Hetzel Creates Body For Student Events, Welfare

Special Groups To Be Part of Campus Affairs

To co-ordinate activities of established campus agencies in the fields of recreation, health and entertainment, President Ralph D. Hetzel created a Council on Recreation and Welfare, according to Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive secretary.

Consisting of one representative from each department, including special groups sent to campus from industry and military service, and four members of All-College Cabinet, the council will survey the needs of the student body and other groups. In the fields of physical and social recreation, health, entertainment, organized activities, and moral and spiritual welfare, the group considers adjustments to be made in conforming to new programs.

The council, with Dean A. R. Warnock, dean of men as chairman, will function for the duration, or until it is discharged by administrative action.

Other organizations existing on campus in the field of recreation and welfare will not be curtailed of their authority or responsibilities, but will work hand in hand.

War Correspondent Talks At Liberal Arts Dinner

Edward Angly, Far Eastern war correspondent for the Chicago Sun, will speak at the annual dinner for members of the Liberal Arts faculty and staff at the State College Hotel at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Charles W. Stoddart, dean of the Liberal Arts School, will act as toastmaster at the affair. He will introduce the guest speaker. Although tickets for the banquet are being sold at the door, instead of the journalism office as was previously announced, reservations are being made at that office and should be in before noon today.

Angly has been on news fronts in his capacities as manager of the London Bureau of the New York Herald-Tribune, chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Moscow, and mid-east and Far Eastern correspondent for the Sun.

The newspaperman was at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked and at Dunkirk. Other missions have taken him to Russia, Great Britain, Greece, Iraq, Syria, New Guinea, Australia, and Africa.

Other entertainment at the dinner will include the singing of Louise Neff, accompanied by Reta J. Jenkins; dances by Madeline L. Mahuran and H. Elizabeth Furst, with Mrs. Hermance Reese accompanying. Chairmen of the dinner are Dr. Stuart A. Mahuran, assistant professor of journalism, and Mrs. Ormelle Stecker, assistant professor of mathematics.

Veteran Player Cast Presents Melodrama 'Love Rides The Rails'

"Love Rides the Rails or Will the Mail Train Run Tonight?," second Players' production this semester, to be given in Schwab Auditorium April 16 and 17, is comparable to "Streets of New York," presented in 1940.

The hero of the play, Bob Herrman has also appeared in "Streets of New York," "Taming of the Shrew," "Mr. and Mrs. North," "The Beautiful People" and numerous other productions and was last seen in "The Moon is Down."

Phyllis Rands, the heroine, will play her initial lead role on the Players' stage.

Bill Emmons, who was first seen as a priest in "The Beautiful People," next, a pastor in "Ghosts" plays a turnabout role as villain in the melodrama.

Janet Dayton, a veteran cast member, displays versatility as Carlotta, the villainess.

Milton Dolinger, who was shy Mr. Prim in "The Beautiful People" and more recently seen as the Nazi lieutenant who cracked-up in "The Moon is Down" plays (Continued On Page Four)

Ag Debate Stage Set For Monday

Twenty-eight contestants will vie for honors in the Agriculture Debate Stage, sponsored by the School of Agriculture in cooperation with the Department of Speech, in 100 Hort, 7 p. m. Monday.

Four of the contestants will be chosen to enter the final debate scheduled for April 2. Prizes of $50, $25, $15 and $10 will be awarded to the four finalists, depending on how they finish in the concluding debate.

Each debater during the Monday eliminations will have ten minutes to speak on either side of the question, "resolved, that the best way to solve the wartime food problem is for the Federal Government to draft and subsidize labor for farms at the average prevailing industrial wages."

Ten minutes will also be allowed each of the four finalists chosen to participate in the last round. These contestants, too, may speak on either side of the question.

Individual performance and not team participation will be the de-

CA Anniversary Reception To Review Past Activities

Approaching its 68th anniversary, the PSCA will substitute its annual banquet with a reception in Old Main first floor lounge, 7:30 Monday evening, according to Reagan Houston and Patricia A. Middleton, co-chairmen of the committee.

Donations from tickets sent to members of the faculty and students interested in CA activities will be sent to the World Student Service Fund.

All PSCA projects throughout the year will be presented as the main theme. Dr. Fred B. Iglar, executive secretary of the CA of the University of Pennsylvania, will be featured as main speaker discussing "The Role and Function of Religion and Education in a Democracy at War."

PSCA leaders on campus will be presented with a brief talk by each. Dr. Iglar is also on schedule for Chapel speaker Sunday.

Marines To Begin Recruiting Coeds; Harvest Ball To Crown Queen Tonight

Campus Owls To Play; Tickets Still Available

With more than 1500 votes already cast, the three coed contestants for Harvest Ball Queen—Margaret L. Good, Elizabeth J. Bratton, and Jane Vernon—are running even as they come into the stretch. At the finish line during intermission of the dance tonight, the winner will be presented with a cup, according to Harry J. Hofmeister.

