Penn State Host To 18 Colleges At Debate Confab

Dr. Bruman Speaks Tonight at Banquet

At 6 o'clock last night, approximately 100 students registered for Pennsylvania's Eighth Annual Debaters' Convention in the first floor lounge of Old Main, Robert S. MacNabb, manager, announced last night.

Delegates, who represented 18 different schools, will remain on campus until Saturday.

Hoover and Gibson's "Problems of Lasting Peace" constitutes the purpose of the convention. Divided into committees, the group will conduct a program much the same as Congress does in putting through a bill.

President of the convention is Frank E. Zabcar of this college, MacNabb announced. Other officers are vice-president: Jean McKinney, of the University of Pittsburgh; and secretary, George C. Deffenbaugh, of this College.

The convention starts officially at 10 o'clock this morning with three committees going into session to discuss the "Immediate Post-War Settlement" and "Post-War World Organization."

Professor John H. Frizzell, head of the department of speech, will act as toastmaster at the banquet to be held at the Hotel State College at 6 o'clock tonight. Guest speaker at the banquet will be Dr. Henry J. Bruman of the division of geography.

Reports of the three committees will be debated tomorrow morning by the entire convention at a plenary session, which will be open to the public. Results of the committee discussion on "Immediate Post-War Settlement" will be reviewed and acted upon by the whole group.

The convention adjourns at 12:30 tomorrow afternoon after the election of convention officers.

Dr. Schettler to Speak At College Co-op, Hillel

Dr. Clarence Schettler and Ned Linegar will be guests at an informal dinner at the Nittany Co-op tonight at 5:30. Dr. Schettler will speak on "Cooperatives and the War" at the dinner. Following the dinner, he will speak at the Hillel Foundation on "How Price Control and Rationing Affect the Cooperatives" in an informal discussion sponsored by the College Cooperative Society.

Chapel Speaker Cancels Scheduled Visit Sunday

Because of illness in his family, Dr. Howard McClusky, scheduled to speak at Chapel services Sunday, has canceled his appearance. Speaker will be Dr. Fred B. Iglar, secretary of the Christian Association at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Iglar studied at the University of Chicago, the University of Pennsylvania, and the Union Theological Seminary, and began his work at the University of Pennsylvania in 1917.

Blue Key Holds Formal

Blue Key, junior honorary society, will hold a formal dance at the Nittany Lion Inn from 9 to 12 tonight, John T. Watkins, president, announced. The dance will be preceded by a dinner for all Blue Key actives and their guests.

Cissel Releases Plans For First Dry Dock at Nittany Lion

Originally scheduled to be held in the Sandwich Shop, the long-awaited Dry Dock will be presented in the ballroom of the Nittany Lion Inn on Saturday evening, March 27, according to an announcement issued last night by William H. Cissel, chairman.

Cissel was appointed recently by All-College cabinet to head a committee to formulate plans reviewing the popular dry night club, held last year in the Sandwich Shop on open weekends.

It was originally planned to use the Sandwich Shop for the site of the entertainment, but Cissel was informed early this week that because of the emergency now in effect on campus forcing the College to use the Sandwich Shop as an auxiliary dining commons for freshmen women and Curtiss-Wright Cadettes, it would be unavailable for Dry Dock purposes. The management of the Nittany Lion Inn has donated the services of its ballroom for the first Dry Dock. Tables will not be used this year, however most of the program will remain the same as last year.

Dancing to the music of the Statemen Five, campus orchestra, and an hour-long floor-show will comprise the evening's program.

All proceeds of the first Dry Dock will be given to the Red Cross campaign, now being conducted on campus.

Plans for further programs of this type are very uncertain at the present time, Cissel added, because of lack of information concerning the social calendar after the Army specialists and Air Cadets arrive on campus.

Tickets will go on sale early next week at the Student Union desk in Old Main. An admission of 7 cents a couple will include checking facilities.

Notice Fraternity Men

All men who have had to move from their fraternity houses are urged to report to Student Union today. There they will fill out forms, stating their new addresses and phone numbers.

It is to the interest of the students that they may be easily contacted in case of emergency and for general information, according to Arthur R. Warnock, dean of men.

Blackout Gone For Duration; Army Officials Take Charge

There won't be another Blackout for the duration . . . at least not at Penn State. But this has nothing to do with air raid precautions. Blackout, former mascot of Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, is the dog owned by Mel Wainer. And Blackout is leaving to serve in the armed forces.

Instead of enlisting in the WAACs or WAVES, Blackout has joined the Wags, the canine division of the armed forces.

Blackout is the first dog at Penn State to join the army. She isn't very old; one year and four months of age, but she has had a broad and varied cultural background. She's seen quite a bit of the county, having traveled from Maine to Texas, and has spent some time right here in State College. Having been an active spectator at ROTC drillings, she might make good officer material.

Hetzel Urges Aid Of Student Body In War Fund Drive

As Penn State's All-College Red Cross Drive ended its first week of campaigning last night, President Ralph D. Hetzel made a plea to the student body to put the $5,000 goal over the top in the next few days.

