College Receives First Instructions For Army Program

Beukema Releases Letter To College Officials

Colonel Herman Beukema, director of the Army Specialized Training Program, has released a letter to heads of all institutions of higher education, male and co-educational, pertaining to the program and the manner in which it should be handled by the various colleges and universities. The letter was received yesterday by President Hetzel.

Outstanding parts of the letter state how college officials can render valuable assistance to the program. Included among these objectives are that each college student should bring with him an official transcript of his college record when reporting for duty, and that the college should be able to supply information pertaining to the individual himself, such as aptitudes and character qualities.

The following is the letter received from Colonel Beukema: "TO: Heads of All Institutions of Higher Education, Male and Co-educational:

"Manpower is more than numbers of men. It is the sum total of their abilities and energies. A wise manpower policy in time of war contemplates developing the skills of men in the light of Army needs and harnessing their enthusiasms to their Army duties. This is especially important in a mechanical war such as this in which we are now engaged.

"The Army proposes to ascer-

Tribunal Issues Driving Rules

Students who are allowed to keep their cars on campus after the mid-term vacation will be notified of such permission within the next few days by an official Tribunal postcard, according to an announcement last night by J. Robert Hicks, chairman of the Tribunal board.

All other students will be required to remove their cars from the campus by March 10, last day of the mid-term vacation, Hicks explained.

Any student who feels he has not received enough consideration of his application can report at 410 Old Main, 7 p.m. Monday evening. He will be given an opportunity at that time to explain any further reasons he thinks should entitle him to continue keeping his car in State College after March 10.

The applications handed in by the car owners last week were reviewed by OPA officials and the advisability of the ban was reaffirmed by them, Hicks stated.

Several students have had their ration books lifted in State College and vicinity in recent weeks and are subject to federal court action, the Tribunal head added. It is for this reason only that Tribunal and the All-College Cabinet are making this new rule prohibiting students from keeping automobiles in State College.

It is still not too late to file an application with Tribunal, for those who feel that it is necessary for them to keep their car at the College. Applications should be addressed in care of J. Robert Hicks and may be left at Student Union desk in Old Main today and tomorrow.

Cagers Trim Temple Five In Rough Game, 46-33; Soph Hop, Varsity Sports Highlight Week-End

Brown to Play at Hop; Houses Will Give Dances

With the first note from the saxophone of Les Brown at Soph Hop this evening, Penn State's first big weekend of the semester will get under way.

Following the Hop at Rec Hall on the weekend's list of entertainment comes the varsity swimming meet with a strong Rutgers squad at the Glennland pool, 2 p.m. tomorrow.

In the evening, the Blue and White grapplers close their dual meet schedule against a powerful Lehigh team which last week ended Penn's 22-match unbeaten string.

Several fraternities are giving dances for campus-stuck students who, for the first time in Soph Hop history, find themselves without means of dining and dancing off College limits.

Sigma Nu offers an open informal dance with music by the York "Rhythmaires," while Phi Sigma Delta has hired the "Campus Owls" for their informal affair. Phi Kappa Psi and Alpha Gamma Rho will get together to present the "Aristocrats" at the former's house. Beta Sigma Rho will dress up to listen to the notes of George Earnshaw's "Nittany Lions."

Sonny Royce will entertain out at Phi Epsilon Pi, while Alpha Phi Delta, Delta Chi, Delta Theta Sigma, and Tau Phi Delta will gather around the record machine.

Featured with Les Brown's orchestra at the Hop will be rhythm songstress Roberta Lee, baritone Hal Derwin, comedy-novelty singer "Butch" Stone, as well as the "Town Criers." The band that set attendance records at such well-known spots as the Los Angeles Palladium and New York's Paramount Theatre will play from 9 to 1 p.m.

Tickets for the dance are now on sale at Student Union for $3.85. Defense stamps, to replace corsages, are also available. All fraternity booths are sold out and the booth plan is being drawn up, Wallace J. Kappe, Hop chairman, announced yesterday.

Red Cross Drive Delayed Until Vacation Ends; Individual Quotas Set

Launching of the $5000 Red Cross war drive has been postponed from the intended inauguration next week, until spring vacation is over, Robert M. Faloan, chairman of the campaign, said last night.

Since enrollment has dropped considerably this semester, the quota to each student will be at least one dollar if Penn State can hope to meet its total, the campaign added.

Each campus group has been placed under various representatives, who will contact all individuals during the month of March, but students will be able to leave their contributions at Student Union if they are out of the drive's territory.

Faloan urged all students who expect to help the drive this year to make their donations through the Penn State drive, since it will be the present college men who will benefit from the funds when they are called to active duty in May.

