Kennedy, wife of "Sock" Kennedy who sponsors the Thespian Club, will sponsor the Masquerettes.

Riding Club Granted Use of Stock Pavilion

Penn State Riding Club has been granted use of the stock judging pavilion four nights a week, according to Robert E. Kaval '45. Members of the club may use the new year-round ring free of charge, and no hours will be punched off the tickets.

Wednesday evening lectures will be given to beginners. Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday actual instruction is offered.

Dentistry Scholarships

Scholarships in dentistry are available at Temple University for capable and deserving young men, through the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, President Johnson of Temple University informed the College yesterday.

"March Of Dimes" Continues

"The sixty coeds who are collectors in the 'March of Dimes' campaign have never failed to appear for duty," according to Mildred B. Rubin '46, chairman of the campaign.

Very few social fraternities have acknowledged their letters containing information of the drive, however, Miss Rubin stated.

Students and townspeople are urged to contribute before 11 p.m. Saturday, at which time the booth will be closed for the year.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, organized January 3, 1938, under the laws of the State of New York, is a non-profit membership corporation.

Of the organization, President Roosevelt stated, "My own personal experience in the work being done at the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation has proven to me that the fight to eradicate this disease must be nation-wide."

Every research department in the country must be adequately financed to carry on investigations into the cause of infantile paralysis, according to the president.

More than 2,000 community chapters are conducting local drives, thus providing orthopedic equipment, training, and financial assistance for payment of hospital expenses for patients in need of that care.

Immediate care for the individual victim of poliomyelitis is provided for by the chapter. When stricken, he is urged to appeal to the county organization for help.

Another duty of the local chapter is to provide carefully chosen data for public health and educational measures in this field.

The National branch, in order to support research, has made eighteen grants and an appropriation to universities and hospitals.

Universities in Minnesota, Iowa, Massachusetts, Chicago, California, Wisconsin, Maryland, and Toronto are concentrating on various phases, contraction, infection and recovery.

The money collected in counties is divided between local hospitals and research projects. Only seven per cent of the total amount raised has been needed for collection costs.

The drive for State College support is in conjunction with the national campaign which began January 1 and will terminate the 31.

College Library Accepts Council Membership

Accepting an invitation extended by the Philadelphia Metropolitan Library Council, the College Library recently attained membership in the group.

This Council is responsible for furthering the development of efficient library policies in Philadelphia.

The College Library became the first library outside of the Philadelphia district to contribute to the union catalog when it donated cards for its holdings.
