

Feilbacher Again Adds Years; Players Enact Steinbeck's War Novel

 "Grapes of Wrath" and "Of Mice and Men," too.
 This completely different quality, is apparent when the reader begins to consider that the plot is universal in this appeal. Every country at war can project itself into the place of the village which was occupied. The problems discussed are not directed to one particular locality, nor to one race of people in a given country; they are problems that are and have been confronting the world today.
 This intrinsic quality made "The Moon Is Down" one of the most popular war novels of World War I, and a "best seller" for many months.

Gibbs Schools Offer Secretarial Fellowships

A representative of the Katherine Gibbs schools will be on campus Thursday, Feb. 18, to speak to coeds interested in applying for one of the two fellowships given annually to college or university seniors.
 Scholarships in secretarial training are granted on the basis of academic record, personal qualifications, and fitness to profit from such training.
 Established in 1935 in the name of Katherine M. Gibbs, founder and first president of the schools that bear her name, fellowships provide the recipient with full tuition. Winners are selected from nation-wide competition.

Library Announces New Books

A selected list of new books on the war is now available at the Circulation Department of the College Library. The titles, briefly annotated, have been grouped under such headings as "Fighters and Weapons," "The Civilian," "Our Democracy," etc. The Library will be glad to send copies of this list to faculty members and organizations.

Gamma Phi Beta Initiates

Gamma Phi Beta will initiate 12 members tonight. Initiates include Margaret K. Claridge, M. Jean Tritschler, A. Jean Butz, Dorothy E. Monroe, Jean M. Grimm, Betty A. Condon, Barbara J. Kilbury, Mary C. Bowman, Shirley H. Burdick, Harriet B. Miller, Marjorie A. Rude, and Louise V. Ebert.

We, The Women

It's An Organization Campus; Do You Want To Be Organized?

It's an established fact that Penn State is an organization campus. It's also obvious that there's a place on campus for every group that is worth being organized.
 But independent women haven't come to realize that they can get something out of IWA which was formed for their benefit.
 IWA was begun less than a year ago. And since that time a very small group of women has worked hard to make a place for themselves. And other groups have cooperated with them. IWA has a representative on both All-College cabinet and WSGA. IMA has collaborated with IWA on several affairs.

when elections are called All of which seems to add up to the fact that independent women on this campus have no desire to prove that they can go places and do things, as women in other colleges have.
 Is it because we women have no faith in our ability to do things, despite the fact that we constitute such a majority on campus? Or is it because we are so lazy that we want to just sit back and wait for a few leaders to get things going smoothly before we're convinced?
 The few leaders have been at work—planning, discussing, and making contacts. But their plans can't do us any good unless we're willing to give them a backing.
 There is a place for independent women on campus. This is proved by the fact that the few who have ventured out to find it have been more than satisfied. But few can't succeed in a project for many. We do need IWA, but what's more important and what must come first, is that IWA does need us.

WRA Previews Coming Events

Co-recreational activities are coming into the limelight again in WRA events. The great success that co-rec: hikes, swimming parties, and White Hall open houses enjoyed last summer proved that they were really important on campus.
 At the WRA board meeting Thursday evening, plans were made for a co-rec hike to the WSGA cabin on February 21. The hike will include supper at the cabin.
 Coeds have finally caught onto the idea that exercise is good for them, and can be fun. An average of 150 women have turned out in the dorms for the nightly physical fitness period. Chalk one up for their side, and let's hope that women at the down town dorms will respond as well when the plan goes into effect for them Monday.

Next week will see the final matches in WRA badminton tournaments. With the exception of several that were defaulted, this week's games have been hard-fought. In Thursday's matches the results were:
Tournament A:
 Jordan—Eunie Hurlburt, Becky Walker—defeated Kappa Delta—Skip Scrivanich, Charlotte Spangler.
Tournament B:
 Alpha Chio Omega—Estelle Brown, Doris Payton—defeated Grange—Carolyn Smith, Rosemary Keyser.
 Mac Hall—Nancy Ferris, Janet Shaffer—defeated Kappa Kappa Gamma—Kay Metzger, Pat Dohrenwend.
 Intramural bowling matches are going strong also, in preparation for inter-collegiate telegraphic meets which come off next month. Thursday's bowling scores were:

Alpha Omicron Pi. 527, against Zeta Tau Alpha's 454; Jordan, 477, over Alpha Chi Omega's 430.
 Results of Wednesday's WRA badminton matches were:
Tournament A:
 Jordan—Eunie Hurlburt, Becky Walker—defeated Alpha Omicron Pi—Peggy Lou Chapman, Joan Miller.
 Atherton West—Peggy Northrup, Caroline Crooks—defeated Kappa Delta—Skip Scrivanich, Charlotte Spangler.
Tournament B:
 Kappa Alpha Theta—Marge Lyon, Vivian Martin—defeated Jordan—Mary Gundel, Gloria McKinley.
 Mac-Women's—Janet Shaffer, Nancy Ferris—defeated Kappa Alpha Theta—Ginny Manley, Vivian Martin.

Coeds don't go to IWA Council meetings, which are open to them. Coeds don't go to IWA dances—they prefer to sit in their rooms and wish there were "something to do." Coeds don't even bother to vote for their IWA representatives.