Will Sing at Soph Hop

The "Town Criers" (above), youngest vocal quartet to sing with a "name" band, will accompany Les Brown and the orchestra at Soph Hop tonight. Gordon, Lucyan, Elva, and Vernon are all brothers and sisters with an average age of only 19. Getting a start in radio and pictures on the West Coast, the "Town Criers" are now rated one of the best popular harmony groups in the country.

Les Brown (left), who leads his "Band of Renown" in their first appearance on Penn State's campus, came into his own the hard way. After leading the Duke "Blue Devils" in college, Les came to New York and did everything from writing music to sweeping publishers' offices before organizing his present band. The orchestra, with Les on the saxophone, was voted one of the country's ten best in a recent poll.

Naval V-7 Program Reopens For Junior-Senior Engineers

Applications are now being accepted for the Navy V-7 program from juniors and seniors in physics, chemical, industrial, mechanical, metallurgical and architectural engineering, according to a telephone call received last night by Faculty Advisor on War Service, Prof. Robert E. Galbraith from Lt. H. C. Batdorf of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement of the Fourth Naval District.

Lieutenant Batdorf asked that interested students who are not already in a reserve corps report their names to FAWS immediately. Interviews will be held at the Procurement Office in the Widener Building, Philadelphia, between March 3 and 10.

Successful candidates will be given a letter to their draft boards, through which they will proceed with voluntary induction and be returned to school until the Navy calls its enlistees in June or July to be put into uniform and continued in college after indoctrination.

Applicants are expected to bring with them to the Philadelphia office, the official letter of good standing from the College, forms for which are obtainable at 243, Sparks. A transcript should also be submitted, accompanied by a birth certificate and three letters of recommendation on letter-heads.

All who plan to take advantage of the new plan should report their names to Professor Galbraith before tomorrow noon so that he can notify Lieutenant Batdorf of the number for which to look during the interviewing week.

Though this branch will be open until that time that the Naval Au-

Consumers' Conference To Begin March 15

PSCA is launching another institute program called "Consumers' Problems in Wartime," scheduled for March 15 through March 19, bringing to campus noted people in this field, announced Richard K. Tittley, co-chairman.

Dr. Benjamin R. Andrews, professor of Household Economics, Columbia University; Dr. John H. Cornhisen Jr., College and University Specialist of OPA Consumers' Branch; Lorna Barber, Regional Representative from Philadelphia; Dr. Duane Ramsey, formerly professor of Sociology at Penn State, now associated with the National Housing Authority; and Mrs. Conway Zirkle, chairman of Advisory Committee on Consumers Interests, are the featured speakers.

Main purpose of the conference is to give all men and women a better knowledge of the problems of economic living so that they may adapt themselves accordingly when faced with this problem in the future.

Committee members for the conference are: Richard K. Tittley and Louise A. Ritter, co-chairmen; Julia L. Moore, Ruth M. Miller, I. Dan Bolef, William A. Dymnsza, Elizabeth F. Yeagley, Lowell Preisson, and Ruth L. Bonde, assistant professor of Home Economics.

Choir to Rehearse

Members of the Russian Choir will begin rehearsals in room 200 Carnegie Hall, 7 p.m. March 11, according to an announcement by Rev. C. Auroff.

Egli, McLaughlin Share Scoring Honors, 12 Each

Running its home game winning streak to 22 games and improving its record toward an NCAA invitation, the Lion basketball team defeated the Temple Owls by a score of 46-33 in Rec Hall last night.

The win leaves the Lions with near-best, if not best, record for the season in NCAA District 2, and should place them in position for the district bid if they can keep going the way they have during the last few games.

Taking the lead at the first, the Lions gave little ground during the whole battle, rougher than any on the Rec Hall floor this season, so that the score stood at 23-16 at the end of the first half. An attempt to get back in the game came in a Temple burst shortly after the start of the second period. It was stemmed before it was well started by the hard fighting Lions.

LATE NEWS FLASHES!

TUNISIA — Rommel's troops have been driven completely back through the Cascerine Pass in one of the fiercest battles North Africa has yet seen. Air skill of American and English planes played a large part in this accomplishment. Although losses were not as heavy as were expected, much equipment was lost.

MOSCOW—Russians are driving the Germans back southwest of Moscow. Twenty units of American tanks, plus several British tank units are active in the battle. Winter is letting up, and the Germans are beginning to become stronger, especially with aircraft, in the Caucasuses.

WASHINGTON—The Chinese foreign minister claims that less than 1,000 American planes will drive the Japanese out of China. Madame Chang Kai Shek asks immediate aid for the accomplishment of that goal.

MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS — American planes are bombing docks, ships, and buildings daily in Ribald of the New Britain Islands. Last night, an 8,000 ton Japanese cargo vessel was bombed and sunk. Four other ships were also damaged.
