

WOMEN IN SPORTS

By LEE LEARNER

By inviting Curtiss-Wright Cadettes to the White Hall playnight this evening, WRA has started what will probably be one of the biggest entertainment campaigns to hit campus in a long time.

As coeds know, but Cadettes don't, Women's Recreation Association activities clubs hold playnights at White Hall, women's gym, every Saturday night from 7 to 10 o'clock. All gym facilities, including bowling alleys, rifle range, and swimming pool, are open to those who attend, and refreshments are served.

Acting as hostesses to the Cadettes tonight will be WRA executive board members, and bowling club members, who are sponsoring this week's playnight.

In the past, coeds have not turned out in overwhelming numbers for these White Hall openhouses, but perhaps they will make a better showing now that they know they will have their first chance to meet women from other colleges, who are now on this campus taking the Curtiss-Wright course.

Basketball interclass matches are scheduled to begin this coming week. But unless more coeds turn out for their two required practice hours, basketball may meet the fate of swimming intramurals, which were cancelled because only one women's group had the ambition to round up a team and put in enough time on practice.

In order to give a last chance to coeds who had intended to go out for the basketball tournament, the White Hall gym will be open this evening to anyone who wants to get in some belated practice time.

Co-recreation activities, which made such a hit last summer, are back on the WRA list again. A coed hike has been planned for February 21. Coeds and men students will hike out to the WRA cabin in the afternoon, where supper will be served to them.

Here's a chance to do something to liven up State College's notoriously dull Sunday afternoons. All those interested may sign up at Student Union, White Hall, or Rec Hall.

Bowling intramurals have been getting under way slowly for the past two weeks, because not many teams can use the alleys at one time.

In Thursday's games, Gamma Phi Beta defeated Kappa Kappa Gamma, 519-454, Ath East bowed to Chi Omega 433-560, Jordan was the winner against Alpha Omicron Pi by the close score of 526-522, and Alpha Chi Omega came out way above Irvin Hall with 576-376.

Delta Gamma will hold a dinner-dance for their new initiates at the Nittany Lion Inn at 6 o'clock tonight.

We, The Women 125 Imports Want Our 'Hello' Spirit

One hundred and twenty-five imports are arriving in State College this weekend.

They're coming from all over the country and they're going to stay. But the sad part of it all is that there will be no one special to meet them at the station and they won't be sure how to get where they're going.

The point is that Curtiss-wright Corporation's "Cadettes" are arriving this weekend for their six-month's course and this place will look kinda complicated and new to them.

WSGA Senate has planned to have a few representatives on hand at the bus stop on College avenue and at the Greyhound Posthouse during the day, but two or three persons won't be able to act as porters and information-givers for more than 100 women.

And since WSGA is a government for, by, and of the coed enrollment of the College, every "campus-broken" woman could call it her duty to say the welcome words at the depot.

We don't mean that they have to take the newcomers on campus tours or point out spots of interest.

We don't mean that students should make up speeches and greet the arrivals with long, WCTU faces.

"Welcome to our fair campus. We represent the Women's Student Government Association. There will be positively no drinking, no smoking. You cannot unpack trunks above the first floor and you shall make your beds before noon. Our Judicial body will judge your every move."

Neither do we mean that coeds should necessarily go right to the bus stops. A word of greeting or direction anywhere on campus will serve a good purpose.

Watch for a suitcase and a bewildered expression and play hostess."

Alpha Tau Omega Elects

Alpha Tau Omega elected William W. Thompson, president; John B. White, vice-president; Richard J. Casler, secretary; and Joseph P. Shaw, treasurer at a recent meeting.

The new officers were installed immediately after the election.