Balloting will continue at the Corner Room and Student Union until noon today.

Following an Ag Student Council meeting last night, came the announcement that the entire proceeds of Harvest Ball will be used to buy War Bonds. This is the first committee in the history of Penn State dance history to contribute its entire profit to the war effort.

Tickets for the dance will remain on sale at Student Union all day today and will be available at the door for $1.10, Hofmeister said.

Featured at the Ball will be George Washko and the Campus Owls who will provide music from 9 to 1 a. m. To blend with the rustic decorations and informality of the dance, the Owls will play a special arrangement of the latest dance sensation, the "Hokey-Pokey," in addition to their regular numbers.

Minus Bill Keefeauver, star trombonist, the "Octet" will play several selections including "Where or When," "Sunny Side," "All of (Continued On Page Two)

Model Congress Considers Postwar World Problems

Representatives of 18 Pennsylvania colleges and universities, forming a model Congress, will meet this morning to debate and vote upon bills dealing with the postwar situation. The sitting of the group will be the final action of the weekend's eighth annual Pennsylvania Debaters' Convention.

The convention began yesterday with committee sessions in which bills were introduced, considered and drafted. With Hoover and Gibson's "Problems of Lasting Peace" as the basis, three separate groups discussed "The Immediate Postwar Settlement" and "Postwar World Organization."

President of the convention is Frank E. Zabar, representative from the College, while Robert S. MacNabb, also of State, is chairman. Other officers are Jean McKinney, University of Pittsburgh, vice president; George C. Deffenbaugh, State, secretary.

Professor John H. Frizzell, head of the department of speech, was toastmaster at a banquet at the State College Hotel last night, while Henry J. Bruman, of the division of geography was guest speaker.

The convention adjourns at 12:30 this afternoon following election of officers.

Phi Epsilon Pi Elects

At a recent meeting of Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, the following officers were elected: Bernard Cross, president; Robert Klein, vice-president; Ivan Schoff, treasurer; Melvin Greenwald, secretary; Louis Acker, corresponding secretary.

Extends Invitations

Raymond A. Zaroda, Penn State Club president, extended an invitation in an open letter to I. F. C. prexy Henry Keller to all fraternity evacuees, welcoming them to the use of the social facilities of the Club lounge in Old Main.

Army Pre-Flight Men Will Mingle In Penn State Life—Warnock

"Every attempt will be made to blend the life of the Army Pre-Flight men with the life of the college," said Dean of Men Arthur R. Warnock as he addressed members of Interfraternity Council last night.

Suggestions were made to the effect that servicemen, stationed at Penn State, be allowed to affiliate with the various fraternal groups if they so chose. After discussion, the subject was referred to a committee of three to report at the next meeting of IFC.

An invitation by the Penn State Club urging homeless fraternity men to congregate in Old Main Lounge was read. All the privileges of PSC members will be extended to the fraternity men who wish to spend their leisure with or without dates in the Lounge, the invitation said.

Food, Rooms, Travel Cramp Mother's Day

Crowded rooming conditions, shortage of food, and crowded trains and buses constitute the chief reasons Mother's Day weekend, cancelled by WSGA Senate Wednesday night, will definitely not be held this semester.

Mothers would probably be more uncomfortable than happy over such a weekend just now, Ruth M. Storer, president of WSGA, stated. Since many of the men whose fraternity houses have been taken over by the Army are now living in rooming houses and hotels, these places formerly open to visitors are not available.

The program, scheduled for April 17-18, would come at a time when men in the service would be using trains and buses for furloughs. Rather than risk a weekend which would provide such inconveniences and mark coeds as unpatriotic besides, WSGA cancelled the program for this semester Wednesday night.

Officers Arrive Here For First Interviews

Officers from the Pittsburgh bureau of the Marine Corps will arrive on campus Wednesday morning to interview all coeds interested in enlisting for active duty with the Women's Reserve of the Marine Corps.

Captain Frank M. Page will head this first recruiting party to visit the College to register coeds for service with the armed forces, and will be accompanied by Captain Smith of USMC, and Lieutenant Smith, USMC Women's Reserve.

Headquarters will be established in 302 and 305, Old Main, where interested women may discuss qualifications and requirements for final enlistment in several weeks. During conferences next Wednesday, no physical or mental examinations will be given, but staff doctors will return in the near future to examine interested coeds.

Those women who show capabilities for duty with the Marines, will be given application blanks to fill before the officers return to complete the enlistments, Captain Page added.

Applicants for commissions should be in the present graduating class, or should have had two years of college and two years of business experience. Those who want consideration as enlisted personnel must be from 20 to 36 years of age, while the range for the officers candidates is from 20 to 50.

Previously, women have only been able to enlist for active duty in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, the Semper Paratus Always Ready group, which works with the Coast Guard, and the WAVES, branch of the United States Navy. With the advent of Marine recruitings, coeds are now able to join any branch of the Armed forces in which they are able to meet qualifications.