Hetzel said he was sure Penn State men and women know the important job being done all over the world by the Red Cross, "and will do their part to make it possible for these helping hands to be at the right places, with the right things, at the time when our men need them most."

Meanwhile, the Beaver House registered as the first men's housing unit to reach the 100 per cent contribution mark, but was closely followed by Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Phi Alpha fraternities. Surtiss-Wright Cadettes turned in the top amount for any group, with the exception of WSGA, which collected $300 for the drive in one night.

Robert M. Faloon, student director of the campus war fund drive, urged fraternity men who have been evacuated this week to contact their house president with a

Dram Students Present Three One-Acts Tonight

Three one-act plays will be presented by dramatics students in the Little Theatre, Old Main, at 8:30 tonight, in conjunction with Old Main Open House. Admission is free, but a collection will be taken for the Red Cross Drive.

The first play is a comedy directed by Robert R. Liebacher. Actors include William H. Bayer, Anne R. Hazard, Mitzy Mishkin, Janet Ward and Yvette Bermak. The second sketch, of a more serious nature, is directed by Martin J. Skipik. Billie Weinberg, Patricia McClure, Anne Sampson, Hannah Frankel, Gordon L. Fiske and Cadmus L. Goss will act.

The last play, an original farce written by Mildred Greenberger '42 for Professor Frank Neubaum's playwriting class, is directed by Grace O. Clayton. Cast includes Gloria Whyel as Carol Harvey, Larry Chervenak as Stanley Harvey, Betty Henning will be seen in the role of Edna, the maid, and Jack Sproat is played by Jack Calhoun.

Directs Open House

Dorothy K. Brunner, together with Robert R. Dickey, is co-chairman of Old Main Open House tonight. With Red Cross as the theme, tonight's entertainment will feature a variety show, dancing, movies, and other events.

Galbraith Calls For More Marines

Professor Robert E. Galbraith, FAWS head, last night announced the names of Marine Corps reservists who must report to his office at once to answer a series of questions regarding transportation facilities available near their home towns.

Statements must also be made by the men giving their tentative address for the latter part of June if they do not intend to return for the summer semester.

Students listed by Galbraith include Seymour I. Horowitz, Howard W. Irons, William E. Means, Stanley J. Silverman, John A. Grimes, Cyril J. Ivory, Ewing E. Lynn, Earl A. Ryland, Cyril Stein, Carl P. Swope, Graham T. Wilson, Stewart H. Burns, Frank W. Doyle, Otto P. Frey, and Carl F. Gerhardt.

Dancing Class Admits Coeds Free of Charge

Coeds will be admitted free of charge to the All-College dancing classes and are urged to attend by Harry L. Bland, chairman.

The price to males for the remaining eight lessons, held every Friday, 7-8, and Saturday, 3-4, is two dollars. Preliminary instructions for those who missed the first two lessons will still be given, although advanced work has already begun on the rumba, shag, turkey trot, waltz, fox trot, jitterbugging and all the other types of modern dancing.

Bigger, Better Froth To Hit Newsstands Soon

Froth, Penn State's foremost humor magazine, will appear on the newsstands of the nation on March 24, according to G. B. M. M. Stein, business manager.

This issue, the March Spring issue, is the largest ever published by the foolish gentlemen. It will contain an extra large section of the best jokes available, along with feature stories on Art Davis, Old Penn State, Jimmie Luncford, the Thespians and their brother artists, the mighty Penn State Players.

OMOH Features 'Stooges,' Movie, Dancing, Plays

Admissions, Donations, Will Go to Red Cross

Whatever may be their tastes in entertainment, Penn State students will find their favorites in tonight's Old Main Open House.

Second in the new series of All-College Open Houses, tonight's event is being held in conjunction with the Red Cross Drive now being pushed on campus. Booths to receive students' contributions will be placed throughout the building.

Dorothy K. Brunner and Robert R. Dickey, co-chairmen of the All-College Open House committee, have announced one of the most complete programs of its type ever held.

To start the evening's proceedings, Robert M. Faloon, chairman of the Red Cross drive, has arranged a variety show to be held in Schwab auditorium at 7 p.m. Featured will be such top campus performers as the Thespian Three Stooges, Bud Mellot, Jane Abramson, and the Varsity Quartet. Several other numbers are being arranged.

Following the stage show a feature-length Hollywood production of a few years ago, "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," starring Jack Benny, will be shown on a large professional-type screen secured from the Department of Visual Education. Several short subjects depicting the work of the Red Cross on the battlefields of the world and at home will also be shown. The feature will be shown again at 10 p.m. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged for both the stage show and movies.

Social dancing will be in style at the Armory from 8 p.m. until midnight with recorded music. Hostesses will be on hand to greet stags. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged. Coeds will be admitted free.

Three one-act plays will be given by the Dramatics department in the Little Theatre beginning at 8:30 p.m. No admission will be charged but a collection will be taken for the Red Cross drive.

In the first floor lounge of Old Main, devotees of square dancing will dance to the music of recordings. A. P. Clark, famous barn-
